FRIENDLY DUCKS SWARM VISITOR

The ducks who make their home in the Marin Civic Center lagoon once were very shy and had to be coaxed to leave the water to be fed. Yesterday, however, Independent-Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn was mobbed by the colorful fowl when he drove up to the lagoon. The now friendly ducks apparently have come to expect food from all visitors.

Bugging Gag Order Said Illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A federal judge's sweeping order Wednesday banning public statements about the Watergate incident by anyone connected with the case was challenged by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield today as unwise and illegal.

Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern also said he would continue to talk about the break-in and bugging.

President Nixon declined to comment directly on the case at a news conference today.

He did say, however, that the FBI has assigned 133 agents to the case, has checked out 1,800 leads and conducted 1,500 interviews.

"I conducted an investigation of the (Alger) Hiss case and that investigation was a Sunday School picnic compared to the amount of effort put into this," he added.

"One thing that has always puzzled me is why anyone would want to get in or out of the Watergate," he said. But since it happened, he said, a thorough investigation is continuing.

The order was issued by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who conceded when questioned by a reporter that it could possibly apply to McGovern and other political candidates and conceivably create questions about news media discussion of the case.

Sirica said if such questions were raised they would be dealt with "at the proper time." Mansfield and McGovern raised them quickly.

Mansfield said, "I have grave doubts about the wisdom and legality of the judge's dictum. He's painted his position with too broad a brush. It's an infringement on the First Amendment guarantees of freedom of speech and a free press."

McGovern issued a campaign trail statement saying he discussed the order with Democratic lawyers and concluded that it could not force him to stop talking about the break in and bugging of Democratic headquarters at the Watergate complex in Washington June 17.

Mansfield was asked if the case was a legitimate campaign issue. "That's up to the candidates," he said, "but in this campaign evidently anything is legitimate."

The Senate's senior Republican, George Aiken of Vermont, also questioned the order, calling it futile.

"The order could not extend to members of Congress in any case," Aiken told a reporter. "And how's he going to enforce it against 200 million people? It's a futile order."

A few hours before the order, the Los Angeles Times published an interview with Alfred C. Baldwin, an admitted participant in the bugging whose testimony to a grand jury was followed by indictment of seven persons.

Sirica's order was aimed at protecting the rights of the defendants. He said he intended to make it "as broad as I could." The order encompasses "such matters as extrajudicial statements by parties and witnesses likely to interfere with the rights of the accused to a fair trial by an impartial jury ... and any other matters which the court may deem appropriate for inclusion."

The request for the order was

Nixon: We Won't End The Bombing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today ruled out any halt to the bombing of North Vietnam before the Nov. 7 election, saying former President Lyndon B. Johnson made a "very, very great mistake" when he did so just before the 1968 election.

Nixon told a news conference in his oval office the war could be settled before Nov. 7 —if the right kind of settlement could be made —but he said the balloting "will not in any way influence what we do at the negotiating table."

The Johnson administration, he said, though well intentioned, "made a very, very great mistake in stopping the bombing without adequate agreements from the other side." He referred to Johnson's Nov. 1, 1968, announcement of a bombing halt just days before Nixon defeated Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidency.

"We are not going to make that mistake now," Nixon declared.

Asked about the charge by Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern that his administration is riddled with corruption, Nixon predicted that would "turn off" the voters.

Standing behind his desk and speaking in tones so low they were difficult to hear, Nixon took note of McGovern's corruption charges and accusations that U.S. policy in Vietnam was "the worst crime since the Nazi extermination of the Jews."

"Some of my more partisan supporters have said I should respond in kind," Nixon said. "But I'm not going to dignify such comments with a reply."

McGovern has been hitting daily on the corruption theme this week in campaigning in the East. He sounded it first at the UPI Editors and Publishers Conference in Washington Monday, saying the administration was the most corrupt in the nation's history.

Nixon summoned newsmen in to his Oval Office for the 25th news conference since his inauguration almost four years ago. It was the seventh news conference this year. It was not broadcast or telecast.

On the question of taxes, he pledged not to raise taxes next year and said he would go on

Flag Is Stolen For Second Time

A huge, 24-by-40-foot American flag was stolen today for a second time from Marin Bay Lincoln Mercury on Francisco Boulevard.

Hercules L. Viglienzone, owner of the firm, said the $400 flag — which flutters throughout the night amid spotlights — was taken between 3:30 a.m. when last noticed by patroling police, and 425 a.m. when California highway patrolmen noticed it was gone.

Viglienzone has offered a $500 reward for the arrest and conviction of the thief.

The flag was first stolen Sept. 24 and later recovered when an apologetic thief called and said it was stashed behind a sign near McNear's Beach on South San Pedro Road in San Rafael.

Waterfront Plan To Be Discussed

A multimillion-dollar residential-commercial-recreational development, proposed for the 30-acre Schoonmaker property on the Sausalito waterfront, will be considered by the city's planning commission at a special meeting at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

According to Commission Chairman Robert L. Nissen, the commission will discuss whether the uses proposed in the development are compatible with zoning in the area and Sausalito's general plan.

Plans by O'Meare-Chandler, a Texas development firm, call for 223 residential units, a motel, restaurant, commercial area and Marina on the land between Napa and Spring streets in Marinship.

The commission will also discuss a houseboat ordinance proposed for the city.

Airline Passenger's Guide Issued By U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government issued an airline passenger's survival guide today designed to aid travelers who face such problems as these:

—Their baggage is in Rome, Italy, and they are in St. Louis, Mo.

—They have a reservation, but the airline has no seat for them on the plane.

—The airline ticket they bought was not the cheapest one for their flight, but they didn't find out about the other fare until after the flight was over.

Called "A Consumer Guide For Air Travelers," the booklet was issued by the Civil Aeronautics Board's Office of Consumer Affairs and will be distributed to airlines, consumer organizations and travel agencies.

The booklet tells airline passengers what to do when faced with "one of the most irritating of all" problems—lost baggage, which is the single greatest complaint received by airlines. But the booklet also warns passengers not to try to cheat the airlines.

"Exceptionally large claims which exaggerate the value of baggage contents — claiming large amounts of cash or jewelry, for example — are checked by the airlines and phony claims are usually detected," the booklet says.

It also advises passengers to be sure that they know the lowest cost of a ticket. "It's a good idea to check with the airline when planning a trip to see if you qualify for a special fare," the booklet says.

Consumer groups recently have charged some airlines fail to advise passengers of the lowest possible fare between two points.

The booklet also details what steps a passenger should take if his flight has been overbooked. It cites the regulations which require the airlines to pay passengers a "denied boarding compensation" if the airline was responsible for the passenger's loss of his seat.

But it also warns the passenger to make sure he shows up at the airport on time for his flight, and to reconfirm his reservation where necessary.

The booklet even includes a definition of what consumerism means to the airline passenger.

Says the booklet: "It is the customer receiving what he pays for, no more, no less. It is the holder of a transportation ticket expecting and receiving certain minimum standards of service en route to his destination, and an uneventful reunion with his baggage once he arrives there."

Quality Act To Be Subject Of Session

The San Rafael City Council will meet in special session today at 5:30 p.m. to consider effect of the Environmental Quality Act of 1970, upon development in the city, according to Marion A. Grady, city clerk.

The council will discuss a recent state Supreme Court ruling which requires that an environmental impact report be drawn up for any development having a "non-trivial" impact on the environment.

New Offer For Peace By Cong

PARIS (UPI)—The Viet Cong said today it is ready to discuss "concrete" guarantees not to seize power in South Vietnam if the United States agrees to the creation of a new cabinet in Saigon with a minority Communist participation.

The offer was made by Mme. Nguyen Thi Binh, the Viet Cong foreign minister and chief negotiator, at today's 162nd Vietnam conference session.

The U.S. and South Vietnamese delegations, which have condemned the coalition plan as a maneuver to allow the Communists to dominate South Vietnam, turned a deaf ear to the new Viet Cong offer. They again vainly urged a general cease-fire and direct political talks between the Communists and Saigon.

U.S. negotiator William J. Porter walked out of the 3½-hour session, one of the shortest on record, formed a nought with his left hand thumb and forefinger and said, "We did our best and the result was zero."

The Saigon delegate walked out of the conference hall telling newsmen the session was fruitless.

"We have tried to engage the Communists in a discussion of an internationally controlled cease-fire," he said. "We didn't get anywhere. We will meet again next Thursday."

Madame Binh said Porter again cold-shouldered the Sept. 11 Viet Cong plan for a coalition cabinet as a move raising new hurdles before the conference.

"I leave it to you to judge the true intention of the U.S. government to make peace in Vietnam," Madame Binh said.

Thuy said: "I have one remark — our positions remain far apart."

The offer was backed by a warning by both Madame Binh and Hanoi delegate Xuan Thuy that peace will come only if South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu is removed from power and replaced by a new tripartite coalition cabinet.

The 46-year-old Viet Cong woman politician said the United States was distorting the picture when it claimed the Viet Cong sought to seize control of the new cabinet it wants to form with the Saigon administration minus Thieu and neutral elements.

She said the Viet Cong already had offered to reach an agreeent with Washington that South Vietnam would be dominated by "neither a Communist regime nor a U.S. pupet regime."

"We are also prepared to work out, together with other parties, concrete measures to implement this agreement," she said.

Madame Binh's and other delegation statements made it clear the form of the South Vietnamese regime was the key to an early peace.

The Communists demanded Thieu's head although Porter and Saigon's deputy representative Nguyen Wuan Phong again condemned the tripartite coalition plan.

Porter called the plan "an arbitrary, illogical formula." He urged an immediate cease-fire throughout Indochina followed within four months by a complete U.S. military pullout, plus direct talks between the Communists and the Thieu government as proposed on May 8 by President Nixon.

Madame Binh said: "In order to achieve national concord, we will consider the Saigon administration as an equal segment participating in the provisional government of national concord: we only demand that Nguyen Van Thieu resign and the Saigon administration change its policy."

She rejected the U.S. supported Thieu plan for new presidential elections in the South, charging they would "legalize the U.S. puppet administration." She said, that by contrast the Viet Cong's plan for election of a new constituent assembly organized by the tripartite cabinet would insure a free choice for the population.

Before walking into the conference hall, Thuy told newsmen the gap between the U.S. and Communist positions remained as wide as ever.

Grasso New Police Chief For Fairfax

15-Year Vet Of Force Fourth To Hold Post

Charles A. Grasso, longtime veteran of the Fairfax Police Department who missed a chance to become chief 10 years ago, was appointed last night to the top post.

The 38-year-old Grasso, who first joined the Fairfax force in 1957 as a patrolmen, has been acting chief of police, holding the rank of lieutenant, since James R. Orr was removed last September.

Grasso was recommended for the post by City Administrator Robert E. Crowe and appointed by the city council following a three-hour closed session.

The unanimous action came after the council had interviewed Grasso and another candidate, Lt. Nicholas Galiotte of the Mountain View police force.

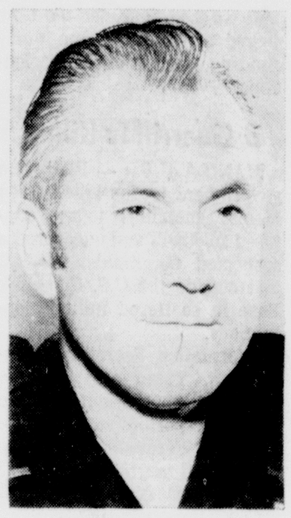

Police Sgt. Frank Benaderet of Palo Alto, a third candidate recommended for the post by a screening board, dropped out of the race late yesterday afternoon after accepting a job with Stanford University.

In recommending Grasso for the post, Crowe told the council that the acting chief "has performed well during the past year... demonstrated loyalty... and is known and trusted by the people of Fairfax. He is fair and even-handed, and knows that small-town discretion must be used."

Mayor Albert E. Gately said today the council unanimously agreed that Grasso was the most qualified candidate.

Grasso was "very pleased" with the council's decision, and added that Sgt. Andy J. Grimes would be promoted to lieutenant.

Grasso, the fourth police chief in the city's history, served under his three predecessors.

He missed his first opportunity to become chief 10 years ago when job specifications were prepared secretly to prevent anyone then a member of the Fairfax force from becoming chief.

Grasso, then 29, didn't meet the minimum age of 30 set by the council and City Atty. Wallace S. Myers behind closed doors. Orr was tapped for the post at that time.

Wholesale Prices Up In September

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices went up 0.3 per cent in September, mainly because of higher prices for food, gasoline and other fuels, the government said today.

Egg, milk and grain price increases more than offset declines for meat, fruits and vegetables as the price index for farm products and processed foods and feeds went up 0.6 per cent last month, the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

This followed a 0.2 per cent decline in the raw and processed farm products and food index for August, but was still far under increases ranging from 1.1 up to 2.2 per cent in the previous three months.

This two-month moderation of food price increases appeared to bear out administration predictions that the sharp surge in food prices earlier this year would taper off. The report was welcome news for President Nixon less than five weeks before the November election.

Industrial commodity prices went up only 0.2 per cent, a little less than average for the past two years. About a third of this increase was due to higher prices for fuels, mainly gasoline.

The overall Wholesale Price Index (WPI) stood at 120.2 in September, which meant that goods which cost $10 at wholesale in 1967 were priced at $12.02 last month.

This was 5 per cent above the previous September. However, wholesale prices during the first 10 months of Nixon's Phase II economic controls went up 5.7 per cent through the end of September, which was higher than the 5.2 per cent increase in 1971 prior to his Aug. 15 wage-price freeze.

Red Unit Beaten On Saigon Road

SAIGON (UPI)—Communist troops trying to cut Highway 4 near Saigon wounded three children, an elderly man and an amputee Army veteran today in an attack on a village that was repulsed by South Vietnamese militiamen and tanks, field reports said.

The reports said a band of Viet Cong firing B40 rocket-propelled grenades and AK47 rifles invaded the village of Dong My Tay on Highway 4 about 60 miles southwest of Saigon. The highway connects the capital with rice-growing regions of the Mekong Delta.

A small unit of national guardsmen fought off the Communists until militia units with about 10 tanks reached the village and stopped the attack. The only reported casualties were those of the civilians in the village, field reports said.

The attack lent further credence to allied intelligence predictions that the Communists would try to block key roads leading into Saigon to isolate the city and its three million residents prior to attacks timed to coincide with the U.S. presidential election Nov. 7.

To blunt the threatened Communist attack on the capital, U.S. spokesmen said today B52 bombers blasted targets near Saigon with nearly 1,000 tons of explosives in the second consecutive day of punishin air strikes in the area.

More than 30 of the strategic bombers flew 10 missions early today over the five provinces around the capital, the closest 25 miles from the city center, the U.S. command said. They were the second consecutive overnight raids by the big planes in the Saigon area.

U.S. fighter-bombers flew 41 strikes in support of government troops in Military Region III—the 11-province area surrounding Saigon—in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today but spokesmen said pilots reported no "significant" results from the raids.

Command spokesmen also reported the remnants of Typhoon Lorna for the second day sharply limited U.S. bombing missions over North Vietnam despite the return toombat duty of all-weather F111 bombers. The command said the controversial swingwing jets returned to the air war Wednesday for the first time since an early morning strike Friday, a day after one of the $15 million planes crashed from "unknown" causes.

Dyan Sees No '73 War In Mideast

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan says he does not expect another Arab-Israel war in the coming year, but if war breaks out the Soviet Union would not actively participate.

Dayan, meeting in his suburban Tel Aviv home with a delegation from a United Jewish Appeal conference Wednesday night, was quoted in a government press office communique as telling the American group:

"Under present conditions, he did not expect the Arabs to renew war against Israel in the coming year.

"Although the Soviet Union has not completely abandoned its position in the Mediterranean region, it must be assumed that the Russians had learned their lesson and come to the conclusion not to take an active part in a war with Israel."

Israeli Retorts To Report Of 'Unrest'

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—An Israeli official today dismissed as "acrimonious" and "public polemics" Jordanian claims of unrest and defection within Israel.

Jordanian Foreign Minister Salah Abu Zeid told the U.N. General Assembly Wednesday that there were "internal rumblings" from within Israel, partially brought about by "realization among Israelis that an injustice has been done to Palestinians."

"The Jordanian foreign minister's acrimonious statement has again demonstrated that public polemics cannot contribute to the search for understanding between the parties to the Middle East conflict and that quiet, reticent dialogue is the only way toward peaceful agreement," an Israeli delegation spokesman commented.

Zeid advocated collective world action to force Israel out of the Arab territory it occupied in the 1967 war.

Ten foreign ministers were scheduled to be heard in the continuing policy debate but Mohammed Hassan El-Zayyat, foreign minister of Egypt, postponed his appearance until later without explanation. U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers scheduled a luncheon today with African foreign ministers and diplomatic sources said the meeting was part of Rogers efforts toward a treaty against world terrorism.

Backless Dress Held Indecent

BANGKOK (UPI) — Women who wear backless dresses in the daytime and men who go shirtless will be arrested for indecent exposure, a police official said today.

Police Maj. Amphon Surathin, chief law enforcement officer in a central business area of Bangkok, said that three arrests already have been made.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Britain's Entry

"Humiliating and destructive. Unacceptable. Grovelling. The most abject surrender of Britain's rights to the French."

The 1,200 delegates to the Labor party's annual convention exploded into applause as he denounced the terms negotiated by Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservative party government for taking Britain into the Common Market Jan. 1, 1973.

Then they gave Wilson a series of votes that endorsed his pledge to renegotiate the terms and patched over, for the time being at least, Labor party feuding over "entering Europe."

3 Guerrillas Killed

MANILA (UPI) — Philippine government troops killed three Maoist guerrillas today, captured 20 others and uncovered a suspected Communist hospital just outside the U.S. Clark Air Base in scattered military operations.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad told a news briefing the operations were the biggest reported so far since President Ferdinand E. Marcos proclaimed martial law Sept. 23 to crush what his regime called a Communist uprising.

In the latest encounter by military authorities from the field, three guerrillas of the Maoist New Peoples Army were killed in a 30-minute gun battle in Bulacan province 40 miles north of Manila.

German Manhunt

BONN (UPI) — German security agents launched a nation-wide manhunt for the estimated 1,800 members of two Palestinian organizations yesterday evening an hour before the government announced the two groups had been banned.

Arab sources in Bonn said police raided student dormitories and Arab apartments in practically every major city in the country, arresting numerous persons and confiscating all their possessions — in one case a can of olive oil.

"Many of our people managed to escape the raids," a Palestinian student told UPI by telephone. "They are hiding out now, but sooner or later they will probably be caught."

Tax Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Unable to agree on how to reform a welfare system described as an intolerable "mess" by liberals and conservatives alike, the Senate has approved three tax subsidies designed to induce the poor to take jobs.

When piled one atop another, these subsidies would have the Treasury provide nearly a third of the income of a $3,300-a-year worker.

His employer would pay out only $2,260 of his wages and the government would provide the rest, either in direct payments or in tax savings for his employer.

The plans were adopted yesterday at the same time the Senate voted to junk — for five years or more — all attempts to revise the welfare system which is the main support for 11 million mothers and children and the target of sharp taxpayer resentment.

Merrick Competitor

PESCARA, Italy (UPI) — Thomas Merrick has found competition.

Italian hotel owner Antonio Zimei wants to buy the Colosseum too. And he says his terms are better.

"If they take his offer seriously, why shouldn't they consider mine?" Zimei asked after announcing his bid to the press. "After all, I'm offering three times as much."

Merrick, a Los Angeles industrialist, had announced he was willing to buy the crumbling Roman arena for $1 million, restore it and reopen it to the public for a fee.

Zimei, 42, who made a fortune in Caracas, said he could not raise as much cash as Merrick. All he could pay right away, he said, was $100,000, but he was ready to throw his hotel in nearby Montelsilvano into the deal. And that, he said, is worth $2.58 million.

'Work Bench' Surgeon

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An Oregon surgeon reported today that he has taken a part out of the human body, carried it to a work bench for repairs, and then plugged it back into the patient where it began working properly.

The part repaired by Dr. Russel L. Lawson was the kidney, but he told the American College of Surgeons that similar outside-the-body work could be done on the heart and liver. He said it was the first time such an operation had been performed.

Lawson removed and cooled the kidneys of two patients — a 31-year-old man and 21-year-old woman — and made repairs of lesions in the renal arteries.

Nod To Appointees

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate confirmed today President Nixon's nomination of Chester M. Wiggin Jr., Contoocook, N.H., as a new member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and Rupert L. Murphy to a new term on the agency.

S. Yemen Killings

BEIRUT (UPI) — Southern Yemen rebels destroyed an airliner carrying high-ranking members of the Marxist Southern government and killed all aboard, the Middle East News Agency said today.

In a dispatch from Sanaa, capital of North Yemen, the Agency sad: "A Dakota plane (DC3) of Southern Yemen landed at Ain airport in Beihan area (a Southern Yemeni town) close to the Northern border with a large number of the political bureau of the National Liberation Front (the ruling Adeni party) and a number of military personnel aboard.

"They were on a visit to the area of fighting between Southern and North Yemen.

Drawing The Line

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled yesterday that college administrators do not enjoy the same power to regulate students' hair styles and length as do high school officials.

"There comes a time when its (college) interest in teaching hygiene, instilling discipline, asserting authority and compelling uniformity all become so tenuous as to no longer be reasonably related to — nor efficiently fostered by — a haircut regulation," Justice Charles Clark said in the majority opinion.

Sitting in full court to review the case of three Texas youths denied admission to Tyler Junior College in 1970 because of their hair lengths, the circuit court split 9-6 in ruling against the school officials.

Wives' Views Differ On Dying For Thieu

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—Mrs. Pat Nixon and her daughter Julie Nixon Eisenhower were asked recently if they would die for the regime of Souuth Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu. Mrs. Eisenhower said yes. The First Lady indicated likewise.

Mrs. Eleanor McGovern, wife of the Democratic presidential candidate, was asked the same question Wednesday. Her answer was "no." But, she said, that "doesn't mean I would not be willing to die for something that represents what we want to protect in the world."

Cambridge Colleges Admit Girl Students

CAMBRIDGE, England (UPI)—Three Cambridge colleges have admitted girls for the first time. One college said it will allow men and women to visit each other's rooms.

A total of 122 women undergraduate and graduate students took up residence at the previously all-male Clare, King's and Churchill Colleges this week.

Marin Lawyers Accused Of Prison Violations

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin County attorneys are among seven Bay Area lawyers who have been accused by the state attorney general's office of knowingly violating prison regulations in behalf of inmate clients.

The accusations, alleging offenses ranging from smuggling of weapons to surreptitious exchanges of letters, was made in a petition appealing the state Supreme Court's recent unanimous decision strictly limiting examination of inmate mail by prison officials.

Named in the document, filed by Deputy Atty. Gen. Charles R. B. Kirk, were attorneys Robert D. Carrow of Novato, Lawrence D. Weiss of San Rafael, John Thorne, once attorney for George Jackson; Fay Stender; Stephen Bingham, said to have smuggled a pstol to Jackson in 1971 at San Quentin and missing since Jackson was killed shortly after in a violent episode, igniting a breakout attempt, and an attorney identified only as "Y."

The petition asserted that the Supreme Court erred in its ruling by assuming attorneys would not deliberately violate state law and prison regulations to help their clients.

Kirk told the Independent-Journal today the petition alleges that Weiss on three occasions furtively exchanged mail or stamps with inmate Lewis Talamantez, accused in the 1971 San Quentin breakout try, and that Carrow, who represents Ruchell Magee, represented two magazine or newspaper writers as witnesses in a Magee case in order to provide interviews with the inmate.

Until a recent court ruling, interviews with specific inmates had been banned by state prison authorities.

Carrow told the I-J today that the writers entered the prison under court order. The writers were at that time and still are prospective witnesses in the Magee case, growing out of the August 1970 shoot-out at the Marin County Hall of Justice.

Weiss could not be reached for comment.

Kirk was unaware if criminal action would be taken against the seven. The petition said attorney "Y" may have cooperated in an escape plot.

Bicycle Is Stolen While Owner Shops

A 10-speed bicycle valued at $100 was reported stglen yesterday while its owner was in a store on Fourth Street in San Rafael.

BUGGING

Baldwin said in the Times interview that he personally delivered to the Committee for the Re-election of the President transcripts of some eavesdropping conversations, which he said were recorded at a motel across the street from the Watergate by bugging devices placed secretly in the offices.

He did not name the person for whom the transcripts were intended at the committee, but said he was not one of those under indictment. Three of the men under indictment were formerly connected with the committee.

The Times said lawyers for Baldwin first approved a copy of two reporters' account of the interview. The newspaper said that after learning of Sirica's order, the lawyers asked that the story be withheld for fear Baldwin might be cited for contempt of court for talking about the case.

The Times said it decided to go ahead with the story anyway.

Mansfield observed:

"If the press is muzzled, then the people have to rely on government handouts for their news. If you have a muzzled press you have a muzzled democracy."

Juror Won't Be Paid In Silver

SEATTLE (UPI)—An airlines pilot lost his bid Wednesday to be paid in gold and silver coin for work as a King County juror.

Superior Court Judge Erle Horswill ruled that the county treasurer can pay William W. Niendorff in U.S. currency as defined in the legal tender act.

Niendorff, an employe of Northwest Airlines, contended that the U.S. Constitution provides that all debts be paid in gold and silver.

However, the judge said Niendorff failed to considar another section of the Constitution that grants Congress the power to "coin money (and) regulate the value thereof."

GOP Complaint On Protests

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Republican National Committee today filed a complaint with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee that Sen. George McGovern's supporters advocated antiwar demonstrations during President Nixon's campaign swing through California.

"Promotional fliers of the most inflammatory sort were openly distributed from McGovern headquarters," said GOP national co-chairman Anne Armstrong in the complaint.

During Nixon's visit Sept. 27, about 200 persons demonstrated in San Francisco and 10,000 in Los Angeles.

Oldest Page In U.S. In Library

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — What may be the oldest dictionary page preserved in the U.S. is a ninth-century manuscript fragment that has been presented to the Dartmouth College Library.

The rare item is a vellum leaf from a Glossarum written in northern France before 850 A.D. On both sides of the sheet are five columns of manuscript on alphabetical listings under the letter R.

The Glossarum leaf, earliest specimen in Dartmouth's collection, was donated by Mark Lansburgh, Colorado Springs, Colo., art historian and an authority on medieval manuscripts.

Biggest Enemy: Mowing Machine

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Probably the biggest hazard that pheasants in New York face is the mowing machine.

During the peak of the state's pheasant population in the late 1930s, mowing was not started until about the Fourth of July. By this time about 80 per cent of the pheasant nests had hatched.

It has since been found that June hay is better for cattle. Mowing now usually starts during the first week in June, when fewer than 20 per cent of the nests have hatched.

About the only solution is to leave unmowed land along fences, farm lanes and in odd corners around the farm, to decoy the pheasant hens away from hayfields.

Sewer Plan Cost Study To Be Made

The San Rafael Sanitation District board last night postponed acceptance of a low bid on construction regarding the Bayside Acres Sewer Assessment District until a citizen's committee can study costs involved in the project.

Costs for the project may run $180,000 more than estimated, according to Virginia Congdon, board secretary. She said that the board postponed acceptance of a low bid of $570,000 by Prodanovich, Inc. until Nov.1.

Citizens appointed last night to a committee charged with examining project costs and exploring avenues of federal funding are Wayne Kirk, Bruce MacPhail, George Jones and Robert Kolb.

Though engineers have estimated the total cost of the project to be about $686,000, figures presented several weeks ago showed the cost might run as high as $866,000.

Assault Case To Higher Court

Jerry Amos Smith, 18, of Santa Venetia has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of assaulting a Marin sheriff's deputy with a knife.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear for arraignment in the higher court next Thursday.

Answering a report of a disturbance, deputies tried to quiet Smith June 2, but he allegedly fought them off with a knife, then threw it at one of the deputies.

He surrendered only after being Maced and teargassed.

He has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity.

End To 18-Year Marriage Sought

The wife of the Tamalpais High School District public information director filed suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court to dissolve their marriage of almost 18 years.

Carol Neumeier, a counselor at Redwood High School, asked for the split from her husband, Edward J. Neumeier, on grounds of irreconcilable differences.

She asked for custody of the couple's two children, Edward, 15, and Shelley, 6, plus support for herself and the children.

The Neumeiers were married Dec. 18, 1954, in San Bernardino, and separatej on Sept. 5.

Sudan's Cabinet Out After Ballot

CAIRO (UPI) — President Jaafar Numeiry of the Sudan has accepted the resignation of his government following elections, the Middle East News Agency said today.

Quoting Omdurman radio, the agency said the resignation followed the elections which ended Wednesday night and which resulted in the formation of a people's council.

The radio said the resignation involved ministers, deputy ministers, directors of the state-owned commercial establishments, the president of the Bank of Sudan, and the general directors of the presidency and prime ministerial affairs.

How To Solve Opium Problem

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - American party presidential candidate John G. Schmitz would defoliate opium poppy fields in China whether the Chinese wanted him to or not, if elected president.

"There is no problem taking care of these poppy fields," Schmitz said during an airport interview Tuesday. He also advocated a three-way school system to solve the integration problem.

"I would have voted for a three-tier system — have one school that all blacks could go to, one school that all whites could go to and those who want to mix go to a third school."

Rodgers To Host Dinner For Chiao

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary of State William P. Rogers, in an unexpected friendly move, will host a dinner tonight for China's vice minister of foreign affairs, Chiao Kuan-Hua, diplomatic sources said today.

The State Department in Washington declined to comment on the report but did not deny it. Chinese sources also reported the dinner meeting but would give no details.

NIXON

nationwide radio Saturday to explain his tax policy.

Nixon also promised property tax relief if re-elected.

"There will be no tax increase in 1973," he declared.

As for McGovern's campaign tactics, Nixon said he would not characterize McGovern's conducting a "smear" campaign but he noted that "one of the few members of Congress who is publicly and actively supporting the opposition" had criticized McGovern's campaign tactics. Nixon referred to Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif.

Nixon has not yet publicly mentioned McGovern's name during the campaign —and he didn't again at the news conference.

Nixon was asked ie he believed the Vietnam war could be settled before election day.

"If we can make the right kind of settlement before the election, we will make it," Nixon said. "If we cannot, we are not going to make the wrong kind of settlement before the election.

"We were around that track in 1968 when well-intentioned men made a very, very great mistake in stopping the bombing without adequate agreements from the other side.

"The election, I repeat, will not in any way influence what we do at the negotiating table."

Nixon said the United States was seeking a settlement which would prevent "the imposition by force of a Communist government in South Vietnam" and guarantee "the return of our prisoners of war."

Other highlights of the 40-minute session with newsmen, for which Nixon prepared Wednesday at his Camp David retreat:

—He insisted the 400-million bushel wheat sale to the Soviet Union was a good deal for the United States although he conceded the Russians needed the grain badly. He added that McGovern's charges of scandal in the sale were being thoroughly investigated.

—Nixon said the Watergate bugging case was being thoroughly investigated by the FBI and said he would not comment on it because of criminal charges pending against seven men who have already been indicted.

—While repeating his pledge to propose property tax relief, he said it would not include an increase in other taxes —thus ruling out a widely discussed value added tax. Nixon said the relief would be provided in stages and would be aimed primarily at the elderly.

He said he would support a constitutional amendment against busing in the next Congress but would prefer the legislative route.

He said if Congress failed "to provide relief from excessive busing orders, then I intend to find another way."

Flowers Replace A Parking Lot

YOSEMITE, Calif. (UPI)— Workers at Yosemite National Park are ripping up a parking lot and replacing it with plants and flowers.

National Park Service Director George B. Hartzog Jr. broke up a small piece of blacktop in a ceremony Wednesday to mark the elimination of 289 parking spaces on te floor of beautiful Yosemite Valley.

Park Superintendent Lynn H. Thompson said it was "another step to remove more blacktop from Yosemite Valley," and a continuation of the park's plan to decrease use of autos in the park.

Congressmen Attack Anti-Jewish Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A large, bipartisan block of senators has proposed legislation aimed at forcing the Soviet Union to drop its policy of levying heavy taxes on educated Jews seeking to emigrate to Israel.

The legislation, proposed by nearly 70 Democratic and Republican senators Wednesday, would bar expansion of Soviet-American trade unless Russia abandons the tax.

Peevey To Quit Job If Elected

Supervisorial candidate Michael R. Peevey declared last night that if elected he will resign from his job so he can work full time as a Marin County supervisor.

An economist, Peevey is research director for the California Labor Federation in San Francisco. He has worked for the federation off and on since 1965.

Peevey, opposing attorney Gary T. Giacomini for election in November in the fourth district, made his pledge last night at a coffee at Lagunitas School. "I have not arrived at this decision lightly," he said, "however, I do not believe any other course of action is possible," he said in a press statement.

"Marin County simply cannot afford to have part-time supervisors governing full-time department heads," he said.

4-H Organization Meeting Slated

A meeting to organize the San Rafael 4-H Club for 1972-73 will be held today at 7:30 p.m. in room 332 at Marin Civic Center, when interested parents may bring their children.

Membership in the 4-H club is open to San Rafael area boys and girls aged 9 to 19 years, according to Ruth Beckner, spokesman for the group, and club meetings are held on the fourth Tuesday of each month at San Rafael High School.

Mrs. Beckner said local 4-H events for October in Marin include a 4-H parade and festival on Sunday at 1 p.m. at Marion School, Novato, and a county 4-H leader meeting and potluck dinner at Tomales High School at 7:30 p.m. Oct. 10.

1-Man, 1-Vote Setup For Education Board Sought

The Marin County Board of Education indicated last night it wants itself reapportioned according to one-man, one-vote principles before next April's election.

The board, its geographical makeup unchanged since 1960, noted that the state Education Code left reapportionment to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, but said it wanted to meet with the committee first to propose ideas for redistricting.

Discussion of such proposals was scheduled for the Oct 25 board meeting.

Based on 1969 population figures supplied by the county schools staff, the board's seven members represent school attendance areas with populations ranging from 56,610 to 2,650.

Last night's move came a day after a Sacramento Superior Court judge ordered Sacramento County's school board to reapportion itself, noting that unequal population in member-represented districts violates the one-man, one-vote doctrine established some years ago by the U.S. Supreme Court.

While acknowledging the Marin board was mindful of the Sacramento case, Robert E. Spain, assistant county superintendent of schools, said reapportionment has been a goal of the agency for some time in view of the upcoming board election.

Board members, scope of their districts and 1969 population figures for each district are:

Area 1, William L. Sisk, Novato Unified School District, 38,400 persons; Area 2, Marilyn Crowell, San Rafael and Dixie districts, 56,610; Area 3, Patrick W. Pollock, San Anselmo, Fairfax, Lagunitas, Nicasio and Sir Francis Drake High School attendance areas, 28,640; Area 4, James A. Carroll, Kentfield, Ross, Larkspur, Reed and Redwood High School, 40,568.

Area 5, Glen E. Robinson, Mill Valley, Sausalito and Tamalpais High School, 36,750; Area 6, Lee C. Richardson Jr., Bolinas-Stinson, West Marin, Tamalpais and Tomales high schools 2,840, and Area 7, Arnold Dolcini, Tomales Elementary, Laguna, Lincoln, Union, Bodega Bay and Tomales and Petaluma high schools attendance area, 2,650.

The Marin County Board of Education also:

MEMBER — Watched as William L. Sisk, appointed to the board May 17, was sworn in to serve until 1975, voiding a Nov. 7 election. Sisk was the only candidate to file for the seat, formerly held by James A. Swenson.

APPOINTMENTS — Approved on first reading a policy change under which the county superintendent of schools must disclose names of candidates being considered for appointment to board posts. A successful citizen's suit was brought against the board this year when the names of candidates for a board vacancy were concealed from the press and public.

INSURANCE — Amid concern over the lack of competitive bids and cost factors, rejected adoption of elective health and group dental coverage for certificated personnel and board members. The issue will be discussed again by the board at its next meeting, however.

KENTFIELD — Was formally notified by Supt. Virgil L. Hollis of the temporary assignment of Deputy Supt. Byron Mauzy as superintendent of the Kentfield School District in the wake of the death of Supt. Anthony Bacich. Board members hoped for assurances Mauzy's stay would not be a long one.

CHILDREN — Learned of state approval to add a children's center program at the Pilgrim Park housing development in Los Ranchitos and of expansion plans at the San Rafael Children's Center, with budget and other details to be presented on both programs at the next meeting.

WATSON — Scheduled no action on a request by the Santa Clara County Board of Education to take a position on Proposition 14, the so-called Watson tax revision initiative on the Nov. 7 ballot.

REDEVELOPMENT — Heard a report on the adverse impact of community redevelopment agencies on school tax revenues, but took no action at this time.

STUDY — Adopted a basic course of study for local school district use, although concern was voiced over its usefulness and need.

QUENTIN — Approved high school graduation of inmates Elbert G. Blackmon and Willie C. Walker from the Bayview School program run by the county schools office and the state Department of Corrections at San Quentin Prison.

ENVIRONMENT — Approved a series of community meetings aimed at establishing an environmental educational program. San Anselmo City Councilman Lewis Stewart will head a citizen committee looking into various ways of introducing the program.

STULL — Approved on first reading guidelines for compliance with the Stull Bill, which calls for evaluation of teaching personnel and other requirements.

V.D. — Learned that Marin will be among 22 California counties providing orientation and teacher workshops on venereal disease education, based on a high incidence of gonorrhea in the county. Details under the state project will be furnished the board later.

Checks Case Bound Over To Superior Court

David Hennessy, 29, of Marinwood has been bound over to Marin Superior Court to appear Wednesday on five counts of writing checks on a defunct account.

Judge Gary W. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court ruled there was enough evidence to try him on the counts, but dismissed a sixth.

Hennessy was arrested Aug. 29 by Novato police at the Cala Market at 1530 Center Road when he allegedly tried to cash a check on an account closed in May.

Police said 70 checks totaling $5,400 have been cashed on the closed account. Hennessy was first charged with three conts, but they were dismissed when the district attorney was not prepared for a preliminary hearing. The complaint was refiled with six counts.

Dean Martin Seeks Speed-Up For Divorce

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Dean Martin has asked for permission to have his marriage dissolved immediately and work out the property settlement later with his wife Jeanne, who he married 22 yers ago.

An attorney for Mrs. Martin said the singer-actor wants quick action so he can remarry. Mrs. Martin reportedly seeks a settlement of $11 million.

Boy Kidnap Victim Is Found Safe

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)— Park ranger Donald Jones was jogging along a deserted road in the Oakland hills Wednesday when he heard the whimpering of a small child.

Jones peered into the dense underbrush at the side of the road and saw a boy standing in an almost-dry creek bed wearing blue-checked pants and a tear-stained, soiled white tee shirt.

It was Raymond Luce, 4, who had been kidnaped from a street corner near his home Monday.

Jones immediately flagged a passing motorist and sent her to the Redwood Regional Park headquarters for help. A park vehicle took Raymond to a hospital while Oakland police picked up his parents at their home and sped them to the hospital for a tearful reunion.

"Raymond seems to be in good shape," said his father, Ralph Luce, 29, a truck driver, after seeing his son.

"He's in a bit of shock. He hasn't been able to talk yet. But aside from some bruises on his body he seems to be in good shape."

"It was beautiful," said the boy's mother, Judy, 22, with a joyful smile. "I just had a feeling this would be a lucky day."

Until Jones heard Raymond crying, there had been no real clues to his fate since Monday afternoon, when a playmate reported that a strange man had ordered the boy off his tricycle, then into the man's car.

The parents were at a loss as to the motive for the kidnaping.

New York Gets Antinoise Law

NEW YORK (UPI) —A comprehensive noise control code, described as the "boldest first step of any such legislation in effect in the country," was signed Wednesday by Mayor John V. Lindsay.

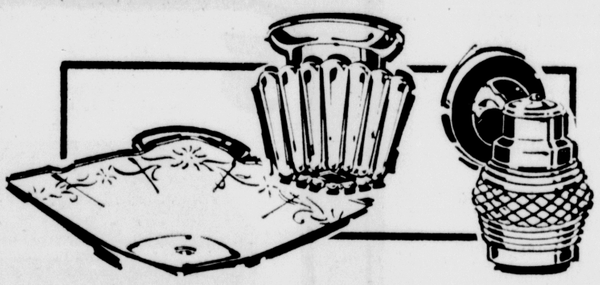

The code bans unnecessary noise from auto horns, construction equipment, air conditioners and portable radios; bans construction between 6 p.m. and 7 a.m.; and requires the city to set standards within one year for subways, railroads and aircraft.

The new law also allows private citizens who turn in violators to collect a bounty of up to half the fine imposed. Fines under the code range up to $2,000 for each day of violations.

You're Invited to an Exclusive Pre-Opening Sale at Pacific Stereo's Big New San Rafael Store

We're pretty excited about finally getting to Marin County, and we think you'll find some things to get excited about too. First, there's the sale which we're holding Friday through Sunday just for people in Marin. The prices are good only in the new San Rafael store, the items aren't being advertised anyplace else, and admission is only by the coupon in this ad. You might also get to win some of the prizes the coupon gives you a chance at. And the new store at 811 Francisco Blvd. is pretty interesting in itself. With 6300 sq. ft., it really is one of the biggest we've ever opened, and it has everything you'd expect Pacific Stereo to offer: a large varied selection of the very finest stereo components at almost certainly the best prices anywhere, and all covered by definitely the best warranties and service policies. We've done our best to take advantage of the big space in designing colorful, convenient display areas that make it easy for you to listen and compare components in a comfortable way. And no matter how many new stores we open, we still insist on salespeople who are both knowledgeable and concerned about your specific needs. Come down this weekend to see for yourself; there's plenty of free parking and we've worked extra hard to find sale items which will get you to share our excitement.

1 PREPOSTEROUS BUT TRUE: A HARMAN-KARDON SYSTEM FOR $180. If the unusually large $79 saving and the resulting rock-bottom price aren't reasons enough to grab this $180 complete music system, the fact that it features one of our most popular receivers should virtually guarantee a sellout. One reason for the popularity of the 230 is its $159.95 normal price, unusually low for a fine Harman-Kardon AM/FM stereo receiver.

The 230 is rated at 17 RMS watts with both channels driven. It's made on the Harman-Kardon tradition of attractive Black Nocturne styling, and it provides clean wideband sonic transparency. It has provisions for two pairs of speakers, tape monitor facilities, and a loudness switch to compensate for the bass you would otherwise lose at low listening levels. The walnut case is optional.

The BSR 310 is an automatic record player that's a fine value at $49.45, including a base and a Shure M75 cartridge. It's an extremely reliable performer with a cueing lever which makes it awfully hard to scratch a record.

Quadraflex Q11 speakers are excellent small shelf speaker systems which perform very well, especially where space is extremely limited. Their six-inch extended range speakers do a really remarkable job of smooth sound reproduction. Only eight inches deep, they fit on very shallow shelves. They make ideal extension speakers if you later decide to add bigger ones, or you may trade them in at a guaranteed price at Pacific Stereo within a year. At their regular $49.90 a pair price, they represent excellent value.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's 5-year warranty

Harman Kardon / BSR / McDONALD / Quadraflex	H-K 230 ..... $159.95 BSR 310 with base and cartridge .. 49.45 Quadraflex Q11 (pr) 49.90 TOTAL $259.30	$179.95 SAVE $79.35

2 AN ENTICINGLY LARGE SAVING ON A $500 PIONEER SYSTEM. If you're at all familiar with the high quality of Pioneer components, the presence of the versatile Pioneer 727 AM/FM stereo receiver in this $500 music system and the chance to save $136 should tempt you a great deal. With the 727, you can later expand your system in just about any way imaginable; it can accommodate three sets of speakers, two tape recorders with monitoring for both, two record players, stereophones and a microphone. The 727's versatility is matched by its performance. Our tests show 72 RMS watts of power cleanly delivered, and the tuner section achieves 50 decibels of quieting with a very weak FM signal of 2.6 microvolts, so you should get noise-free reception of just about any station on the air. A full range of controls is provided, including separate bass and treble controls for each channel and separate signal strength and center channel meters for precise FM tuning. The Pioneer 727 normally sells for $349.95.

Garrard's SL65B automatic record player has a viscous damped cueing and pause lever that makes it awfully hard to scratch a record even accidentally, and adjustable anti-skate control to keep the needle in the center of the groove and cut down on record wear, and a tubular aluminum tonearm with an adjustable counterweight so you can set the tracking pressure for minimum record wear. Equipped with an ADC 220X cartridge and a base, it normally sells for $85.90.

Quadraflex Q55's are almost certainly the best $200 a pair speaker systems you've heard. Their sound is clean as can be, and their deep bass response and power handling capacity leave very little to be desired. Each walnut finish enclosure has a ten-inch high compliance linear motion bass speaker, a 4½-inch midrange in an acoustic suspension isolation chamber to prevent interference between elements, a three-inch wide dispersion treble speaker, and special taper controls for balancing the three drivers.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's 5-year warranty

PIONEER / Garrard / Quadraflex	Pioneer 727 ..... $349.95 Garrard SL65B with base and cartridge.. 85.90 Quadraflex Q55 (pr) 199.90 TOTAL $635.75	$499.95 SAVE $135.80

3 WELL NIGH PERFECT PERFORMANCE FOR $800. This is a $1000 music system that's worth every penny in terms of its ability to reproduce every note of music on your records or off the airwaves with crystal clarity. The $213 saving makes it just about the most special Pre-Opening Sale special we could think of.

We've tested seven popular AM/FM stereo receivers in the $350 to $450 price range, and the Spectrosonic 310-4 (at $399.95) stole the show. It came in first on total RMS power, features, tuner performance, and overall value ranking. You not only get a huge amount of power (100 RMS watts) delivered across a wide bandwidth, but the way it's delivered also helps to give you the cleanest possible sound throughout the full dynamic range of music. The 310-4 is a direct coupled receiver with nothing between its transistors and the speakers to muddy the sound, and you get better damping for clean, tight bass response. The 310-4 has just about every convenience you'd want, including provision for four-channel adaptors with a front panel control switch. In a word, it really performs.

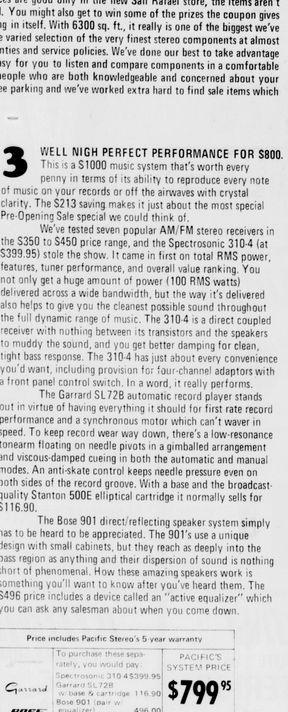

The Garrard SL72B automatic record player stands out in virtue of having everything it should for first rate record performance and a synchronous motor which can't waver in speed. To keep record wear way down, there's a low-resonance tonearm floating on needle pivots in a gimballed arrangement and viscous-damped cueing in both the automatic and manual modes. An anti-skate control keeps needle pressure even on both sides of the record groove. With a base and the broadcast-quality Stanton 500E elliptical cartridge it normally sells for $116.90.

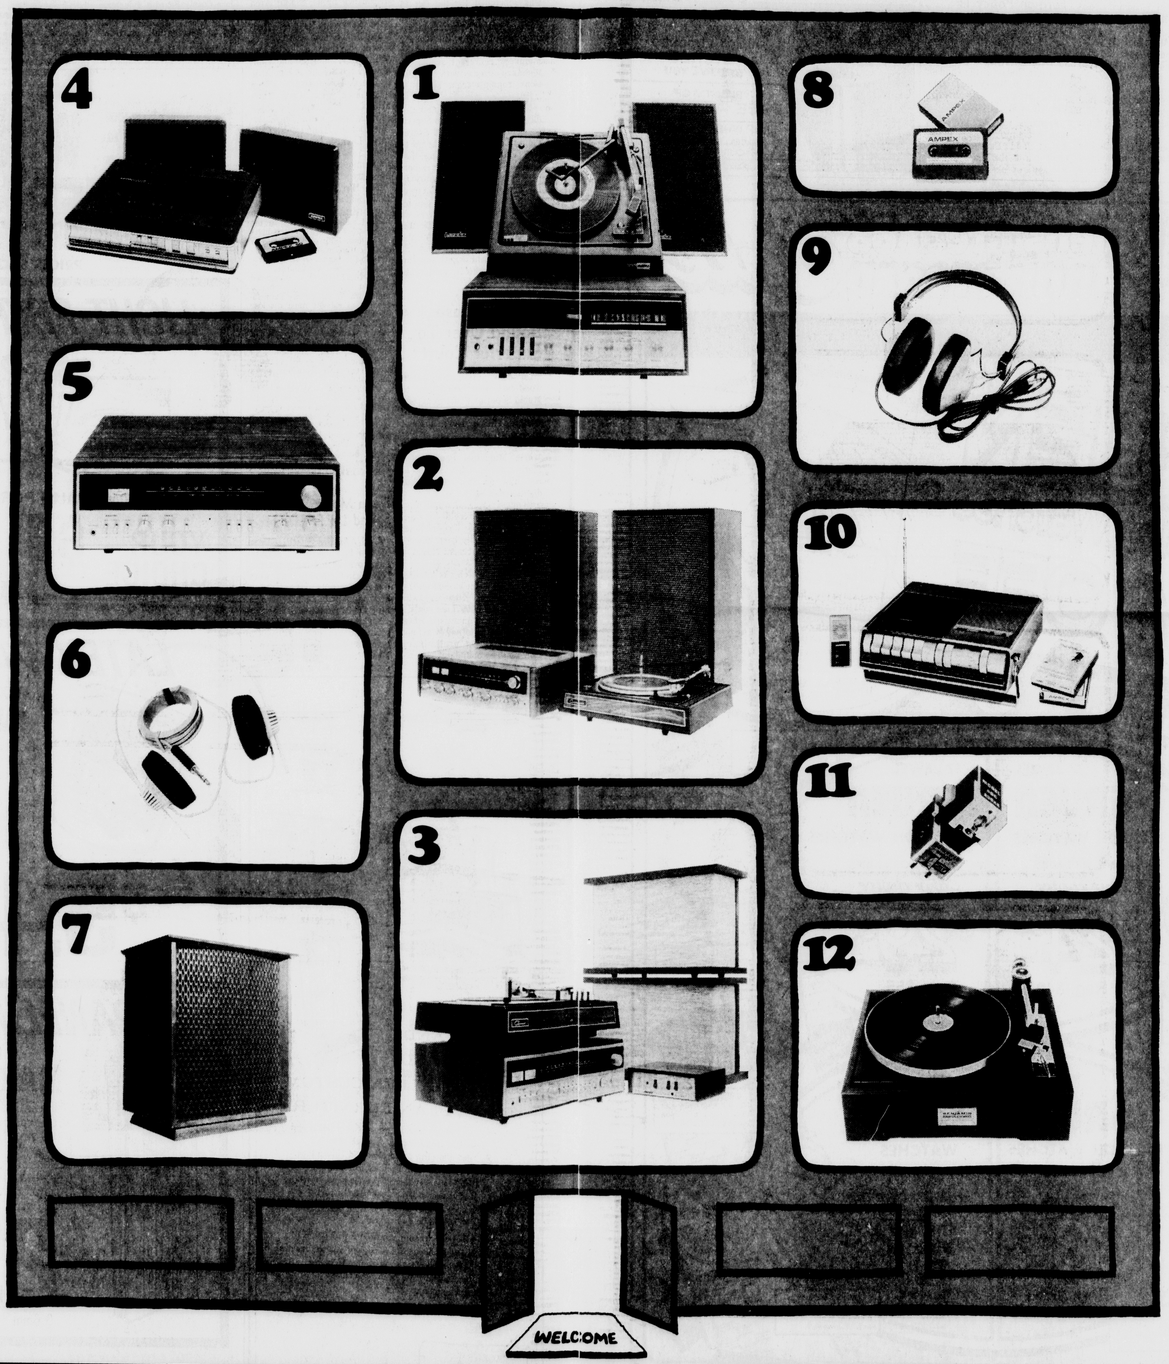

The Bose 901 direct/reflecting speaker system simply has to be heard to be appreciated. The 901's use a unique design with small cabinets, but they reach as deeply into the bass region as anything and their dispersion of sound is nothing short of phenomenal. How these amazing speakers work is something you'll want to know after you've heard them. The $496 price includes a device called an "active equalizer" which you can ask any salesman about when you come down.

Price includes Pacific Stereo's 5-year warranty

Garrard / BOSE	Spectrosonic 310 4 $399.95 Garrard SL72B w. base & cartridge 116.90 Bose 901 (pair w. equalizer) ..... 496.00 TOTAL $1012.90	$799.95 SAVE $212.90

4 OUR LOWEST PRICE FOR A $170 AMPEX TAKE-ALONG STEREO CASSETTE RECORDER. The Ampex Micro 70 is a convenient, compact AC/DC portable cassette recorder/player. You can take it along wherever you go and listen to whatever cassette albums you've made or bought in pre-recorded form. You can also connect it to your stereo system and use it as a deck. The Micro 70 has volume, balance and tone controls plus separate pushbuttons for fast forward, fast rewind, stop, play, record and eject, all of which make it very convenient to use. There's a three-digit counter for finding selections, a switchable automatic record level control, and separate record level meters for each channel. One of them also keeps tabs on the battery condition during playback. The Micro 70 comes with two speakers, a mike, a carrying case and an AC cord; it also has a built-in battery recharger. It's hard to want much more in a portable, and that explains why the original fair trade price was $169.95. But you can get it for $89.95 during our pre-opening sale, so what's stopping you? $89.95

5 A $20 SAVING ON A $200 RECEIVER THAT'S ALREADY A FINE VALUE. Until very recently, the Spectrosonic 110 AM/FM stereo receiver was far and away the best value we knew in its price range. It delivers over 40 RMS watts of power with inaudible distortion, and that's more power than any other receiver in the $200 group we tested. Also, the tuner section has unusually high sensitivity and selectivity to bring you all the airwaves have to offer. It was hard to ask for more in a receiver selling for a mere $199.95. Now we have the new Spectrosonic 110-4, which does indeed have more to offer but at a higher price. We've brought all the 110's we have left to San Rafael so that you can pick one up for $179.95, and it's very unlikely that you'll ever again find this much receiver for so low a price. $179.95

6 A COMFORTABLE $17 SAVING ON VERY COMFORTABLE SENNHEISERS. Sennheiser stereophones are very radical insofar as they're extremely lightweight and comfortable, so much so that you hardly know you've got them on. Instead of a cushion, it's light soft polyfoam against your ears and the sound is really first rate. They almost always sell for $36.95, except during our pre-opening sale. $19.95

7 YOUR FIRST CHANCE TO SAVE OVER $100 APIECE ON ALTEC 846A'S. With the Altec Lansing 846A's you can really sit back and immerse yourself in the music. They have the same big fifteen-inch bass speaker and the horn-type treble speaker used in Altec's professional Voice of the Theatre systems, the ones found in a lot of rock clubs and the kind of theater where you first saw 2001. They'll fill even the largest room with full-range sound and have the efficiency to do it with quite moderate amounts of power. For home use, Altec has put the speakers in a handsome hand-finished walnut cabinet with a fretwork grille, a big floor-standing design they call Valencia. The regular price is $355 each, and we've never had a sale on them before. They should go fast when you can save this much money on something this good. $249.95

8 AN IMPROVED AMPEX C-60 CASSETTE FOR HALF PRICE. We've been selling Ampex C-60 cassettes in great quantities, and like all Ampex tape, they've been very good. Now we have a new series that's even better. Ampex calls them high frequency tapes, and during our pre-opening sale you can get them in the 360-C60 cassette size for half of our normal 99¢ price. ..... 49¢

9 A PAIR OF GOOD STEREOPHONES FOR $2.95. You can, until our present stock runs out, obtain a pair of high quality stereophones, for the above $2.95 price. They sound very good and the price will rise when our pre-opening sale ends. $2.95

10 A DEEP PRICE CUT ON AN $80 AMPEX PORTABLE RADIO-RECORDER. The Ampex Micro 28 is a portable AM/FM radio with a built-in cassette recorder. You can listen to AM or FM and record anything you want to save. You can also play pre-recorded cassette albums. The Micro 28 operates on AC or battery and will even re-charge nicad cells if you want to use and reuse them. It comes with a mike for live recording and with an earphone for private listening. It's a great thing to have around, especially when you can get it for only $49.95 instead of $79.95, the original fair trade price. $49.95

11 AN ADC ELLIPTICAL CARTRIDGE FOR LESS THAN HALF PRICE. The ADC 230XE is a clean reader of record grooves that tracks optimally at 1½ grams. Its elliptical stylus conforms more closely than a conical stylus to the path the cutter took in the record groove, so there's less wear on your records and it's easier for the cartridge to pick up all the music that's in the record grooves. You'll almost certainly never find a good elliptical cartridge at a lower price, so this is a perfect time to find out for yourself how much difference it will make in the sound and the life of your records. Instead of our normal $24.95, the 230XE is going for $9.95 during our pre-opening sale. $9.95

12 A MIRACORD 630 FOR LESS THAN HALF PRICE. The Miracord 630 is a very fine automatic record player that a lot of people considered a good value at $129.50, the original nationally advertised price. During our special pre-opening sale, you can get it for $59.95, the lowest price for which we've ever been able to offer the 630, and it's hard to see how you could possibly get so much for your money any other way.

Miracords are known for their light touch pushbutton operation and their precise cueing mechanism which gently lowers the arm into the exact groove you want. The 630 has an adjustable anti-skate control to cancel the force that tends to make the needle bear more heavily on the inner groove wall, causing distortion and uneven wear on the record. The dynamically balanced tonearm can handle cartridges that track at pressures well below a gram, so you can use the best available if you wish. The heavy weighted turntable is cast and machined for precise balance, helping to keep the speed constant, and its non-magnetic material can't interfere with the cartridge's magnetic field. The powerful motor holds the speed steady and unwavering.

We can't include the base and cartridge at this low price, but you'll find a good deal on a cartridge elsewhere in this ad $59.95

300 Low Noise Blank Cassettes FREE! To People Who Come Early

Pacific Stereo's C60 cassettes contain very good quality low noise-high output tape, and they usually sell for $1.29 each. But we'll give one free one to the first 100 people who ask for them each day of our pre-opening sale.

You'll need the coupon in this ad just to get in our new San Rafael store, since the pre-opening sale is for Marin people only. Once you're in, deposit it for the drawing we'll hold on Monday, Oct. 9, and you may win one of these components, all of which are very nice things to have:

Student Apparently Takes His Own Life

Rohnert Park police said that a friend, James Redding, who shared a house at 7147 Barbi Lane with Brians, found his body seated on a chair in the garage about 6 p.m.

Brians had apparently locked the door of the garage and turned on the motor of his car, according to police, who said death appeared to be due to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Brians reportedly had been divorced recently and had been under treatment for depression, according to police.

His survivors include his mother, Patricia Brians of Santa Barbara.

Irish-American Medal To President's Wife

NEW YORK (UPI)—While 200 members of Irish civil rights groups picketed outside, First Lady Patricia Ryan Nixon received Wednesday a medal from the American-Irish Historical Society honoring outstanding accomplishment by an American of Irish descent.

"It's just gorgeous, it's just beautiful," said Mrs. Nixon, a granddaughter of Irish immigrants, as she clutched the gold medal. She refused to comment, however, on the demonstrators who shouted, "Irish blood on Nixon's hands."

Telephone Stolen

A telephone instrument was stolen from the Corte Madera Youth Center on Monday, Corte Madera police reported today. This is the fourth phone to be stolen in the town in the last two months.

Police 'Violated Amtrak Rights'

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla.(UPI)—A federal judge ruled Wednesday that police violated Amtrak's constitutional rights when they boarded a passenger train and arrested officials on charges of operating an "open saloon."

U. S. District Judge Stephen S. Chandler also reinstated the train's right to serve mixed drinks.

Chandler said Oklahoma state police had confused a railroad club car with the type of "open saloon" prohibited by a 1959 state constitutional amendment which repealed prohibition in the state.

Corte Maderan Hurt In Muir Beach Fall

Richard Morris, 20, of 28 Edison Avenue, Corte Madera, was reported in serious condition today at Marin General Hospital with back injuries suffered when he fell from a scaffolding yesterday.

He reportedly was working on a house near Muir Beach when the accident occurred. Nor further details were available today.

Four Convicted Of Soliciting Patrons

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Four women who work in a Tenderloin bar which has been linked to two Marin residents were convicted in municipal court last night of soliciting patrons to spend $30 to buy a bottle of fruit juice that had been represented as champagne.

The women, two topless-bottomless dancers, a waitress and a bartender, work at the Mocambo Club, a Powell Street bar. The nightclub is owned by West-Ent Inc., of which Milton Mohr, a Kent Woodlands resident, was listed as president last year.

Further, Asst. Dist. Atty. Joseph Russionelle said the Mocambo's accountant testified during the trial of the women that Ron London, a Tamalpais Valley man and longtime Tenderloin nightlife figure, was "promotional adviser" for the tavern.

Topless-bottomless dancer Rosemary Moore was convicted of violating a city ordinance that prohibits employees of a club from soliciting drinks for themselves, while dancer Jacqueline Henderson, waitress Larae Shaw and bartender Michelle Hunt were found guilty of aiding and abetting soliciting.

Russionelle said the Mocambo lost its liquor license a year ago but that didn't stop the women from asking men to buy drinks for them.

Foreign Policy Is Discussion Topic

A Republican and a Democrat will discuss "Foreign Policy Issues of 1972" at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley, sponsored by the World Affairs Council of Marin County.

Speakers will be Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, and Eugene Mihaly, chairman of the McGovern for President speaker's bureau.

Innocent Plea Given To Thefts

A 28-year-old San Rafael man charged with two counts of burglary in connection with a series of team thefts from small stores pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

A preliminary hearing for Andrew Joseph Carrino was set for Oct. 17.

Carrino is charged in connection with a scheme whereby two persons would distract a storekeeper and the third would steal money from the store.

San Anselmo Police reported that Carrino, Steven John Pappas, 21, of San Francisco and John R. Arbuckle, who is still being sought, allegedly used the method to take money from Trixie's Dress Shop in San Rafael and the Dream Days Shop and the Poppy Shop in San Anselmo, Aug. 23.

Arbuckle and Pappas each face a third burglary count for allegedly taking a purse from Trixie's Dress Shop in San Rafael the previous day.

Pappas, who was on trial today on a charge of robbing a motorist in Larkspur in April, is scheduled to plead to the burglary charges Oct. 16.

Transportation Center Proposed

A "recreation transportation center" at the Larkspur ferry terminal site, where tourists and Marinites could catch buses to recreational areas throughout the county, was proposed today by Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

Growing weekend traffic will plunge the county into increasingly severe congestion unless some system is found to get people into buses, he said.

Arrigoni made his proposal on radio station KTIM's "Marin Sounding Board" in a debate with his challenger on the November ballot, Barbara Boxer. They traded familiar barbs, with Mrs. Boxer criticizing the incumbent for spending $64 a day while on county business in Washington.

The supervisor suggested that the Golden Gate Bridge District's ferry terminal site in Larkspur be paved so weekend drivers could park there free when taking buses to such areas as Stinson Beach, Mount Tamalpais, Samuel P. Taylor State Park and Muir Woods. Fares, with a 50-cent maximum per person, would offset some of the operational deficit of such a system, he said.

The bridge district has more than 100 buses idle on weekends, he noted.

Arrigoni said his proposal "would require a minimal capital outlay," but offered no cost estimate. He did not make clear whether the cost would be split between the county and bridge district.

He noted that the district soon will have six smaller buses for use on West Marin routes.

In her opening statement, Mrs. Boxer contrasted Arrigoni's 1968 campaign pledge to lower taxes with a 59.5 per cent increase in the county budget in the past four years.

Citing Independent-Journal reports of free-wheeling spending by San Rafael city officials and by Tamalpais High School District officials, she said the supervisors were "no exception." Spending an average of $64 a day on expenses exclusive of air fare, she declared, "is not my idea of a responsible public servant."

Mrs. Boxer said the supervisors should limit their expense allowance to $32 a day, and added that a single county representative would have been enough for the Washington trip. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney accompanied Arrigoni to the congressional hearing on the proposed Golden Gate National Recreation Area.

Arrigoni defended his expenses in Washington, saying one day's costs included a $44 lunch for himself, Maloney and two congressional aides to Rep. Don H. Clausen, R-First District, an author of the bill creating the recreation area.

He said he was "proud of my reputation for holding the line on taxes," and rejected Mrs. Boxer's argument that the county administrator's office has too much staff. The office costs $132,000 a year — down from $154,000 four years ago — which is minimal for an operation with a $48 million budget.

Arrigoni criticized Mrs. Boxer for missing all the county budget sessions this year because she was vacationing after the June primary election at a Southern California beach and tennis club. "I was there, and I cut the tax rate 14 cents," he said.

"She wants to be a 'full-time supervisor,' but she isn't even a full-time candidate," he said.

The two candidates split over the proposal on the November ballot to fluoridate water in the Marin Municipal Water District. Arrigoni supported fluoridation, while Mrs. Boxer said she "probably will vote 'no' because I have so much doubt about it."

The program, moderated by Kitty Oppenheimer, will be rebroadcast at 10:05 a.m. Sunday.

American-Style Chefs Are Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The biggest Chinese community outside the Orient is being tapped for chefs —to cook America-style chow. The California Department of Human Resources Development, one of the sponsors of the American Cook Training program, reports the Chinese have a real zest for U.S.-style cooking.

Students have proved, a spokesman says, they can make rice taste just as good a la pilaf as fried. The 22-week course covers breakfast pastry, short order and advanced cooking.

Commission Requests Gnoss Plan Outline

The Marin County Aviation Commission has requested the county planning department to outline its plans for future development around Gnoss Field, north of Novato.

According to Airport Mgr. Francis E. Torr, the commission agreed with Commissioner William A. Gnoss that the zoning of lands near the air strip should be reviewed to insure future development remains compatible with aviation.

Currently, the land is zoned for industrial and recreational use which is considered compatible.

The commission, which met Tuesday at the civic center, also requested a report from the county department of public works on the effect the realignment of Highway 101 will have on access to the airport.

Plans currently in the works indicate future access to the airport will be off Atherton Avenue and down a highway frontage road.

The commission will meet again Nov. 14.

Helping Handicapped

LONDON (UPI) — A new charity, the National Library of Talking Books for the Handicapped, has been established in Britain and has set up a national library of tape-recorded books, its chairman, Maj. Frank Clarke, said.

Dope Suspect Is Bound Over

A 22-year-old Novato man charged with selling and possessing marijuana is to appear in Marin Superior Court Wednesday after being bound over from municipal court.

Judge David R. Baty ruled Tuesday there is enough evidence to try Juan Armendariz Jr. on the charges resulting from his arrest at his home Sept. 26.

Novato police arrested him on a warrant charging he had sold six packets of marijuana to an agent. Fifteen other packages of suspected pot were found in Armendariz's apartment, according to arrest reports.

Boaters Rescued By Coast Guard

The Coast Guard reported today that six people had been picked up in the waters 12 miles southwest of Cape Mendocino after a vessel named Morning Star was cut in half and sank.

Three persons were believed still missing in the ocean.

The rescues were made by a merchant vessel, Evamo, and a Coast Guard helicopter also was sent to the scene, officers said.

It was not known yet where the Morning Star's home port was, but a yacht by the same name berthed at the Marin Yacht Club was at her dock today.

Names of the people aboard the craft which sank were also not known yet by Coast Guard officers in San Francisco.

Sex Perversion Indictment Made

The indictment alleges Umberger committed unnatural acts with a 7-year-old girl March 31 and with an 8-year-old and a 7-year-old girl in December.

Umberger originally was arrested in April.

All Larkspur Building Plans Delayed

The Larkspur City Council, following the example of the Marin County Board of Supervisors, last night postponed action on all development proposals on its agenda in an attempt to comply with a recent state Supreme Court decision.

The decision, involving a suit by conservationists against Mono County, held that an environmental report must be made on any development that could affect the ecology, whether it be a public or private project.

"It's clear... that all major projects in this city... are subject to this law," City Atty. Peter B. Brekhus told the council.

He suggested withholding all types of permits involved in construction until "we can get some guidelines."

County Supervisor Peter R. Arrigoni Jr., sitting in the audience, told the council he thought the new ruling applied even to such matters as lot splits.

Arrigoni and his supervisorial election opponent, Barbara Boxer, had apparently come to the meeting because of an interest in getting bicycle paths around Redwood High School, but left when that matter became snarled in development controversy, said Arrigoni, "You do have a problem, even with bicycle paths."

(The bicycle paths, part of which the Vincilione family has offered to construct on the controversial Tiscornia estate property if they can go ahead with filling the land, were later put into abeyance by the city council along with several other projects.)

Councilman Neil Brixon, worried "about money that might be spent in court" if the council were to proceed with consideration of planning matters, asked city staff to come up with guidelines.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst agreed to do so by Oct. 18, the council's next meeting.

Among matters postponed last night along with the bicycle paths was consideration of the 240-unit Larwin apartment development atop Bon Air, for which a building permit is being sought.

The Larkspur City Council also:

BUS — Told a resident who had inquired about the possibility of a landscaped bus stop shelter near Madrone Canyon to return at next year's budget session.

SAN QUENTIN — Postponed the controversial rezoning of the San Quentin Peninsula to the Oct. 18 meeting and turned down by a 2-1 vote (Joan Sestak voting no) a citizen recommendation that planning consultant Dan Coleman be fired.

ABSENT — Councilmen Robert H. Lee and Mayor William G. Fleckles were absent.

SESSION — Met behind closed doors to discuss continuing litigation involving the Tiscornia Estate, run by the Vincilione family. The council emerged to read aloud a recent temporary restraining order which allows the Vinciliones to maintain their fire roads and break up boulders but not to excavate or fill the top of Little King Mountain.

RECREATION — Went along with Sausalito's request for inclusion of certain lands within the proposed Golden Gate National Recreational Area.

PATHS — Adopted an ordinance requiring dedication of land for bicycle paths in subdivisions of 200 or more parcels.

POOLS — Adopted an ordinance requiring fencing of private and public swimming pools.

BIDS — Rejected all bids for landscaping at the new police facility and agreed to wait until spring to start the project.

New Officers For Volunteers

The Marinwood Volunteer Firemen's Association has elected new officers for 1972-73.

They are Peter G. Bianucci, president; Gerald A. Falbo, vice president; Paul Melcon, secretary and Bert Bahlke, treasurer.

The association at Tuesday night's meeting also authorized Marinwood boy scouts to paint street curbs and collect donations from residents.

The group will meet again at 8 p.m. Nov. 7.

Auto Bumper Bill To Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House has passed and sent to the Senate a compromise bill to require auto manufacturers to equip cars with bumpers that can withstand low-speed collisions.

The bill sets no speed standard, but House debate before passage Wednesday made it clear that the standard should be at least 5 miles per hour.

The bill was written in a House-Senate conference, which omitted Senate language authorizing the Transportation Department to set crash-resistance standards for other parts of cars such as doors and grilles.

City Architectural Panel Ruled Illegal

The Larkspur Architectural Review Committee, an informal board set up to assist the city's planning commission but plagued by absenteeism, apparently went out of existence last night.

Just as the city staff decided the committee had not been legal since July 1, one member, Arthur M. Sestak, husband of City Councilman Joan Sestak, resigned in disgust.

In a letter read at the city council meeting last night, Sestak protested what he called preferential treatment for a Schulz Co. apartment building on South Eliseo Drive.

City Mgr. Kent B. Bathurst said later that Sestak apparently did not like building material changes allowed for the apartments by the planning commission. He said the architectural review committee had never made recommendations on the matter.

Sestak said in his letter that his "views of the legal and moral conduct of architectural control are so distant from the City of Larkspur, I will not be available for future architectural review committee work."

In a staff report given to8the council last night, it was reported that the committee had only been given approval to continue existence, anyway, to July 1.

Since no formal action had been taken at that time, "it would appear the city does not have either an informal or formal ARC (architectural review committee) as of July 1, 1972," the report said.

Bathurst said the committee had been set up as an informal arm of the planning commission to make preliminary review of the aesthetics of construction proposals, but often members were absent.

Councilmen decided last night to return the matter to the planning commission to determine if there is a better way to obtain architectural review.

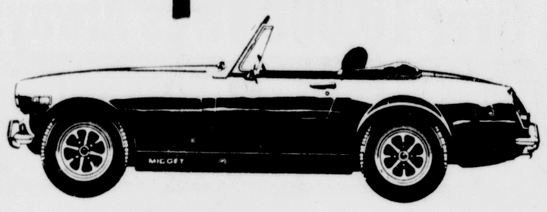

Combat Deaths In Year's High

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The explosion in a gun turret of the USS Newport News that took 20 lives will raise American combat deaths in Indochina to their highest point in more than a year, the Pentagon said Wednesday.

Defense Department officials said the sailors killed in the explosion of a shell aboard the cruiser Sunday would be listed as "killed as a result of hostile action" because they were firing in a combat situation off the coast of Vietnam.

In the past, there have been charges the armed services have tried to mask the scale of combat deaths by listing some combat dead as victims of non-combat accidents. The Pentagon has listed 45,958 Americans killed in combat in the war and 10,276 U.S. war zone deaths due to accidents, disease and other causes.

Marriage Split Sought By Actress

Actress Mary Rose McMaster Aranson, of Mill Valley, yesterday filed suit in Marin Superior Court for dissolution of her 17-year marriage to her actor-manager husband, Jack D. Aranson.

Mrs. Aranson is the daughter of the late Anew McMaster, a Shakespearean actor. She has appeared in numerous plays both on tour and in her husband's acting company, the San Francisco City Theater Company.

Aranson recently returned from cross-country tours of his one-man show, "Moby Dick," and the starring role in "Dylan."

Mr. and Mrs. Aranson married in London in 1955. They have four children — John, 16, Jennifer, 13, Brigid, 11, and David, 9. The family home is at 11 Morningside Avenue, Mill Valley.

Her suit, filed on the grounds of irreconcilable differences, asks for custody of the children and support for herself and the children.

College Of Marin Enrollment Up 11 Per Cent, Trustees Told

Enrollment at College of Marin in credit classes increased 11 per cent this year, trustees of the Marin Community College District were told last night. And adding classes at temporary quarters for Indian Valley Colleges in Novato boosts the increase to 15 per cent.

There are 6,751 students taking credit classes, compared to 6,069 last year. Daytime enrollment exceeds 5,700. In 1967, credit enrollment was almost 1,500 students less, at 5,263.

Trustee Francis Compton asked the board if there was a significant number of students past career age, reported district publicist Earlene Jones. The trustee questioned whether such older students taking credit classes during daytime might deprive young students preparing for their careers from getting programs they wanted.

The president of the Academic Senate, Michael P. Hansen, said there was no such problem.

What had shown a marked rise was the number of students in the 25-to-40 age group taking courses for career improvement, said Hansen.

The board also was given a breakdown on Indian Valley Colleges enrollment, and expressed pleasure that 57 students have been able to enroll full-time through a combination of daytime and evening classes at Hamilton Air Force Base and at San Jose Junior High School.

The Marin Community College District Board also:

IN-SERVICE — Approved an in-service training program for a group of employees and three students tg study alternative educational programs. Trustee Martin J. Dean asked why units toward salary advancement should be given under the scheme and was told by dean of instruction Berkeley Johnson that staff would be working.

RELEASE — Agreed to release engineering teacher Michael Hansen from six of his teaching units to work part-time in the computer science center; cost to the district will be $3,448 in teacher salaries to cover his classes.

PERSONNEL — Hired Donald P. De Armond as purchasing agent in the business office at $1,006 a month, and Clarence J. Faulkner as data processing machine operator at $717 a month.

PART-TIME — Approved Thomas Wood, audio-visual technician, working half-time instead of full-time. He will now teach the other half-time in communications.

INDIAN VALLEY — Authorized payment of architectural fees for Indian Valley Colleges to Neptune and Thomas Associates. Preliminary plans, first phase of construction: $70,413.38; schematic plans, second phase: $27,284.96.

PLAN — Scheduled a meeting for Wednesday at 8 p.m. to study a draft of the revised 10-year construction plan together with anticipated funds and tax rates.

MOTORBIKES — Deferred action until the Oct. 18 meeting on a recommendation from Supt. John A. Grasham to use the maintenance hardstand area by the Corte Madera Creek next to the data processing portable as a motorcycle parking lot.

CONTRACTOR — Agreed to permit a contractor working on the Kentfield School District's new school for hearing handicapped to park his construction equipment on college land near the baseball field.

POLICIES — Approved corrections to the board's policies and procedures handbook. Included are rules that reasons for "no" votes or abstentions must be included in meeting minutes, plus the names of trustees voting "aye," "no" or "abstain."

BIDS — Awarded a total of $10,803 in contracts for audio visual equipment to six firms, all low bidders —General Electronics Systems Inc., Oakland; Photo and Sound Co., San Francisco; McCurry's AV Co., Sacramento; Miller's Audio-Visual Supply, San Francisco; Munday and Collins Inc., San Jose, and R. V. Butterworth Inc., Hayward.

DIMMERS — Awarded a contract to Van Buren Industries of North Hollywood for $16,056 for a new dimmer system to be used by the college drama department in the studio theater. The only other bid exceeded $21,000.

STUDENT TEACHERS — Were told by Grasham that 14 student teachers from California State University, San Francisco, will be assigned to College of Marin for the spring semester.

MARIN CITY — Received a report from Jared B. Sharon, director of community education, on the 1971-72 Marin City Adult Self-Improvement Project run with Title III federal funds; 55 per cent of the 31 students taking remedial reading increased at least one grade level in word recognition, and one student's reading ability went up two levels.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to the meeting next Wednesday.

JEWISH GOAL

To Make Others Aware

By JOAN LISETOR

What if you gave a course in the changing role of Jewish women at the Marin Jewish Community Center, and nobody came?

Chana Rosenholz of San Francisco and Nadine Fohrman of Orinda were scheduled to lead such a discussion, but when they arrived at the center in San Rafael last week there was no one there to be led.

"We thought the discussions would be of interest because of the times," said Yvonne Rich, the center's program coordinator, looking at the empty auditorium.

The discussions were to be an attempt to reach suburban Jewish housewives and to share ideas about the roles women have played in the past, influenced by Jewish heritage. The present and future growth potential were also to be explored, according to literature produced by the center.

BOTH WOMEN have strong, positive feelings about being women and especially being Jewish women, they said, and want to make others aware of the changes that have taken place in their lives since becoming aware of what Judaism has to offer.

"The Sabbath is my time to get away from material things, stop and have a day for me, my family and live the special things a woman brings to a Sabbath," said Nadine, who is married with one child.

Although her life is very different from Nadine's she relates to her feelings, Chana said. As a counselor for the Jewish Family Service Agency and for the House of Love and Prayer, both in San Francisco, she falls into the professional category, and she leads the life of a single woman in San Francisco, differing from Nadine's suburban housewife life.

"I set aside time to honor the Sabbath. Speeding up on Friday to prepare for a moment that is coming is a highlight of my week," Chana said. "Lighting the candles gives me a strong, warm, sweet feeling. On Saturday I spend my time by myelf or with friends or doing what I want most, which might even be just reading or sleeping."

The rediscovery of religion is not a radical movement, Chana said, but rather a search for a new way.

"OUR PARENTS did not have a choice, but we are in a new place where it is easier for us to take responsibility and accept commitment," said Nadine.

When she wanted to bring the ceremonies of the Sabbath into her home she didn't just go home and declare, "We are going to honor the Sabbath."

If you are close to your husband there is no need to declare, rather you plant a seed, Chana said.

"I am happy because I'm into a spiritual thing," Chana said.

Both women want to tell other Jewish women about the inner peace they have found.

"I know I can't change the world, but I can help by being the best possible me," Nadine said.

Honoring the Sabbath is the solution that these two Jewish women have found.

24 Danish Students To Perform In Marin

By MOLLY MARIN

Twenty-four Danish students and four adult sponsors will be in Marin County Oct. 20 through 23 as part of a tour exhibiting gymnastic and folk dancing skills in the United States.

The young persons attend the Hellebjerg school, where general education is offered and physical culture is emphasized. Their Marin stay will be between performances in Seattle and Los Angeles, and they are seeking a location in Marin where they can perform.

Their visit to Marin is the direct result of a trip made by Mr. and Mrs. Leonard James of Sausalito to Denmark earlier this summer. Mrs. James, the former Fritze Vibeke, is a native of Denmark. She visited the school and was impressed with the program. She brought back to Sausalito Ellen Norlug, a former student at Helebjerg, who is living with the James family, and plans to attend the College of Marin during her stay in the county.

When the 12 boys and 12 girls arrive in San Francisco Oct. 20, they will be entertained at an open house at the James' home. Mr. and Mrs. James have arranged for the young athletes to stay with personal friends while in Marin.

A special morning service at Christ Episcopal Church in Sausalito will honor the students on Oct. 22. Later that day they will attend an American-style barbecue at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Clark in San Rafael.

Homes where the Danish visitors will stay are those of Mrs. Emily Ross, the Rev. and Mrs. Barton Sarjeant, Messrs. and Mmes. George Sears, Justin Day, Donald Duncan, James Parker, James Muldoon, and Charles Weckler of Sausalito; Thomas Elliott, Tiburon; Kenneth A. Frost, Belvedere; Warren Titus, San Rafael; Edwin Greenman, Greenbrae; and Henry Block, Kentfield, as well as the James and Clark homes.

A RECEPTION Saturday evening at the Mill Valley Methodist Church honored Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ray Burgan of Larkspur, who were married Aug. 26 in Claresholm, Alberta, Canada.

The bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Burgan of Corte Madera, hosted the reception for 100 friends and relatives. The bride, the former Linda Marie Berg, is the daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Berg of Claresholm and the late Oden Berg.

Both Robert and Linda are members of the Little People of America, as were all members of the wedding party.

Dieters Threatened By Diets

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gut and guru diets enrich hucksters, feed on consumers' fears and threaten dieters' health and well-being, says Dr. George V. Mann. At the Vanderbilt University School of Medicine he is associate professor of biochemistry and nutrition.

"The horsepower race" to enrich foods could lead to serious vitamin overdoses, Mann added in an article in Panhandle Magazine, a publication of the natural gas industry.

He defined gut and guru diets as "a kind of denial of modern science and technology, all the more remarkable because these counter-culturists are often our best educated and most privileged young people."

Mann, whose extensive research has included work on human nutrition and medical ethics, wrote that aggressive salesmanship was the main cause of current food faddism.

"THE GREAT multi-vitamin promotion so consipcuous on television is an example," the Nashville, Tenn., authority wrote. "These products are of little use since the water soluble vitamins they contain are not stored by the body but go down the drain, and because some of the fat soluble vitamins are toxic, they may cause disease."

He said excess vitamin A can lead to hair loss and blindness, with brain damage. Mann said the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is proposing to follow Great Britain's example in requiring reduction of enrichment levels of vitamin D. Mann wrote that the British action decreased the number of babies born with William's syndrome, which produces mental deficiency, elfin faces and congenital heart disease.

HE ALSO wants vitamin supplements sold by prescription only. As commonly used now, he thinks they're unnecessary and unsafe.

Mann was caustic about many reducing diets, including the grapefruit one, which he called "a transparent promotion of segments of the citrus industry."

Be Familiar With Grading Methods

Become familiar with the method and terms your favorite food stores use to indicate beef grades, advises the California Beef Council. Grading is done on the whole carcass or wholesale cuts rather than on retail cuts.

Many packing plants, retail chain stores and independent retail shops use their own staff rather than use the services offered by USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service.

Almost all beef sold at the retail level in California, regardless of who grades it would get the equivalent of a USDA choice rating.

Household Hints

In 1829 Lydia Maria Child wrote what was probably the first book of household hints for women, "The American Frugal Housewife." The book, full of practical, homes suggestions, has gone through 35 editions over the years.

Now the book is being reproduced in facsimile with additional hints an 18th Century reader had written in. It is published by Harper and Row.

India's Five-Year Plan Of Interest To Women

By JEAN M. IMMERWAHR
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

NEW DELHI, India — When India's next five-year plan is presented, it may contain two items of immense interest to women. First, an Indian woman will no longer have to win permission from her husband, as at present, to have a sterilization or an abortion.

Second, a law providing for compulsory sterilization of the mentally, physically, or emotionally unfit may well appear.

The first provision will reflect the current change in the status of womanhood in the country. The second will register the claim that the child has rights, too — the right not to be born to irresponsible parents. This proposal is based on Point 2 of the U.N. Declaration of the Rights of the Child, of which India is a signer.

If compulsory sterilization of the unfit becomes law, it will be largely due to the energies of Tara Ali Baig of New Delhi, one of India's leading women in the field of social reform, particularly for children. It is she who has boldly invoked the U.N. declaration as authority for legislation against irresponsible parenthood.

Mrs. Baig has been chosen by the Planning Board for its Task Force on Family Planning for the Fifth Plan, which begins in 1974. Her many years of work with India's neglected children have convinced her that these millions should not be born to people who cannot or will not take care of them.

In a recent newspaper article called, "Keep an Elephant," she compares the problem of caring for needy children to the endless job of trying to feed an elephant.

"It is misplaced charity," Mrs. Baig exclaims in the article, "to feed only the child's body. Society is no richer for your efforts and the children will end up on the street. They must have education, discipline, good health, and opportunity as well, and the state cannot do it."

Speaking, writing, working on behalf of children most of her life, Mrs. Baig is laying one edge of her double-bladed ax at the root of the problem of neglected children, 18 million of whom are estimated to be handicapped, and 1 million destitute.

"It is not the fault of the child," she continues. "These waifs are born of adult neglect and irresponsibility. Personally I feel government must frame and execute laws for compulsory sterilization of anyone who exposes a child to penury, disease, or abandonment. A child must have the fundamental right of normal growth in conditions of freedom and dignity."

The second edge of Mrs. Baig's ax is laid at the institutional treatment, which she terms "almost inhuman," of the orphaned or abandoned child. "Caring for the orphaned or destitute child should frankly not be the concern of the government," she stated in a recent interview. "A child is not a social problem under the law to be solved for the convenience of adults, but a very tender little person whom we can make or break by our treatment."

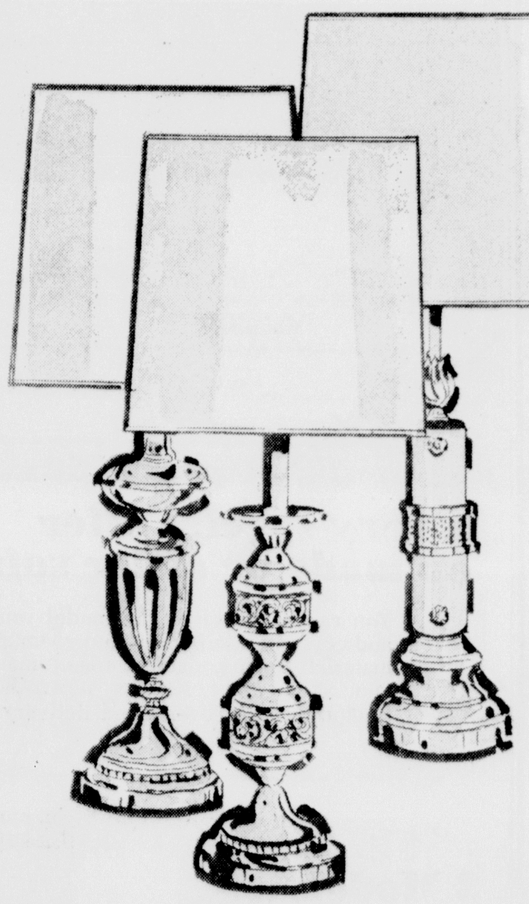

"Setting up huge institutions, however well run, which they seldom are, and however good the food, which it seldom is, does not take care of a child."

Her alternative plan to institutionalization is the personal sponsorship of a child. This can occur either in a private home or a group substitute home such as the SOS Children's Villages, a movement that has been gathering momentum in India under Mrs. Baig's presidency. In these types of care, the child gains a sense of identity through security and love, something vitally essential for healthy development, she insists.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

Stop Blaming The Stars And Start Analyzing Your Moods

RAP:

I'm 16, and according to my horoscope, I have two sides. It's so true! One minute I can be as sweet as can be and the next, poof! I'm the worst person you could ever want to meet. This is really tragic. I have lost friends. . .like right now:

See, my good friend and I were going to work after school and we had to stop at my house to pick up my uniform. I went in toe door all cheerful and came out acting weird. I wouldn't talk, just turned her off, and the awful part is I don't know why!

Next day she wouldn't talk to me, and I can understand that. I had to have some excuse to get her back, so I lied and said someone in my family had died which turned me quiet. But she's stayed cool and distant, I guess 'cause she can't stand my moods.

Is there any way you can beat your Zodiac sign? — TWIN PERSONALITY

DEAR TWIN:

First, stop blaming the stars! What you need least is an excuse for your sweet-sour personality, and this is exactly what you are searching for in your horoscope.

Next, start analyzing your moods. There's always a reason behind your "down period," but often you don't recognize it. When you walked in the house, for example, did you suddenly feel low because someone cut on you? Or do you dislike your job, and picking up your uniform reminded you of boredom?. . .So you took it out on your friend.

TWIN P:

And if you can't hide your down periods entirely, (who can?) then at least be honest about them. A good friend will understand and even help find the reason for your sudden low, if you don't close her off, make her feel she is somehow to blame — and then later come up with an obvious lie.

Mainly, get into the cause of those moods and ask yourself, "Are they really bad enough to turn me off?" Take it from one who knows: they usually aren't! — SUE

LAST THOUGHT FROM HELEN: If you can't find the cause — and your moods make life miserable — a few talks with a counselor might help you cope with the sudden-blues. — H.

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

One day I returned home unexpectedly and found my mother in the bedroom with another man. I'd never have suspected it of her, and I'm terribly upset.

She didn't see me — I left, went to a friend's, and phoned that I'd be home in half an hour, giving the guy time to leave.

Should I tell my father, my mother, or keep out of something that doesn't concern a — TEENAGE DAUGHTER

DEAR T.D.:

Stay out of it! — SUE

DEAR TEEN:

I can see Sue's point: if you told your mother, you'd risk becoming an accomplice; your father? — you'd risk a broken home.

But you can't keep this secret to yourself long without showing the strain. I'd suggest you level with your mother. Perhaps fear of further discovery (by your dad) will shake her clear of the affair. — HELEN

Boy-Girl Ratio Varies

CHICAGO (UPI) — There is a wide variance in the boy-girl ratio throughout the world. Whatever the place the girls always start out as the minority.

The scientific findings demonstrate the advantage in being a girl, for the females quickly reduce the male lead and generally attain numerical superiority.

In all races of mankind, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, more boys than girls are born. However, extensive research still has failed to establish any reason for the excess of boys and the situation remains one of the world's great mysteries.

THE SEX DISPARITY, which may have started with earth's first human community, became particularly puzzling when it was discovered that other species which have the same type of sex-determining mechanism as man show an excess of females.

The worldwide ratio generally is considered to average about 106 males born to every 100 females, a figure that applies to the white population of the United States. Among U.S. Negroes the ratio is 102.6 males to 100 females.

The racial difference is not peculiar to the United States, as studies in Cuba and Cape Province have shown similar contrasts between Negro and Caucasian sex ratios — but always with the boys outnumbering the girls.

THE BOYS in Greece and Korea have the greatest lead of all. In each national 113 boys are born to every 100 girls. Spain is not far behind with boys leading 111 to 100.

The boy baby lead has stimulated considerable speculation. For example, attempts have been made to coorelate sex ratio with the weather. Others have sought to connect the male lead with socioeconomic status, with the effect of war — either before or after —and even with illegitimacy.

SOURCE OF JOBS

Women Farmworkers On Increase

NEW YORK (UPI)—That hired hand on the farm now may be a woman.

They're not labelling it part of the women's liberation movement, but women are showing up as part of the farm labor force, many of them as owners or managers.

Statistically the number "down on the farm" doesn't sound all that impressive. But there are enough women in agricultural jobs for the Farm Journal magazine to devote an article to them and to urge that farmers, finding themselves short of help, well might look to women as a source.

The Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor estimates that in July of this year (July's a peak month for farm employment), there were 121,000 women farmers and farm managers, and another 604,000 foremen and laborers. Those figures were for women 16 years and older.

In 1969, the Women's Bureau published a massive study of women in all job categories. It listed 82,000 women farmers and farm managers and 472,000 others as foremen and laborers. The figures then were for April, 1968, and counted women 14 years and up.

But as the study pointed out the figures for April "are fairly low for agricultural employment, as the peak months of farm activity are June and July." April was the general measuring standard, a spokesman said, because it is a peak month for almost all other occupations.

The women are hardly getting rich in agricultural jobs, although you have to count the fringe benefits of fresh air, plenty of outdoor exercise and in many instances a well-laden table of foods, fresh, frozen or canned.

THE WOMEN'S Bureau said the current median income yearround for women employed fulltime in the agriculture, forestry and fisheries industry (the jobs are lumped together that way) is $3,309. For men, it's $4,028.

The Farm Journal, assessing women as a help potential, says that they make up a disproportionate number of those on the unemployed rolls.

"So," it asks, "why not look there first when you need to hire someone for a responsible job?"

It cites several examples of women doing farm work as well as, often better, than men.

Clarence Potter, an Oregon farmer, has hired high school and college girls for the past several years to drive his trucks during the wheat harvest.

Potter says the boys have some advantages, such as greater familiarity with machines and equipment. But in turn the girls "don't have to prove how much abuse a truck can take."

The gentle touch of the fair sex pays off for other farmers too. Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Honadel, a Milwaukee County, Wis., couple find that their crew of apple picking mothers keeps bruised fruit to a minimum.

Womanpower doesn't stop at field jobs, says the magazine. In Montana, Pearl Carlson of Valley County cares for her two sons and a herd of Simmentals.

TO RUN his 9000-head capacity feedlot in Lavaca County, Tex., R. M. Hagan hired the best manager he could find — his wife, Ann. For seven years she was responsible for everything except buying and selling 27,000 steers a year.

She says, "I had to buy the feed, balance the ration, treat sick cattle, keep records and write $6 million worth of checks a year."

Another woman, Carole Stansfield, is in charge of the calf hospital on the Ceres Cattle Co.'s 10,000 cow ranch in Yuma County, Colo. The rancher's wife gives shots and intravenous feedings, helps with caesarian births, performs autopsies and helps with branding.

It was mostly male support that put Mrs. Roberta Burnside into the office of soil conservation district commissioner in Buena Vista County, Iowa. The Burnsides long had used many conservation practices.

PARENT AND CHILD

Parents Can Help Children To Develop

By CYNTHIA PARSONS
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Parents don't have to leave to the schools the whole job of teaching children to read. With a little planning, they can help steady the young reader and make the work look like fun.

Below are some suggestions for ways parents can help develop sounding and listening skills, which are so vital to reading.

Collect several items which make a noise. A pan lid suspended by a string and hit with a light stick or spoon handle gives off a delightful sound. Different sizes and types of pan lids yield different tones. A jar with a rubber ball inside will sound differently from a jar with a marble inside.

Ask your young pupil to look at all the noisemakers you have for a minute. Then have him turn his back. Now make a sound with one item. Have your pupil turn around and let him tap or sound as many as necessary until he finds the one which you sounded.

AS YOU PLAY this game, you can think of many variations. For example, let the pupil be the teacher and you turn your back. Or play without first letting the pupil see the noisemakers. Or hit two at once in a blend.

If you have access to a piano, have your pupil sit beside you with closed eyes. Play one note. Ask him to find and play the same note. When he becomes proficient at this, play several notes in sequence increasing the difficulty and always asking for him to play it back correctly.

This kind of play may seem to you to be far afield from reading, but good listening and the ability to reproduce exact sounds are essential for good reading. And for some children, it is necessary to develop a good aural sense before attempting to learn the sound of words.

Make a little drum with tight plastic over a tin can. Beat out a simple rhythm and ask your pupil to beat out the same rhythm. As he develops this ability, beat out a rhythm on some other surface (finger on a tabletop) and ask him to repeat the same rhythm on his drum.

This is a good introduction to learning rhyming words. To teach rhyming, place the word "and" at the top of a sheet of paper or blackboard. Sound it clearly. Use it in a sentence making sure that your pupil hears it among the other words.

Don't insist that he write it down, but allow him to if he wishes. Under "and" write "hand." Show your pupil your hand; point out his own hand. Have him sound the word.

Next write "sand." If you need to, find a picture in a book or magazine of sand. If not, just talk about the sand. Make sure your pupil knows exactly what you mean and doesn't confuse "sand" with "water" or "lifeguard."

This Wife Had Some Birthday

PALO ALTO — Ladies, you should be as fortunate in the choice of husbands as Mrs. Lony Traugott.

On her 50th birthday, Hank Traugott conned Lony into joining him on what he called a routine shopping venture in a fashionable apparel store.

Routine? Not by 28 gowns, all in Lony's size 12, they were paraded before her by professional models. They ranged from a $265 evening gown to "a very sexy at-home lounging outfit" at $70.

Tough Action Against Pyramid Sales Asked

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Legislation which would impose criminal and civil penalties on pyramid sales organizations has been introduced by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn.

In remarks on the Senate floor, Mondale cited companies run by millionaire William Penn Patrick of Tiburon and Florida's Glenn W. Turner as examples of what the bill would prohibit.

Mondale said his purpose is "to protect the consumer public from what is rapidly becoming the 'consumer fraud of the 1970s.' "

The bill, now pending in the Senate Commerce Committee, would provide a fine of up to $10,000 or imprisonment of up to five years, or both, for persons convicted of selling or attempting to sell participation in a pyramid sales program.

It also would enable "aggrieved" investors to recoup from recruiters double damages on the original investment, as well as costs and legal fees, and gives federal authorities the right to gain injunctions against pyramid operators.

Pyramid sales operations are defined in Mondale's legislation as based primarily on the "endless chain" recruitment of investors with minimum emphasis on sale of product.

Mondale said William J. Casey, chairman of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission, recently had estimated chain-selling enterprises had taken more than $300 million in investments from American consumers.

Meantime, Turner was jailed for 150 days for contempt in Flordia yesterday as he was about to go on trial on charges of security violations. Turner declined to answer a judge's question whether he had anything to do with a demonstration of 600 women — many of whose husbands sell Turner's motivational courses — outside the court house.

Lanes On Bridge To Be Closed

Only one project in progress on Highway 101 will affect the flow of traffic tomorrow, it was announced today by the state division of Highways.

On Richardson Bay Bridge, the southbound inside and middle lanes will be closed between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. to permit welding of expansion hinges.

Today was the last formal announcement of lane closures on Highway 101 for this year, said a spokesman, because most major construction projects are almost complete.

On Waldo Grade between the Golden Gate and Richardson Bay bridges, widening and resurfacing has been accomplished, and no more lanes will be closed.

Near the Sir Francis Drake Boulevard off-ramp, southbound, a slide removal project has been finished.

The Richardson Bay Bridge, which is being widened, will be subject to lane closures off and on for the next two weeks and again after a month's interval when the road surface is repaved.

The Novato bypass, where a freeway skirting the town is scheduled for completion by spring of 1974, will involve occasional lane closures on Highway 101 for the next 18 months on a sporadic basis, a Division of Highways spokesman said.

Drugs Case To Higher Court

Eugene Williams, 43, of Mill Valley has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a felony charge of possessing drugs illegally. He is to appear Wednesday.

Williams, who is also charged with misdemeanor counts of having a concealed weapon with a permit and possessing marijuana, was arrested Aug. 8 in Mill Valley after an officer saw him near the open door of a building on Miller Avenue at night.

Police said they found a loaded revolver, suspected pot and about 900 pills in his car.

Ladder Stolen

While a tow truck was parked near the Greenbrae Boardwalk Tuesday, someone stole a 20-foot-long extension ladder from it, Corte Madera police reported today.

A Killing Defense By East Offset Luck Of Other Team

South thought he was very lucky to pick up 17 points in high cards, and he saw no reason to complain when his partner jumped to game. All of this good luck was offset by the fact that East was skillful enough to put up the killing defense.

RETURNS LOW

West opened the jack of hearts, holding the trick. The next heart went to the ace, and declarer led a club to dummy's queen in order to return a low diamond from the dummy.

The average defender would follow the old rule, "second hand low," and would therefore play the nine of diamonds from the East hand. This would give South his contract.

Declarer would cover with the ten of diamonds. If allowed to win the trick, he would take his nine tricks. If West won, there would be no entry to the hearts, and declarer would have nothing more to worry about.

SECOND HAND HIGH

The play didn't actually go that way. East put up the king of diamonds on the first round of that suit. This was a time to play second hand high!

When he won this trick, East returned his last heart, thus establishing the rest of West's suit. West still had the ace of diamonds and was sure to gain the lead in time to defeat the contract with established hearts.

There's a moral in this sad tale. When your partner opens a long suit against a notrump contract, do everything possible to win an early trick in order to help your partner set up the suit. Let your partner save his entry for when his suit is established.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 9
♥ - K 6 2
♦ - J 8 7 6 2
♣ - Q J 9.
What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid one no trump despite the 10 points in high cards.

If partner opened with one heart, you would respond two diamonds, since then you would count a point for the doubleton in spades.

Action Shelved Compensation

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Legislation designed to compensate farmers who sold their wheat before the $1 billion Russian grain deal drove prices up was shelved indefinitely yesterday.

The Senate Agriculture Committee had planned to consider the legislation but not enough of its members showed up for today's meeting and the session was dissolved for lack of a quorum.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Question: What if people fudge on their birthyears? How can you be sure? J.B.

Dear B: By double-checking! And often by detective work! Reference books list Groucho Marx as being five years younger than he really is. But now that he is 82, he doesn't mind anymore. His secretary Erin Fleming is giving out his correct age now, which moves his birthyear back to 1890. Recently a University of Wisconsin professor, Dr. Thomas C. Reeves, discovered that President Chester A. Arthur's birthyear is in error by one full year. It should now read Oct. 5, 1829, and not Oct. 5, 1830, as in the textbooks. Happy Birthday, Arthur! You've been found out!

ART REVIEW

Personal Views In Clinic Show

By ADA GARFINKEL

There is a recent trend in Bay Area art galleries for small all-women group shows. An example of this trend in Marin is the Five Plus One (the one being from Napa) exhibit at the Ross Valley Clinic through October 27.

Unlike the hearty Women's Lib artists and the technology-minded practitioners elsewhere, the local artists are out to do their own thing. Their views are personal, their tone is tempered; the pace is more regular, the beat more gentle. Yet there is growth, experiment, mood, and change.

The most startling metamorphosis of style, subject matter, and medium is to be seen in the work of Mary Bonner who evolves from realistic watercolors of floral and seascape subject matter to a powerfully hard-edge, geometric acrylic painting in dazzling colors and pattern.

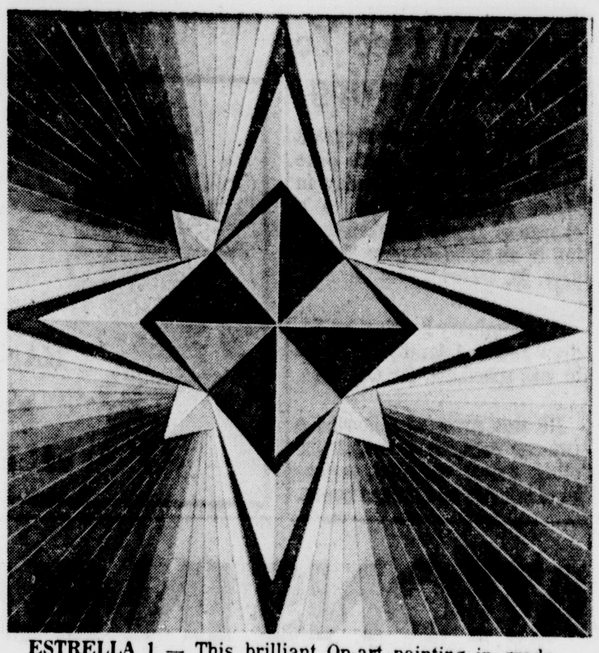

Nature and underwater life absorb the canvases of Mary Ellen Wehrli, in Pond, May II and Pond, July II, with softly tinted, encrusted trackings and imprints of limpets and other mollusks to catch and reflect light.

Eve Von Neumann's work in transition as seen in two small paintings: "Big Sky" and "Fallow Field" are her best works in the exhibit. Low-keyed colors, muted tones, sharp accents, create a strong and arresting mood.

"Home is a Happy Place" is a lovingly concocted still life by Pat Andrew. Using lozenge shapes as her basic unit, the artist ties the various elements — table, chair, platter, and food — together with narrow ribbons of white outline. "He" is a lion, also by Miss Andrew, with an almost human expression, and also entangled in a network of the artist's favorite linear structure.

Phyllis Taplitz' colorful woodcuts add a maturity to the ensemble, and Betty Jo Norton divides her own oeuvre between a self-portrait reflected in a broken mirror and a tawny landscape with the parched look of a dry autumnal season.

The Ross Valley Clinic is located at 1350 South Eliseo Drive. The exhibit may be seen from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday, and from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Saturdays.

ESTRELLA 1 — This brilliant Op-art painting in gradations of blue and orange by Mary Bonner, reflects a new direction for this artist. It and paintings by other artists may be seen in the Five Plus One all-women group show at the Ross Valley Clinic in Greenbrae.

Bank Of Tokyo Reports Gains

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Bank of Tokyo of California has reported income for the nine months ending Sept. 30 up 29.6 per cent from the same period in 1971.

The bank said Wednesday per share earnings rose to $3.10 compared with last year's figure of $2.81.

The income before gains or losses for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30 was $3.6 million, up from $2.8 million in 1971.

Bill Would Allow $200 Tax Credit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A key House committee Tuesday approved a bill that would allow a tax credit of up to $200 per pupil for tuition paid for sending children to private school.

An organization known as Americans United for Separation of Church and State denounced the step, saying the bill was "a monstrosity" that was plainly unconstitutional.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved the bill in an 18 to 6 vote. The measure would affect parents of some 5 million children in grades one through 12. The bill would prevent any tax credit for tuition paid for a private school that is racially segregated.

Harold Coffin, the seer of Santa Cruz, has a way of looking at things—and commenting on them—that's all his own. It's only natural, we suppose, in a man who has had such diversified careers as waterfront reporter, naval officer, steel company executive, bond sale consultant and promotion manager. For whatever reason, his daily commentary is one you can't afford to miss. Nothing else like it.

Impact Report Need Will Be Studied

The Marin Municipal Water District board last night established a committee to recommend how the district should conform to a recent California Supreme Court decision extending the need for environmental impact reports to private projects and developments.

Board members Jack R. Felson and John MacPhail Jr. were appointed to formulate how the district will determine whether a project seeking water connection will have a sufficiently significant impact to require an environmental report.

As an interim measure, the board agreed it will grant new connections to single-family residences and any project requiring less than an acre-foot of water a year, according to J. Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering.

Nixon Gets Water Bill Challenge

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress has sent President Nixon another veto challenge—this time in the form of a $24.6 billion clean water bill he already has said the nation can't afford.

The most costly and stringent water pollution bill ever passed by Congress was sent to the White House late Wednesday on the 366-11 vote of the House and the 74-0 approval of the Senate.

During the same long working day, Congress overrode Nixon's veto of a 20 per cent pension increase for railroad workers. The President rejected the measure on grounds it was inflationary, but within five hours Congress mustered the necessary two-thirds vote in both houses to pass the legislation over the veto and make it law. The House vote was 353-29 and the Senate tally 76-5.

The water bill would establish as a national goal the elimination of all polluting discharges into the nation's waterways by 1985. It also would provide the money and the authority to get started on the project.

Nixon has proposed a three-year, $6 billion clean water bill and reportedly has threatened to veto any measure that would spend more. The bill's chief architect, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, taunted the President to try it.

"...There are those in high places who question whether we can 'afford' to spend this money," Muskie told the Senate. "Can we afford clean water? Can we afford rivers and lakes and streams and oceans which continue to make life possible on this planet? Can we afford life itself?"

Innocent Plea To Drunken Driving

An Air Force staff sergeant from Hamilton Air Force Base pleaded innocent yesterday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of felony drunken driving in an accident near Novato Sept. 23.

A preliminary hearing for Andrew Leonard Sarabyn of Novato was scheduled for Oct. 24.

He was arrested following a two-car collision in which the other driver suffered serious head injuries and broken bones.

Mill Valley Gets Its Dogcatcher

The Mill Valley City Council has gotten the full-time dogcatcher it wanted after all, an animal control committee appointed by the council learned yesterday.

For two weeks, the status of the dogcatcher had been on-again, off-again.

John N. Gill, director of the Marin Humane Society which provides pound service throughout the county, told Councilman Gerald J. Hood and other committee members that the animal control officer went to work in Mill Valley yesterday.

Gill said the officer would work 40 hours a week in Mill Valley "at least through the rest of October" while the city decides whether it wants to tighten its animal control ordinances and find ways to finance the extra cost of more manpower.

Councilmen complained at Tuesday's council meeting that Gill had promised the extra man during his appearance before the council two weeks earlier. However, Hood said, he had learned that Gill decided to postpone assigning the new dogcatcher until the council acted on Gill's proposed package of dog law changes.

Gill indicated yesterday that he had assigned the officer without waiting for the council to act. He met with the city committee at the Marin Humane Center for more than three hours.

Black Percentage Of Voters Declines

ATLANTA (UPI)—The percentage of black registered voters has declined in the South because of the addition of 18 to 20-year-olds in the voting age population, according to a report by Voter Education Project, Inc. (VEP).

The same report shows a larger percentage of registered voters among whites than blacks in all Southern states except Arkansas where black registration is 80.8 per cent vs. 61.3 per cent for whites.

'SHINING EXAMPLE'

The Challenge To U.S. System: Banker's View

By MARY LEYDECKER

After 200 years, the U.S. "stands as the richest country in the world with the greatest amount of personal freedom."

Why, then, are our economic and political systems under such great challenge and attack?

Leslie C. Peacock, 42-year-old head of Crocker Bank, spoke to about 65 businessmen, civic leaders, educators and professional men gathered at the first in a series at Dominican College called, "Stop the world. I want to get on."

Peacock, a university professor before he became a banker, first described the American free enterprise and representative governmental systems as institutions founded because of "humanistic impulses."

(Peacock's continued reference to "humanism" as a motivating force behind the forming of American systems as well as present protests brought a strong objection at the end of his talk by San Francisco Sheriff Richard Hongisto.)

"Deprivation of personal freedoms" as well as "widespread poverty" caused the founders of this country to leap at systems which provided freedom along with a better standard of living, Peacock said.

Through the years, he said, America has been a "shining example" of the dual economic and political systems. (Marxism, he said, has "done a reasonably good job" as far as the economics are concerned, but Russia and China "are not noted for personal freedom.")

The U.S., not hampered by colonialism or long-established cultures, was the only country in a position to so fully implement free enterprise and representative government, according to Peacock.

He said parenthetically that the one culture in existence in this country 200 years ago —

LESLIE C. PEACOCK
'America: free and prosperous'

the Indians — "we did not choose to face."

The American systems, which "have done so much for so many people" for so long, are under attack today for two reasons, the banker said.

First, our economic system, never designed to "take care of unequal distributions of wealth and positions" is offensive to current "humanistic impulses" which do not object to a man being rich but rather to abject poverty at the other end of the scale.

Free enterprise "doesn't take care of everybody — but almost everybody," but compared to the lack of personal liberty prevalent in the 18th Century this notion seemed unimportant then, Peacock said.

Today, however, many people see this fault as a serious lack in the system.

As for the American form of representative government, Peacock said an increasingly complex society makes it "difficult for the public to have intelligent, consistent policies."

For example, he said, many people demand more services from the government but at the same time say "they don't want the tax bite to rise."

The result, he said, is that politicians, who try to respond to the wishes of the people, provide governmental programs through such methods as deficit financing.

"Then the people say, 'We forgot to say we didn't want inflation,' " the banker said.

Other "contradictory impulses" being channeled to the government include examples such as people "not wanting the landscape cluttered with poles" but, on the other hand, "not wanting brownouts (electrical failures).

"The question is how long a system can last," Peacock said, "with an electorate which has neither the time nor the skills. . ." to make intelligent choices. "The electorate is not dumb — the issues are just complicated."

As has happened throughout history, there are increasing numbers of people "who think things are basically wrong with the system."

He said this was "not to say it will play out this year or next —or in our lifetime" but "to say it would last fgrever would be foolish."

A brief question period following Peacock's talk was dominated by Hongisto, who angrily denounced the banker's contention that "humanism" is a motivation for politicians.

The sheriff said he "sees no humanism" in the San Francisco Board of Supervisors which he contended denies him money for such necessities as socks and better food for his prisoners.

Peacock, declining to discuss local government, replied there are two kinds of humanism: one, a warm desire, often thwarted, to help one's fellow man; the other, a system for helping one's fellow man without involvement of any warm feeling for mankind.

Disaster Training Exercise Planned By Marin Dec. 4-8

By JEFF GREER

Marin County will stage its first disaster training exercise over a five-day period Dec. 4 to 8.

County department heads, their aides and officials of public and private utility organizations attended a briefing session yesterday to learn how the exercise will operate.

Theme of the disaster session will be how Marin County disaster crews would react to a major earthquake such as rocked the San Fernando Valley nearly two years ago. Coordinators from the Institute for Civil Defense and Disaster Administration of the University of Southern California will be in charge of training.

Frank E. Kirby, county emergency services coordinator, said Marin is the first Bay Area county to link with the institute in a long-range disaster preparedness program. Training exercises will be held in Marin at least each six months, withspecial seminars and courses in between, over a period of two to five years. Santa Cruz County has a similar program; six San Francisco Peninsula cities also are enrolled in the training.

The only cost to Marin County and its participating cities will be the man hours of the individuals who will be trained to cope with disaster, Kirby said. The institute is funded by the federal Office of Civil Defense.

Twenty-eight officials responsible for disaster planning and operations in their special fields attended the briefing yesterday in the Marin Civic Center. The Pacific Gas and Electric Co., Pacific Telephone, American National Red Cross, Marin Municipal Water District, California Highway Patrol and county health, welfare, law enforcement, fire, purchasing, personnel and communications officials participated.

Training coordinators Vincent P. Conners and Charlie C. Coleman told the group how the USC training program will work, discussed the roles of federal, state and local disaster officials, and showed a film of the Los Angeles earthquake.

That earthquake spurred Marin County officials to overhaul the county's obsolete plan, and to help each of the 11 cities in Marin to prepare plans for coping with natural or war disasters within their own capabilities.

The December training exercise will require each participating county and industry agency to contribute at least one "simulator" and one "operator." The "simulators" will plot in advance what might happen in their special fields of utility, fire control, traffic or the like, if a major earthquake happened. They will draft a "scenario" of the hypothetical damage and problems. The "operators" will be given the scenario and told to solve the problems through use of the county operational area disaster plan.

"We will not be grading the effectiveness of the county plan," the USC instructors said. All participants in the training exercise will be asked to follow it immediately with a critique and suggestions for improving disaster planning, the instructors said.

The December training exercise will be only a "paper drill" with no practice out in the field. The cities will be invited to send observers, but not to take active part in the first drill, Kirby added.

Only three cities in Marin, according to Kirby, have received state and federal approval of their disaster plans: Novato, San Anselmo and Sausalito. Tiburon and Mill Valley, he said, are nearing approval.

Smog Chief Told To Ignore Probe

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

SAN FRANCISCO — The chairman of the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District has ordered its top administrator, D. J. Callaghan, to ignore a legislative investigation of charges Callaghan consistently has coddled polluters.

The Assembly Environmental Quality Committee has been investigating the district, and will hold two days of hearings on it late this month.

Assemblyman March K. Fong, D-Oakland, chairman of the committee, asked last week that Callaghan reply to the charges by Oct. 13. Callaghan never has replied to the charges, made last February in a 77-page analysis of his performance by district Director William R. Jelavich, a Mountain View city councilman.

Mrs. Fong, in a letter to board chairman Robert B. St. Clair, said "these charges must not be overlooked." She added that she wanted to "weed out any superfluous accusations to facilitate the hearing for all concerned."

The legislator also asked that the district's board of directors react in writing to Callaghan's response to the charges.

St. Clair, a San Mateo County supervisor, promptly wrote back to Mrs. Fong and declared that "Mr. Callaghan has been specifically ordered to make no comment on these charges."

The supervisor also claimed that her request was not "germane to the terms" of the Assembly resolution that triggered the investigation. "Further, I feel that such a request preempts the authority of the board of directors," he wrote.

"However, when the board sees fit to take up this matter, I will see to it that you are fully advised," St. Clair told Mrs. Fong.

Asked yesterday who had ordered Callaghan to make no comment on the charges, St. Clair at first told the Independent-Journal the gag was imposed in a board resolution last March. Suggesting that the order may instead have appeared in the minutes of a board meeting, St. Clair finally said that the order was his own, "based on my interpretation" of a board discussion of the charges when made by Jelavich.

St. Clair said he had given copies of Mrs. Fong's letter and his answer to all board members. No public mention was made of either during the period on the agenda given for correspondence.

Mrs. Fong's committee hearings will begin at 9:30 a.m. on Oct. 26 and 27 in Room 1194 of the State Building, 350 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Cal-Vet Loan Eligibility Ends For Some Vets

Eligibility for Cal-Vet farm and home loans will end Nov. 12 for many World War II and Korean War era veterans, James V. Burdick, county veterans service officer, has warned.

After Nov. 12, he said, the loan eligibility period for California veterans is limited to 20 years from the date of discharge.

The cut-off date was established by the state Legislature in 1970. Previously, California veterans had lifetime eligibility for Cal-Vet loans.

Burdick said one reason for the cut-off date was the need to provide loans to some of the 800,000 Vietnam War era veterans from California.

Smog Rule To Curb New Gas Stations

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — A new smog regulation could prohibit construction of gas stations throughout virtually the entire Bay Area — except on the ocean coast of Marin, Sonoma and San Mateo counties, smog control officials said yesterday.

The regulation was adopted earlier this year by the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District but its effect was only now becoming apparent. It requires sources of air pollution to get a permit from the district. Gas stations are a significant source of air pollution because of fumes escaping from fueling operations, according to district calculations. (Another air pollution control district story, page 1)

The hitch that may prevent issuance of permits to gas stations is that federal law prohibits such permits where air contamination already exceeds federal maximums. Oxidants, the primary pollutant from gas stations, is the Bay Area's major air pollution problem.

D.J. Callaghan, top administrator of the district, told district directors that few areas of the nine-county region did not violate the federal standard for oxidants. "If we hold strictly to the regulation," he predicted, "it is highly possible that we may have to deny permits to service stations."

The prohibition on permits also would apply to spray painting operations, he said.

Callaghan said he raised the issue at the board's regular monthly meeting so directors would be aware of "a serious problem." He had no answer to it, but promised a future report on what to do about it.

He said the only areas in the Bay Area that are clean enough to take the added air pollution from gas stations are "possibly the West coast of Marin and Sonoma counties and San Mateo County."

The federal Environmental Protection Agency has demanded that the permit system be adopted and enforced immediately, Callaghan noted.

Alameda County Supervisor Joseph P. Bort objected that the permit system will discriminate against people who want to start new gas stations, but Director Stephen Fraser likened the issue to government's clear power to limit taxi permits — which also discriminates against the newcomer.

Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors also:

ALERT — Expanded the district's pollution warning system to a three-stage system, starting with an alert level and rising through a warning to an emergency level. The two higher levels, however, never will be reached in the Bay Area, according to staff predictions.

ATTORNEY — Received report from Robert T. Anderson, temporary district counsel, that 111 penalty cases were pending court action. Anderson is on vacation for the entire month of October, leaving the district without any legal officer.

OXIDANT — Received staff report that the standard for oxidants was exceeded 16 days between Aug. 21 and Sept. 20.

VIOLATIONS — Received report that notices for violating district regulations were issued during the past month to the Novato Manor Convalescent Hospital and against Thelma A. Goodness of San Rafael and Dr. Thomas R. Kuhn of Mill Valley, both for illegal backyard burning.

BOILERS — Received without response a report from the advisory council that a regulation to control emissions from small and medium size boilers cannot be written for 18 to 24 months pending further staff study of the problem.

MEETING — Set the next board meeting at 9 a.m. Oct. 19 in district offices, 939 Ellis Street.

Senior Citizens Slate Barbecue

Juanita Anderson, the group's coordinator, said the menu will feature barbecued chicken, hot links, vegetables, bread and dessert.

The senior citizens meet every Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the center, she said, and engage in a variety of activities including arts and crafts. On Wednesday afternoons, the group goes by bus on shopping tours, doctor's appointments or whatever else they decide to do, Mrs. Anderson said.

Convict Stabbed At San Quentin

A San Quentin Prison convict serving a term for assault with a deadly weapon was stabbed in the stomach last night as he was returning to his cell in the East Block for evening lockup.

Albert Lucero, 24, suffered only superficial wounds, according to Al Silva, acting prison information officer.

No weapon was found, Silva said, but several men were questioned by authorities today.

Apartments Approved In Novato

The Novato Plan Review Committee last night approved plans for a 90-unit apartment complex at 999 South Novato Boulevard.

Allen Steinau submitted the plans for the apartments on five acres across from fire station 2. The plans dedicate 6,000 square feet for widening South Novato Boulevard and preserve 30,000 square feet for a greenbelt.

The committee also approved plans by the city public works department for a new bridge over Warner Creek on Tamalpais Avenue. This is part of the Tamalpais Avenue improvement project which will widen the street between Novato Boulevard and Center Road. Work is scheduled to start next spring.

Preliminary plans for 48 townhouses on the west side of Highway 101 east of Redwood Boulevard were approved for Robert L. Goetz Land Development Co.

It continued indefinitely plans of the state division of highways for a 7-foot high chain-link fence on all three overpasses on the new freeway bypass. It also continued consideration of plans for color schemes and landscaping for the city-owned buildings north of DeLong, east of Machin and west of Sherman avenues.

Evening Of Music Set For Saturday

Santa Venetia Presbyterian Church will present an evening of chamber music Saturday at the church at 8 o'clock, and not on Sunday as erroneously reported last night by the Independent Journal.

Artists in the free program include Joan Smith, soprano; Joe Benson and Marilyn Coyen, oboe; Kathy Conner; English horn; Ed Harris, clarinet; Lynn Mehlinger and Roy Oakley Jr., violin; Delbert Schneider, cello, and Joanne Oakley and Margaret Oakley, piano.

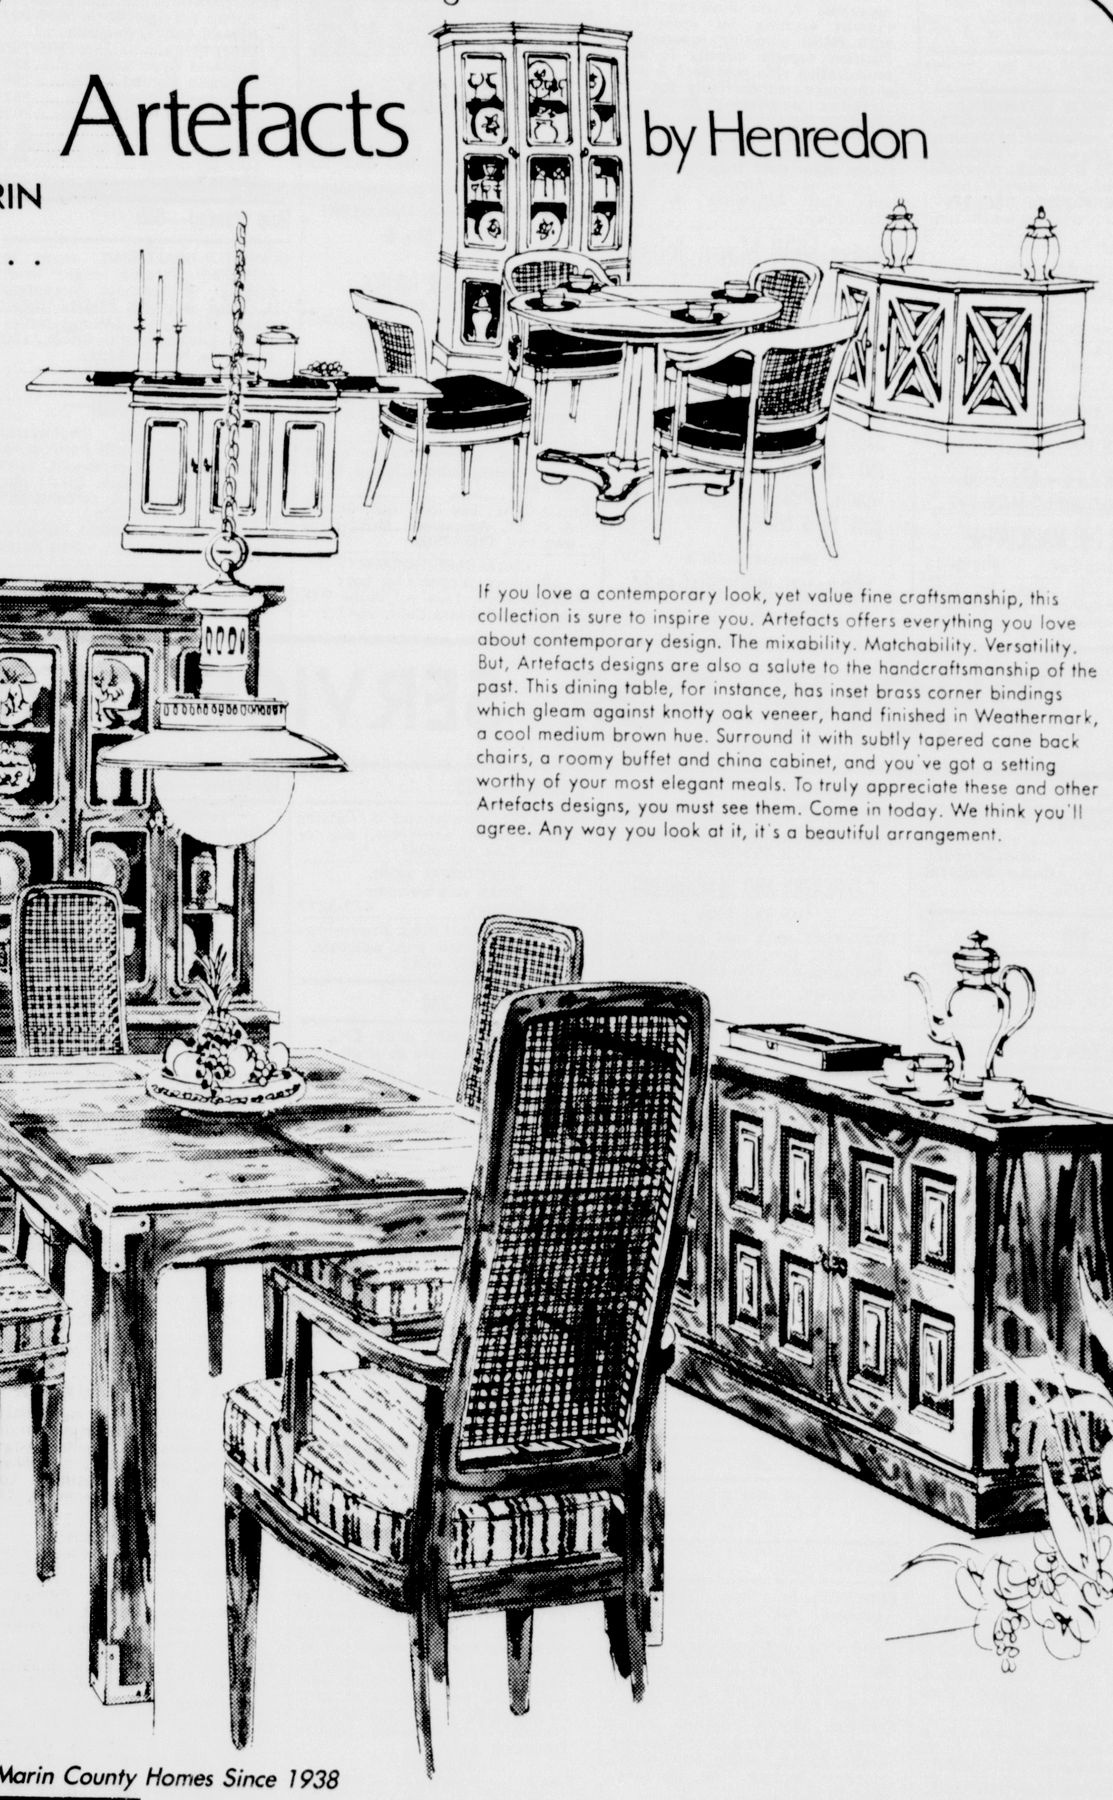

New Chairman

Robert Julin was chosen chairman of the Tamalpais Park and Recreation Commission last night. He replaces John McRee who recently resigned from the commission. Robert J. Ricketts was named secretary of the group.

Any way you look at it, it's a beautiful arrangement.

A CASA MARIN EXCLUSIVE . . .

If you love a contemporary look, yet value fine craftsmanship, this collection is sure to inspire you. Artefacts offers everything you love about contemporary design. The mixability. Matchability. Versatility. But, Artefacts designs are also a salute to the handcraftsmanship of the past. This dining table, for instance, has inset brass corner bindings which gleam against knotty oak veneer, hand finished in Weathermark, a cool medium brown hue. Surround it with subtly tapered cane back chairs, a roomy buffet and china cabinet, and you've got a setting worthy of your most elegant meals. To truly appreciate these and other Artefacts designs, you must see them. Come in today. We think you'll agree. Any way you look at it, it's a beautiful arrangement.

McGovern Hits Nixon Diplomacy

CLEVELAND (UPI)—George S. McGovern today charged President Nixon with driving the United States into isolation and pledged, if elected, a "new internationalism" based on a strong waste-free defense and a prudent easing of tensions with Russia and China.

McGovern, the Democratic presidential candidate, promised an end to "reflexive intervention" in the internal affairs of other nations and the reestablishment of political and economic relations with allies throughout the world.

In the major foreign policy address of his campaign, the 50-year old South Dakota senator said his first act as president would be "the immediate and total end" of America's involvement in the Vietnam war.

But he also pledged a McGovern administration to bringing the arms race under control; diplomatic recognition of China; a seat on the United Nations Security Council for Japan; a supply of arms which would guarantee the security of Israel; and a restoration of Congress' roie in foreign affairs.

In prepared remarks for the City Club of Cleveland, McGovern gave a broad outline of the foreign policy he would adopt if he ousts President Nixon from the White House and said he would go on national television Tuesday to give his plan for ending the Vietnam War.

Before flying to leveland, McGovern was scheduled to speak to the All American Council of the Democratic National Committee in New York City where Wednesday night he, once again, bitterly attacked the Nixon Administration in a dinner speech to the Liberal party.

"I believe we can have that America again—a first rate nation at home and abroad, where American greatness and commitment to international cooperation will again become a thing of wonder in the world."

He listed six "clear guidelines" the United States must follow in the "new internationalism in the 1970s."

—A strong national defense, free of waste.

—Reestablishment of healthy economic and pglitical relationships with principal allies and trading partners in Europe, Japan, Canada, and Latin America.

—"It must avoid the kind of reflexive interventionism that has foolishly involved us in the internal political affairs of other countries."

—A world community with the capacity to resolve disputes among nations.

—A reassertion of "American's role as a beacon—and friend—to those millions in the human family desperately striving to achieve the elemental human dignity which all men seek."

He said Nixon has isolated the United States with his "sixgun world diplomacy and failure to consult" allies and trading partners; from "reality by insistence that tough talk and big Pentagon budgets are somehow synonymous with national manhood;" and "from our own ideals as we back a corrupt dictatorship in Saigon, by raining fire and death on helpless people all over Indochina.

$30.5 Billion For Labor, HEW

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Tuesday approved a $30.5 billion appropriations bill for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare Departments that includes a provision to exempt firms with fewer than three employes from occupational safety inspections.

The bill, passed 75 to 1, would give Labor and HEW the appropriation that President Nixon vetoed last month, saying it was "reckless federal spending."

The bill now goes to a conference committee to be reconciled with a House-passed measure that is $935.4 million less.

Grumbles Greet Freeway Timing

By DAVID DIETZ

Preliminary plans for widening Highway 101 up to 12 lanes from the Greenbrae interchange to the San Rafael viaduct were shown yesterday to a luncheon meeting of San Rafael businessmen and city officials.

But Ray Weiss, senior district design engineer for the state Division of Highways, said the improvements, for which no cost was disclosed, wouldn't be ready until 1980.

Several persons in the audience objected that the plans didn't go far enough and voted to form a committee to take their concerns to the city council and highway officials.

As part of a freeway imporvement program from the Golden Gate Bridge to Lucas Valley, Highway 101 would be widened from six to eight lanes from the Greenbrae interchange to the base of California Park Hill, and then to 12 lanes to the viaduct.

The project, which would come about three years after 101 widening through Corte Madera to Greenbrae, also includes construction of a new southbound offramp from 101 to Highway 17 and a new onramp from 17 onto 101.

Also in the preliminary plans is an improved intersection in the Jacoby Street-West Francisco Boulevard area, as well as changes to the northbound 101 onramp to Bellam Boulevard.

Weiss said bids probably would be asked for the work in 1978, pending a public hearing and federal approval of an environmental impact report. Getting U.S. approval, needed because of infusion of federal money, could take up to two years, Weiss said.

The widening would force relocation or disruption of businesses along the western side of the freeway, especially on Francisco Boulevard, according to maps displayed by Weiss. He said nearly 100 feet of right-of-way west of the freeway would be needed for the project.

Luncheon gatherers voiced concern, with expressions of sympathy from Weiss, that the plans failed to correct what was described as a serious traffic bottleneck caused by cars pouring from the San Quentin Wye and northbound 101 into Bellam Boulevard at the city's main post office.

Correction of the problem calls for "really a crash program," said real estate man Herman Deitch, noting the increased traffic impact brought recently by Golden Gate Bridge District buses stored nearby. He also wondered about the effect of major industrial and commercial development planned in the East San Rafael area.

Weiss's suggestion to place traffic signals at the Bellam intersection drew disapproving grumbles from the audience, although he did express the belief major corrective work might be included once final widening plans are drawn.

Amid various proposals for solution, including takeover by the city of the state-owned portion of Bellam, the gathering voted to form a committee of East San Rafael businessmen and property owners to bring pressure on city and state officials to get the Bellam work done.

Japanese Can Get Money Back

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon signed into law Wednesday legislation that will allow nearly 2,000 Japanese-Americans interned during World War II to collect $4.5 million in confiscated bank savings.

Claimants can petition the attorney general for return of the money taken from U.S. branches of Japanese banks and held without interest by the Justice Department.

Several years ago Congress passed legislation providing repayment for at least part of the value of confiscated property. However, those interned after the outbreak of war with Japan and later paroled as "enemy aliens" were barred from making claims for savings taken from U.S. branches of Japanese banks.

U.S. To Admit Uganda Exiles

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The State Department has announced that the United States will admit 1,000 stateless Asians from Uganda, who have been ordered to leave the African nation.

The step was announced Monday by State Department spokesman Charles W. Bray III, who said the United States would be the first nation to provide settlement for Ugandans in the stateless category.

The Asians have been ordered to leave Uganda byov. 8. Britain has accepted responsibility for resettlement of Ugandans with British nationality but has requested that other nations also help resettle the Asians affected by the expulsion order.

Ban Lifted On Mollusk Harvest

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The government yesterday declared an end to the "red tide" emergency which had forced a ban on shellfish harvesting in Maine, New Hampshire and Massachusetts.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) said an organism which caused the tide and resulting contamination —a toxic form of algae —had died off. It said shellfish from the affected areas were now safe.

It also said reports from across the country indicated that "all known shellfish dealers have been contacted and contaminated lots of clams and mussels have been removed from commercial channels."

Mrs. Irving Eager To Resume Art Career

IBIZA, Spain (UPI)—Edith Irving, wife of the author of the Howard Hughes autobiography hoax, says she is resuming her career as an impressionist painter. Mrs. Irving, who already has served one jail term in connection with the hoax, was described by friends Wednesday as being exuberant and eager to paint.

She returned to the couple's Spanish island home when a Swiss court granted her permission to do so. She is awaiting trial in Switzerland in another case stemming from the hoax.

Newsman Jailed Under New Rule

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI)—Peter Bridge was sentenced to an indefinite jail term Wednesday for refusing to reveal a news source, the first reporter to go to prison since a U.S. Supreme Court ruling left newsmen open to punishment for protecting their sources.

"I'm not happy about going to jail but I can't imagine any newsman doing it differently," said Bridge, 36, a reporter for the now defunct Newark Evening News.

Superior Court Judge H. Curtis Meanor, who once worked as a newsman, ordered Bridge jailed until he answered five questions before the Essex County Grand Jury probing an alleged payoff concerning the Newark Housing Authority.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, clean air.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Crashed BART Car Too Fast

OAKLAND (UPI) — A computer-controlled rapid transit train that ran off the tracks injuring five persons was traveling about 60 miles per hour as it entered a station where it was supposed to be going 27 m.p.h.

L. W. Breiner, line transportation superintendent for the Bay Area Rapid Transit District, told a board of inquiry Wednesday the train's operator did everything he could to stop the speeding train manually.

The operator, Eli Palmer, 36, pushed the emergency brake button several times, operated the master control switch to put the train under manual control, and as a last resort removed the key from the selector switch.

But all his efforts were unsuccessful, Breiner said.

Operations To Remove 'Apron Of Fat' Not Widely Accepted

A coed writes: "My roommate was fat as a teen-ager, but in college she went on a diet and lost more than 100 pounds. Her figure has improved, however, her lower abdomen hangs down like an apron and her hips still are too large. She plans to have the apron removed surgically and has the money to do it.

"Two doctors have refused to do the procedure. As they explained, ugly scars will remain and the abdomen will assume its original size if she gets fat again. One M.D. gave her the name of a South American surgeon and she plans to have it done next summer. Isn't it done in this country?"

Yes, the operation can be done in the U.S. But it has not gained wide acceptance in this country for the reasons given. The same can be said for thigh and buttocks operations. We are not implying that plastic surgeons in other countries are not qualified. Many are highly skilled and have been reshaping American jet setters for some time. The price is right and there is considerable privacy and time to recuperate.

'The operation (abdominoplasty) is well-known to surgeons. As a matter of fact, in some instances, an apron of skin and fat weighing 10 pounds has been removed. The residual scar usually extends from one hip bone to the other. The buttocks operation leaves a seven-to-eight inch scar in a very sensitive area. Bear in mind, however, the procedure is not as simple as it sounds and is reserved for people with grotesque amounts of fat.

Several years ago, an abdominal apron was trimmed away from a patient of mine after she lost 230 pounds. Following the operation, she developed pneumonia and lost another 30 pounds and almost died. Our coed sounds determined to have the procedure, but she should know the facts and be realistic.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.

BLOCK AND BLOCKED

REPLY

No. Heart block usually refers to a delay or blockage of the nerve impulse that stimulates contractions of the ventricles and auricles. A blocked coronary is responsible for the common heart attack; the narrowed vessel becomes obstructed by a clot and the heart muscle suffers from lack of nourishment.

SCHIZOPHRENIA

REPLY

Yes, but like pneumonia — it might recur. Much depends upon the length of time the condition existed before treatment was started. Psychiatric care, including the use of sedatives, vitamins, and shock therapy, is recommended.

CONTACT LENSES

D.B. writes: Is it safe to wear contact lenses for 16 hours at a stretch?

REPLY

This is an individual problem. Some people are able to wear them longer than others before irritation occurs. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on contact lenses.

Burglary Charge Dismissed Again

For the second time, a Marin Municipal Court judge has dismissed a felony burglary charge against Frances Ann Arenado, 32, of Marin City.

Judge David R. Baty released her Tuesday after denying a motion by Deputy Dist. Atty. Peter W. Evans to continue the case until he can produce a police officer to testify.

Judge Gary W. Thomas dismissed the same charge for the same reason last week, but the district attgrney refiled it. Evans said the charge won't be filed a third time.

Miss Arenado was arrested Sept. 10 with David Walter Pedrico, 36, also of Marin City on suspicion of taking a cash register containing $80 from a San Rafael gas station shortly before Corte Madera police halted their car on Highway 101 near Marin City.

Judge Rejects Hayakawa Offer

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A federal judge has rejected Dr. S. I. Hayakawa's offer to testify as a semantics expert in Mayor Joseph L. Alioto's libel suit against Look Magazine.

Hayakawa, the San Francisco State University president, said Tuesday he had presented himself to Judge Russell Smith in U.S. District Court as a professional writer.

The second trial of the San Francisco mayor's $12.5 million suit against the now-defunct magazine is under way in San Francisco. Jurors could not reach a decision in the first trial.

San Diego Wants Its 'Convention Money'

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The city of San Diego, which had prepared for several months to host the Republican National Convention before it was switched to Miami, wants $212,770 from the federal government for its efforts.

The City Council Wednesday voted unanimously to ask the government to reimburse expenses incurred by regional agencies in preparing for the convention.

$500,000 Claim By F86 Crash Family

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The parents of Nancy Keys, 12, and her sister Sally Ann, 14, killed in the crash of a Sabrejet into an ice cream parlor Sept. 24, have filed identical $500,000 claims against the City and County of Sacramento.

To date, more than $1.3 million in injury and death claims have been filed against the city and county as a result of the crash which took 22 lives. The plane failed during takeoff from Sacramento Executive Airport and crashed into the ice cream parlor.

In their claim, Mr. and Mrs. Carrol J. Keys said the city and county "substantially participated" in the planning and development of the airport and "did not provide adequate clear space" at the end of the runway from which the plane attempted to take off. They also contended the city and county were negligent in operating the airport.

Also filed Tuesday was a $750,000 claim against the city and county in the deaths of Louis Jugum and his daughter, Elaine, 10, two other victims of the crash.

Maderans Claim They Are At State's Center

MADERA (UPI) —A yellow plastic cap on a steel rod stuck in the ground 1.1 miles north of Redinger Lake In Madera County is the exact geographic center of California.

At least that point is the center according to a study conducted by the Madera County Engineering Department carried out at the request of the Madera District Chamber of Commerce.

Albert Grote, head of department, said Tuesday the chamber hopes to erect a permanent monument at the spot.

Although the center of the state has been disputed, Grote said there would be no disagreement on the method used by his department unless offshore islands are to be included in calculation.

Faculty Aids Students Whose Loans Are Late

Sonoma State College faculty members came to the financial rescue of 100 students this week when federal loan money failed to arrive in time to pay tuition.

Financial aids officer William Frenaye said increased paperwork brought a month-long delay for students applying for federal loans to help them through college.

Frenaye estimated that between 1,500 and 2,000 students applied for loans while only 50 checks had arrived in recent weeks. He said most students were able to borrow the $70 registration fee from relatives or friends, but that nearly 100 students would have been forced to drop out when the federal loans failed to arrive on time.

Frenaye said the nonprofit Sonoma State College Foundation, headed by President Thomas H. McGrath and a committee of faculty and staff members, took a $7,000 loan to assist the students.

The emergency loans from the foundation will be repaid whenever the federal loan money finally arrives. Dean of students Robert Joseph waived the usual $5 late filing fee for the students.

"Not many state colleges have been this responsive," Frenaye said. "Many of the students had no place else to turn to."

Robbery Case Figure Goes To Superior Court

Leonard Franklin Pyles, 20, of Pittsburg has been bound over to Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing an invalid June 28.

Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court ordered him to appear Oct. 16.

Pyles was arrested Sept. 9 by Petaluma police on suspicion of participating in the robbery of a 79-year-old television repairman.

Arrested July 11 by San Rafael police were Paul Brent Caldwell, 25, of Sonoma, Danny Ray Pyles, 23, of San Rafael and a 13-year-old boy who was turned over to juvenile authorities.

A trial for the older Pyles and Caldwell is set for the week of Oct. 24 in superior court on the charge of robbing Ralph D. Hoy of $300 by holding a toy gun at his head and demanding cash.

San Rafael police said the robbers gained entry by telling Hoy they needed a television set fixed.

Four Drivers Are Sentenced

Sentenced Monday by Judge Robert A. Smallman were:

CAMERA FANS
By Ken Reichard
DOUBLE EXPOSURES

Haunted by double exposures, light streaks, shimmering images and other ghosts that keep your pictures from coming out right? .... Well, we have to admit that there's a lot more to shooting good pictures than the mere snap of a shutter and a wait for the results. If you approach the subject that way you are going to have more failures than necessary.

We feel that you should make rather than take pictures, and here are a few basic rules for everyone.

(1) Hold the Camera still, even if you have to balance it on something when shooting.
(2) If you have a focusing lens, set it for the correct distance.
(3) Keep fingers away from the lens.
(4) Keep the camera straight and level.
(5) Remember to advance the film each time, to prevent double exposures.
(6) Keep backgrounds undistracting in close up shots of people.
(7) Shoot moving objects from an angle and from a distance.
(8) Watch the rewind knob to see if the film is actually moving forward in the camera.

These things will soon become second nature to you and you will have a head start toward making better pictures.

Board Agrees Pension Unfair

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Board of Supervisors' legislative and personnel committee agreed Tuesday that the city discriminates against the survivors of its female employes.

Committeemen voted to recommend a full study into costs of making a change into the pension system that gives nothing to the spouse of a retired female city employe after she dies.

Surviving spouses of male employes get half his pension until they die or remarry.

Disease Detection Discussion Set

Dr. Herbert C. Lee and Dr. Patrick McLin will discuss the kidney disease detection program under way at Marin elementary schools at a Monday meeting of the Marin County chapter of the Kidney Foundation of Northern California.

Hill Junior High Room Will Not Be Enlarged

The Novato Unified School District board has decided not to enlarge the multi-purpose room at Hill Junior High School.

According to Paul Mobley, assistant superintendent, the decision was made after the board had discussed the project which would have added one third more space to the building. In deciding not to make the addition, the board on Tuesday dropped the need to sell bonds to cover the project.

The Novato Unified School District board also:

RECREATION — Approved an agreement with the Novato Parks and Recreation Department for the city to furnish coaches and organize flag football and basketball at the junior high schools at a cost of $700 to the district. The district will rent the San Marin Club pool for the San Marin High School water polo team at a cost of $300 per year.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Ruth R. Craig who is retiring Oct. 31. She has been a secretary with the district since 1952.

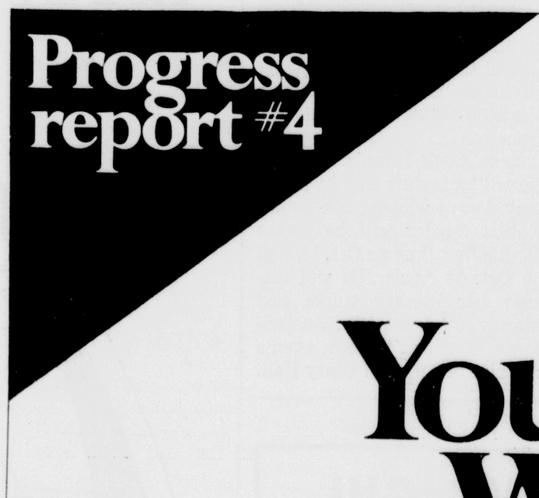

ADJOUNRED — Adjourned to 8 p.m., Oct. 17 at the lecture room at Novato High School.

JUST GOT HIM

Hunter Hoping For Runs In A.L. Playoff Opener

ANAHEIM (UPI)—Jim "Catfish" Hunter, the mustachioed ace of the Oakland A's pitching staff, doesn't think he has a chance to win the American League's Cy Young Award given to teammate Vida Blue a year ago.

"I'd like to win it very much," he said on Wednesday night when the regular season ended, "and I feel I deserve it as much as anybody with the possible exception of Gaylord Perry.

"But I haven't had the publicity of, say, a Mickey Lolich. I guess I'm just not a colorful guy in the papers. I don't like to say anything controversial but stuff like that gets you publicity."

Hunter, a 26-year-old right-hander who posted a 21-7 record during the regular season, thinks the American League pitching award will go to one of three men—Perry, Lolich or Wilbur Wood.

"I like Gaylord Perry because of what he accomplished for a next-to-last place team," he said. "Look at his record and ERA with Cleveland.

Hunter was the A's other 20-game winner in 1971. While Blue recorded a 24-8 mark, the Hertford, N.C., product went 21-11.

Manager Dick Williams has named Hunter to open for the A's against Detroit in the teams' best-of-five American League playoff series at Oakland Saturday. Typically, the A's No. 1 pitcher of 1972 says:

"The only thing I'm worrying about is helping us get into the World Series. It's a great honor to start such an important game. It shows the manager and team have a lot of confidence in you. Just hope I can do the job."

Although Oakland won eight of 12 games from Detroit this season, Hunter is worried.

"Detroit has a tough lineup," he said. "We scored a lot of runs when we beat them this year. I just hope we can score a lot of runs Saturday.

"There are four clubs left in this thing and any one of them could go all the way. All you have to do is get hot in a short series and that will do it."

Hunter had a 2.04 ERA this year compared to an ERA of 2.96 last season.

"I think I was a better pitcher this season because I had better control," he remarked. "I didn't add any pitches, I just was more mature."

In eight big league seasons, the 6-foot, 200-pounder now has a record of 115-96. Sixty of his victories have been during the past three years.

Hunter expressed the opinion that the A's lack of success against Baltimore in the 1971 playoffs will help them in 1972. The Orioles took Oakland in three straight last season.

"We'll be a lot looser this time out," he said. "We were too tight last year."

READY FOR TRADE TALK

Giants End Their Season

By JOE SARGIS

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—When owner Horace Stoneham of the San Francisco Giants and his manager, Charlie Fox, go to the World Series in a few weeks they may be the most popular men in town.

That's because the Giants have a corner on young outfielders, first basemen and potential third basemen and they themselves are in desperate need of pitching.

"It'll be a little different this time, though," said Fox after watching his Giants wind up the 1972 season at near empty Candlestick Pack Wednesday with a 6-4 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"Where we were going to other people with our hat in our hand this year, now everyone wants to talk with us. That puts us in a pretty good position to get the kind of help we think we need for 1973."

Wednesday's victory over the Padres was the Giants' fifth in a row and helped wind up a frustrating season on a solid note. But still they wound up in fifth place after winning the National League West in 1971.

"Sure, we're unhappy about being fifth," said Fox, "but after all our catastrophies, we made a lot of progress with our younger players.

"So, it didn't wind up being all that bad. Fifth is no worse than second when your only goal is to win it all. We figure we're only a player or two from being solid contenders next year so that's what we'll be talking about with the other clubs at the World Series and the winter meetings."

Fox ticked off a "solid starter" as San Francisco's big need for 1973.

"By a solid starter, I mean

Petaluma Man Captures Third National Pistol Title

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — A Petaluma Border Patrolman, Jerry Jackson, became the first target shooter Wednesday to win the national police pistol individual championship for the third time in the 11-year history of the competition.

Jackson, with a record-smashing effort, rallied to win the last two two events and posted a five-match total of 1,489 points out of a possible 1,500. This was two points higher than the old record held by Reeves C. Jungkind of the Texas Department of Public Safety at Austin.

Team competition was to conclude the three-day event today.

Trailing by a matter of X-ringshots, Jackson sent to work Wednesday and topped the field of 502 competitors from law enforcement agencies in 32 states in both the two-stage 25-yard contest and the 60-shot national police course to slam the door on his pursuers.

He won his first championship when the matches were held at Bloomington, Ind., in 1968, and repeated last year.

Robert J. Landreth of the California Highwwy Patrol and Blue Lake, was a distant second to Jackson with 1,481 points. Augie Lucente of the New York City Police Department and Kings Park was third with 1,480 points.

Improved Pass Rush For 49ers

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI) —An improved pass rush has resulted in more interceptions for the San Francisco 49ers.

To date, the 49ers have intercepted nine passes in three games, equalling their total for all of last season.

"The receiver doesn't have that much time to make his moves and consequently the defensive back finds himself in a better position to intercept, especially when the quarterback has to hurry his throw," said 49er defensive back coach Don Heinrich.

Head coach Dick Nolan doesn't expect his club to enjoy similar success Sunday against the Rams in Los Angeles because he feels Ram linemen Harry Schuh, and Charlie Cowan will give Cedrick Hardman and Tom Hart a lot of trouble. The 49ers are still five-point favorites.

Nolan noted that Hardman and Hart have been successful in helping the 49ers sack the quarterback 11 times for 105 yards because of interior pressure applied by tackles Earl Edwards, Charlie Krueger and Bob Hoskins.

ANOTHER CHANCE

Four Managers Are Rehired

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Billy Martin couldn't ask for much more except for his Detroit Tigers to win the American League pennant and the World Series.

Martin, whose Tigers clinched the AL East flag with a 3-1 victory over Boston Tuesday-ending a tense division pennant scramble-had his contract, reportedly worth $65,000 and due to expire after the 1973 season, extended Wednesday for one year.

Boston Manager Eddie Kasko, who had been on the way out before his faltering Red Sox unleashed a late-season charge and finished just one-half game behind Detroit, was rehired for two years with a $10,000 increase, boosting his salary to $60,000.

Announcement of the two contracts was made just before Boston defeated Detroit 4-1 Wednesday in their final game of the year.

Also on Wednesday, Minnesota, which secured third place in the AL West by crushing the Chicago White Sox 14-2, gave Manager Frank Quilici a contract for the 1973 season, and the Cleveland Indians rehired Ken Aspromonte for at least two more seasons.

Martin, who earlier had rejected a one-year extension, later changed his mind and said: "I got the money I wanted, so I'm very happy. It was either a longer term or more money. I got the money."

Kasko's job appeared shaky before the Red Sox rallied after the All-Star break and charged into first place, a position they ultimately lost to Detroit.

"I'm real pleased with the contract and very pleased with the way our ball club came on in the last couple of months," Kasko said.

Terms of Quilici's one-year contract were not announced but his salary was believed to be about $30,000. He led the Twins to a 41-43 record after replacing Bill Rigney on July 6 and is the fifth manager in six years to work under Owner Calvin Griffith.

"There should be some changes made as far as personnel is concerned," said Quinlici. "We can't be content with the kind of pitching we have. We have to be concerned with defense."

Although the Indians finished below .500 for the fourth consecutive season with a 72-84 record, they posted 12 more victories than in 1971 while ficishing fifth in the AL East.

The club refused to reveal financial terms of Aspromonte's contract, but said it was a "multi-year contract."

Barry Talks Money, Then Off To N.Y.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Rick Barry and the owner of the Golden State Warriors are talking dollars and cents—about $654,000 worth.

Barry, 28, was closeted with Franklin Mieuli Tuesday night and Wednesday morning before he flew back to his rented home on Long Island, N.Y.

Mieuli indicated the two would meet again later this week to further discuss Barry's contract which calls for $218,000 a year for three years. This sum was to be paid over 10 years but Barry wants the new contract to spread the sum over only six years so he can have more money for investments.

"I hope he signs soon because we can use him," said Warrior coach Al Attles who talked with Barry on the telephone before he returned to New York.

Rick's wife said there is a possibility her husband has changed his mind about remaining in New York to work for NBC radio and ABC television.

"I hope he makes up his mind," said Pam Barry. "It's driving him crazy ... and me too."

Last month Barry said he would retire from basketball and remain in radio and television work in New York because he couldn't afford to play for the Warriors. Only last weekend, the former Warrior who jumped to the rival American Basketball Association in 1967, said he would never play for the Warriors.

Barry has been playing recently with the New York Nets of the ABA. But a federal judge ordered him to fulfill the remaining two years of a five-year pact with the Warriors or play with no one.

The jump-shooting forward reportedly has been trying to convince Mieuli to trade him to the Nets.

Squaw Valley In Olympic Bid

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (UPI)-The winter olympic games may come to Squaw Valley a second time.

The advisory planning commission of the Tahoe Regional Planning Agency (TRPA) has asked for a study of the possibility of having the 1976 games at Squaw—which was the site of the 1964 games.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) said alternate sites at Lake Placid, N.Y., and Squaw Valley should be considered before Congress appropriates $15,500,000 to help build facilities near Denver, Colo.

One of the fears expressed was that roads built to facilitate access to the games areas could disrupt the environment.

San Rafael knocked Tamalpais out of the unbeaten ranks, 25-30, and downed San Marin, 24-31 at San Marin. But Tam remained in second place in the MCAL with a 24-33 defeat of the home-town Mustangs.

San Mrin drew some glory from the course record-breaking performance of their top runner, Gary Lathrop. He won the meet in 14:29.

In frosh-soph action, Redwood beat Drake, 15-50, with Augie Louis of the Giants taking first at 11:13.5. San Rafael, behind Doug Over's 11:35, whipped Tam, 28-33.

Rodgers Leads In Quest Of Biggest Golf Purse

INZAIMACHI, Japan (UPI)—Phil Rodgers today fired a five-under-par 66 for a one stroke lead in the world's richest golf tournament, the $300,000 Taiheiyo Club Masters over a field of 84 top golfers from eight countries.

Rodgers shot a four-under-par 31 on the front nine and a one-under-par 35 on the back nine of the 7,166 yard par-71 Sobu Country Club course here.

First prize money is $65,000 with second valued at $32,500 and third $20,000.

Grouped in three-under-par 68s were George Archer and Kermit Zarley of the United States, Graham Marsh of Australia, Shieh Min-Nam of Taiwan, a resident Taiwanese, and Masashi Ozaki and Takaaki Kono of Japan.

Pre-tournament favorite Lee Trevino, who arrived late Wednesday night after an 18 hour plane flight and played golf today in Japan for the first time in 15 years, shot a two-over-par 37 on the front side but birdied the 13th and 14th holes for a two-under-par 34 on the back nine for an even par 71.

"I didn't know where to place my drives, today," Trevino said. "I also didn't know the speed of the greens. Now that I've played one round I feel I could improve my score by four or five strokes, perhaps even more tomorrow."

Also at 71 were Orville Moody, Homero Blancas, Dan Sikes, Johnny Miller, Lou Graham, Bud Allin and Bob Shaw of the United States.

Billy Casper and Deane Beman of the United States shot a two-over-par 73s.

At one-under-par 70 were Bruce Devlin of Australia, Ray Floyd Fred Marti and Dave Douglass of the United States, Chen Ching-Po of Taiwan, and Japan's Haruo Yasuda Shigeru Uchida and Kosaku Shimada.

Thailand's Sukree Onsham had a 72, South Korea's Han Chang-Sang a 74 and Lu Liang-Huan of Taiwan a 75.

Walter Godfrey of New Zealand skied to a 42-43—85 for the day's worst score.

Rodgers sank birdie putts of 40 feet on the first hole, eight on the fourth, 15 on the seventh, three on the eighth, four on the 12th, five on the 14th and 20 on the 15th.

2nd Half Goals Give Tars Win

College of Marin scored twice midway through the second half to come from behind and defeat The University of California junior varsity, 2-1 yesterday in a soccer game at Berkeley.

Sean Eldin scored the tying goal, and Carlos Zubiate pushed home the winner as Marin evened its season mark at 4-4-1.

The Tars play Friday at Kentfield against the Univeristy of San Francisco J.V.s, then open play in the Western Junior College Conference next Tuesday night at Diablo Valley.

Foreman's Manager Seeks Title Fight

Combined AP and UPI

SALT LAKE CITY — George Foreman's trainer-manager has asked heavyweight champion Joe Frazier to give his boxer a chance at the title and has proposed to give $1 from each ticket to charity.

Dick Sadler said Wednesday he would let the money go to the Yancey Durham Jr. National Sickle Cell Anemia Foundation. Durham is Frazier's manager.

Sadler also said Foreman would fight for the challenger's traditional half of what is paid to the champion. He said Muhammad Ali's demands for more of the proceeds had held up plans for a Frzaier-Ali rematch.

There were no knockdowns in the fight and the three judges split in their decision with one calling it even.

Flores had a swelling under his left eye suffered in the fourth round but neither fighter was cut. The pair slugged and fought at close range throughout the bout.

In a 10-round semifinal, Marco Gerrado, 159½, San Diego, scored a ninth round technical knockout over Willy Thomas, 148½, San Francisco. Thomas went down for an eight count in the fourth round and in the ninth his handlers threw in the towel to save him from punishment.

GIANTS

someone like (Steve) Carlton or (Tom) Seaver," said Fox. "We need a proven winner to lead our staff of youngsters such as Jim Barr, Ron Bryant and Jim Willoughby."

The Giants have a pair of proven stars in Juan Marichal and Sam McDowell, both of whom broke down in 1972 when the club looked for them to show the way. McDowell has had arm trouble all year and Marichal has a back problem.

"All Sam needs is rest," said Fox. "A healthy McDowell is the kind of guy who could lead us next year. As for Marichal, they tell me he needs a back operation and that's always an iffy situation. If he can come back, then we are that much better off ..."

The feeling is that the Giants will be trying to unload both pitchers during the winter and may also listen for the first time—to offers for Willie McCovey, who played half the year with a steel rod in his left arm. McCovey is due to have the rod removed in the next couple of weeks.

"We feel with our nucleus all we need is just a little help to have a solid team next year," said the Giants' skipper. Then he listed what he feels is the heart of the club for 1973—Chris Speier at short, Tito Fuentes at second, Dave Rader behind the plate and an outfield of Bobby Bonds in right, Garry Maddox in center and Ken Henderson in left.

Dave Kingman, who led the Giants in homers with 29 and RBIs with 83, will play at either first or third next year, depending on what happens to McCovey. Other third base candidates include Ed Goodson, Jim Ray Hart, Al Gallagher and Chris Arnold. Goodson also is a candidate for first along with Gary Thomasson, who doubles as an outfielder.

Besides the so-called regulars and Thomasson, Fox has youngster Gary Matthews, Jim Howarth and Bernie Williams as outfield candidates.

"Everyone asks about our outfielders," said Fox. "Now, they can start making us some offers."

As for reports Bonds, who hit his 26th homer with two on in the eighth to win Wednesday's game for Bryant, is on the trading block, Fox raised his eyebrows.

"We'll listen to an offer but that doesn't mean we'll trade him," said Fox. "Heck, now you're talking about a superstar."

But Fox and Stoneham are looking for a superstar pitcher and they will have to give up someone of quality to get that kind of pitcher.

Bonds also stole two bases Wednesday to run his season total to 44—tops on the club and third in the N.L.

Bryant gained credit for his 14th victory—best on the Giants in 1972—even though the Padres touched him for 10 of their 11 hits in eight innings.

A crowd of only 1,578 saw the final game and gave the Giants a home total of 648,344. Both the final day attendance and the year's total were lows for the Giants since they moved to San Francisco in 1958.

Football

HARLINGEN, Tex. — Hospital officials Wednesday announced the death of a 14-year-old youth who was injured in a junior high school football game last week.

The boy was Felipe Melendez, who died in Valley Baptist Hospital Tuesday night.

He was injured while playing for Vernon Junior High during their game against Edcouch-Elsa. Principal Sam Clecker said Melendez came off the field in the third quarter, said he felt woozy and minutes later collapsed on the bench.

Basketball

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Luke Jackson, an eight-year veteran with the Philadelphia 76ers of the National Basketball Association, announced his retirement Wednesday night.

Jackson had appeared in eight preseason exhibition games with the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association.

Hockey

BOSTON — The Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League are expected to announce at a news conference today that former Coach Harry Sinden is returning in an administrative capacity.

Sinden left the Bruins in 1970 after leading them to the Stanley Cup and went into private business. He recently coached Team Canada in a series against Russia.

Rescue Highlights World Surfing Meet

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—After a four-day delay waiting for the surf to come up and the winds to die down, men's competition began in the World Surfing Championships and soon produced unexpected excitement when competitors rescued three men whose boat capsized.

Surfers Rod Brooks of Australia, Jerry Lopez of Hawaii and Bill Anderson of Oceanside helped the men when their 17-foot outboard overturned. They found the boat's three elderly occupants nearly exhausted as they clung to their vessel.

The surfers aided the men until the lifeguards and the Harbor Patrol reached the scene.

Seven preliminary heats were run in the event, which was supposed to start last Saturday but whose entrants have had problems finding suitable surf. Nine more prelims and the semi-finals in the women's events are planned for today — weather permitting.

Surf officials said some contestants who lost out in early rounds might be allowed in the quarterfinals after subsequent competition.

Breakers of four to six feet were reported Wednesday, and the forecast for today indicated similar conditions.

Making the quarterfinals Wednesday were Jim Blears, Reno Abellira, Jerry Lopez and Keone Downing of Hawaii; Michael Peterson, Terry Fitzgerald, Peter Townend, Mark Richards and Colin Smith of Australia; Willy Julia of Puerto Rico; Sergio Barreda of Peru; Corky Carroll, David Bolcerzak and David Nuuhiwa of the United States and Milko Kawai of Japan.

Lead Pipe Holds On, Wins Feature Race

SAN MATEO, Calif. (UPI)—Lead Pipe took an early lead and then was forced to hold on to nip Bulbul by a neck Wednesday in the featured Alviso Purse at Bay Meadows.

The Ruler Flirts finished third and Swoonalad was fourth in the field of seven allowance sprinters. Jockey Roy Yaka guided Lead Pipe over the six furlongs in a rapid 1.09 2-5. Lead Pipe paid $9.60 to win.

Pearson's Car Hottest For National 500 Race

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (UPI) — David Pearson, half of the Woods Brothers Mercury team, has the hottest car on the track for what looks to be the wildest stock car race of the year.

Pearson won the pole position for the National 500 Nascar Grand National race with a qualifying lap of 158.539 mph Wednesday, edging Buddy Baker and breaking the qualifying record of 158.493 mph set last year by A.J. Foyt.

Baker, behind the wheel of Bobby Isaac's old K&K Dodge, turned in the second fastest lap Wednesday, 158.450 mph.

With all the top NASCAR drivers on hand for Sunday's race, plus a handful of aces from the U. S. Auto Club, not to mention a car-smashing feud between Richard Petty and Bobby Allison, the National 500 is shaping up as the race of the year.

Petty and Allison have been at each other for the past few races, and, especially in the Wilkes 400 last week, have been given to smashing into each other's car at high speed.

In the first day of qualifying, only about 1.1 seconds differentiated the one-lap times of the top 12.

Joe Frasson of Golden Valley, Minn., was seventh in his Dodge with a 156.268 and Petty, in the red and blue STP Dodge, was eighth with 155.731.

Filling up the rest of the top 12 were Mercury drivers Benny Parsons with 155.159 and Cecil Gordon with 153.749; Pete Hamilton with a 153.741 in his Plymouth and Ford driver Donnie Allison with 153.557.

Foyt fared better than the other U. S. Auto Club drivers in the National 500 field. Bobby Unser said his car wasn't ready and didn't try to qualify Wednesday, but Roger McCluskey, Gordon Johncock and Cale Yarborough did try and didn't make the top 12.

They'll have another chance today, as positions 13-24 will be picked. Qualifying continues through Saturday.

Russian Sets Mark In Walking Event

Moscow (UPI) — Veniamin Soldatenko, silver medalist at the Munich Olympics, set a new world record in the 50 kilometer walking event Thursday, the Tass News Agency reported.

Soldatenko clocked 4:03:42.6 in a meet at Moscow's Central Army Club Stadium to better the 4:04:19.8 mark set by Peter Selzer of East Germany.

Weekend Basketball Tourneys

The Marin County Athletic League Class B and C basketball tournaments will be held at Drake and Terra Linda high schools, respectively, tomorrow and Saturday.

Five schools will participate in each tournament — San Rafael, Terra Linda, Redwood, Drake and Marin Catholic.

Each team will play four games under the "Acker system," in which each game consists of two normal-length quarters, and the tournament winner is the team with the greatest over-all margin between points scored and points allowed, without reference to the number of individual games won or lost. Regardless of the size of a victory, no team will be credited with more than a 12-point margin in any game, to prevent any team from running up the score.

Each tournament begins play at 4 p.m. tomorrow and will have four games tomorrow and four Saturday. The "C" tourney will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday and the "B" tourney at 5 p.m. Admission to both is free.

"B" and "C" basketball are programs designed to give shorter, younger pupils a chance to play. Eligibility is determined by an "exponent system" which takes into account age and height. "B" players are larger than "C" players.

Minor Leaguers Whip Seals In Bruising Game

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—The Salt Lake Golden Eagles of the Western Hockey League battled back from a two-goal deficit Wednesday to trounce the NHL California Golden Seals 5-3 in a brising exhibition game marred by 31 penalties.

The Seals took an early 2-0 lead in the first period on a pair of goals by Ivan Bolirev, but the Eagles' well-balanced front line hit the light three times in the second go-round and slammed in two more in the third.

Roger Bellerive, Dave Gilmour, Del Hall, Dave Amadio and Pete Vipond tallied once each for the minor leaguers, and center Angus Beck, a scrappy 160-pounder, racked up three assists.

Three players were thrown out of the game, two for fighting and one for arguing with the referee.

The win leaves the Eagles with a 4-0-1 exhibition mark, and the California club will open its regulation play Saturday with a 3-5-1 mark in preseason action.

Gabriel Says His Right Arm Feeling Better

Gabriel threw during a Ram workout Wednesday and said afterwards he was "very pleased."

"The arm is not very sore," said Gabriel, who is undergoing acupuncture tretments on his right elbow. "It felt pretty good" during practice, he said.

Gabriel played little in the Rams' loss to Atlanta last weekend. He hopes to start Sunday when Los Angeles hosts the San Francisco 49ers.

PREP NOTES

Night Soccer In San Rafael

By LEW CODDINGTON

Football left a hole, so soccer dashed through it and scored.

San Rafael and Terra Linda high schools will play the Marin County Athletic League's first night soccer game tomorrow at 6:30 (rather than 7, as originally scheduled).

San Rafael has the only lighted field in the county, and football normally occupies it on Friday nights, but this week is an exception. All MCAL grid tilts will be held Saturday afternoon.

In keeping with several other policies aimed at warding off any possible night violence, the number of night football dates this year has been markedly decreased. The field will be unused two Fridays (tomorrow and Oct. 20) and four consecutive Saturdays (this Saturday through Oct. 27) after dark.

Mving into the void left by football was the mutual brainstorm of Bill Monti and Bob Vasser, the soccer coaches at San Rafael and Terra Linda, respectively.

"The idea is to give the sport some exposure," said Monti. "A number of people who aren't able to see MCAL soccer during the day, such as parents, will be able to see it at night."

"There's really a lot of enthusiasm for this at Terra Linda," said Vasser, "and at Santa Venetia (Middle School in San Rafael), where I teach."

The last time a soccer game was held at San Rafael at night, it drew 3,200 people. Of course, that was the University of San Francisco against St. Louis University, but the fact remains that soccer interest is growing in Marin. By way of comparison, only about 400 showed up to watch USF and St. Louis play in San Francisco two days later.

TIME OFF — Novato and Tamalpais play only eight football games this season, instead of the usual nine. The Hornets are off this weekend and the Indians next weekend.

GOOD ONE — San Rafael's cross-country victory over Lowell of Sa Francisco Saturday, 20-36, was a good one for the Bulldogs' morale. "Lowell is the defending Triple-A (Academic Athletic Association) champion," said San Rafael coach Dave Dwight.

"The victory let the guys know they could beat some pretty goo teams. Redwood is so darn strong over here, sometimes it's easy to lose sight of the fact that other schools have strong teams and can beat good opponents."

Practice Goes Well For Cal, Stanford

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

STANFORD — Coach Jack Christiansen took his Stanford Cardinals behind closed doors Wednesday in preparing for Saturday's showdown with powerful Southern California.

"We had a secret practice inside the stadium to work out a few new wrinkles," said Christiansen. "Everything went along well on both offense and defense. The spirit is good and the players are working hard."

Defensive end Pierre Perreault missed practice because of a broken finger. But Christiansen said he would play against the Trojans with the finger in a splint. John Winesberry, the Cards' leading rusher, also was withheld with contact work while recuperating from leg bruises.

BERKELEY (UPI) — Jay Cruze quarterbacked the California varsity Wednesday during a spirited workout and scrimmage in preparation for the invasion of Ohio State Saturday.

Bear coach Mike White said he was pleased with the "intensity and concentration" shown in the practice session.

"We are much farther along at this point than we have been in previous weeks because we started working on the game plan much earlier," said White.

After the workout, the Bears elected wide receiver Steve Sweeney and 245-pound defensive tackle Bob Kampa as co-captains for the Ohio State game. Both are seniors.

Raider Back Coming Off Injury List

ALAMEDA, Calif. (UPI) — Running back Clarence Davis is coming off the injury list this week for the Oakland Raiders.

The speedy former USC tailback has been out of action for six weeks. He now will battle Charlie Smith and Don High Smith for the other running back. spot opposite Marv Hubbard.

Raider coach John Madden calls Davis "a complete football player" because he has learned to catch passes and block.

"The blocking hasn't been a problem for him because he played guard in high school," said Madden.

The Raiders returned to the practice field Wednesday after enjoying two days off. Madden gave the club the extra day of rest because the Raiders don't play until Monday night in Houston.

Oakland has been made an eight-point choice over the Oilers.

N.L. ROUNDUP

A Record For Reds' Carroll

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Clay Carroll saved the day and made history in the process.

Carroll earned his 37th save Wednesday night—a major league record—while Dave Concepcion doubled and homered to lead Cincinnati to a 4-2 victory over Houston.

Five Reds' pitchers—Pedro Borbon, Jack Billingham, Jim McGlothlin, Tom Hall and Clay Carroll—shared the mound duties, scattering seven hits.

The victory went to McGlothlin, who pitched three innings and was nicked for one unearned run. Carroll earned his 37th save with a scoreless ninth inning.

Concepcion homered with one out in the fourth inning to put the Reds on top, 2-1 and a third run scored in the fifth on Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly. The RBI was the 125th of the season—tops in the majors—for Bench.

In other National League games, Philadelphia shaded Chicago 2-1, San Francisco downed San Diego 6-4, Los Angeles stopped Atlanta 4-1, New York defeated Montreal 31 and St. Louis edged Pittsburgh 4-3.

Deron Johnson hit a pinch-hit home run in the eighth inning to give the Philadelphia Phillies a season-ending victory over the Chicago Cubs behind the four-hit pitching of Barry Lersch.

Chicago's Billy Williams had a triple in three at bats and won the National League batting title with a .333 average, the first Cub to lead the league since Phil Cavaretta in 1945.

Steve Yeager drove in three runs with a two-run homer and solo homer to help Claude Osteen notch his 20th victory of the season in 31 decisions as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Atlanta Braves.

The St.Louis Cardinals scored four unearned runs in the fifth inning and went on to beat the Pitttsburgh Pirates as Bob Gibson won his 19th in 30 decisions.

Gibson, who singled home the first run in the rally, fanned 11 and finished this year with 208 strikeouts.

Bucs, Oakland Tabbed To Win

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—The Harrah's Tahoe race book Wednesday named Oakland and Pittsburgh 6-5 favorites to win their playoff contests against Detroit and Cincinnati.

Oakland won the pennant in the American League West while Pittsburgh took the National League East. Detroit was the winner in the AL East while Cincinnati captured the NL West.

The New York Yankees this summer retired uniform number eight, the number worn for many years by catcher Yogi Berra.

TREVINO TALKS GOLF

Keep It Short

By LEE TREVINO

Sometimes your putting touch waves adios, amigo, as mine does occasionally. You can't get it back in the Want Ads, either. You have to hitch up your pants, stake out a place on the putting green and wear out a couple of putters.

Putting is confidence. To regain my confidence I start working with 10-footers. But first I place a shoe or shag bag about four inches behind the ball. This forces me to use a short backswing and, as a result, to hit the ball crisply.

Ninety per cent of all golfers take their putters back too far. Then they quit at the ball and it squirts off to the left.

Train yourself to put some action — some overspin — on the ball by placing a barrier a few inches behind your putter. Take it back short and you'll hit out and through your putts.

Trying for a long, graceful putting stroke causes a loss of control and direction. Your muscles know the backswing is too long, and this causes a subconscious tendency to slow down the putter just as it strikes the ball.

It's like throwing a punch at a policeman. Even before you hit him you know it was a lousy idea.

Rancho Cotate Petaluma Win Cross Country

Petaluma High School won both ends of a double-dual cross country meet in Vallejo yesterday, beating Vallejo, 17-41, 17-41, and Vintage of Napa, 16-42, to run its North Bay League record to 4-0.

In other Southern Sonoma cross country action yesterday, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park beat visiting Analy of Sebastopol, 23-32, to give the Cougars a 2-1 Sonoma County League mark.

Ryan Is Year's Strikeout King

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

It was a rather disappointing year statistically for American League batters, but it might have been a lot better if Nolan Ryan had remained in the other league.

Only six batters hit .300 or better in the AL this season with Rod Carew of Minnesota winning his second batting title with a .318 average. Also, no American Leaguer hit 40 homers or drove in 120 runs and not one player had 190 hits.

Dick Allen of the Chicago White Sox, acquired last winter from the National League, captured the home run title with 37 and the RBI crown with 113 even though he was given the final week of the season off by management.

Ryan had a great deal to do with the low hitting totals. Ryan, acquired from the New York Mets by the California Angels last winter in exchange for Jim Fregosi, became this year's Vida Blue and established himself as the most feared right-hander in the league.

Ryan, who was beaten 2-1 by Oakland Wednesday night in quest for victory No. 20, nevertheless finished the game as the fourth greatest strikeout pitcher in major league history. He struck out 10 to boost his big league total to 329 for the season, a record that has been bettered by only Sandy Koufax (382 in 1965), Rube Waddell (349 in 1904) and Bob Feller (348 in 1946).

Ryan also struck out 10 or more batters in a game on 17 occassions this season, equalling the major league record set by Sam McDowell of Cleveland (now the Giants) in 1965.

Ryan finished the season with a 19-16 record for a team that won only 75 games, and he was easily the most difficult pitcher in the majors to hit. Ryan pitched 294 innings and gave up 166 hits, which averaged out to only 5.1 hits per nine innings.

Actually Ryan robbed himself of his 20th victory Wednesday night when he threw wildly on an attempted pickoff play in the seventh inning, allowing pinch-runner Allen Lewis to reach second. Lewis then stole third and scored on pinch-hitter Don Mincher's two-out single. That was typical of Ryan's luck this year. In six of his lossess he allowed the opposition three runs or less but in all six the 'ngels were shut out.

In other AL games, Boston beat Detroit 4-1, Milwaukee blanked New York 1-0, Kansas City shut out Texas 4-0 and Minnesota routed Chicago 14-2. Cleveland and Baltimore completed their seasons Tuesday.

Marty Pattin tossed a four-hitter for Boston as the Red Sox beat the AL East Division champs. Both teams went with rookie lineups with the Tigers having clinched the AL East Tuesday night by taking the first two games of a three-game set with the Red Sox. The two teams each finished with 70 losses but the difference was the one extra game the Tigers got to play by virtue of the players strike which delayed the start of the season.

Ed Brinkman of the Tigers established a major league record for fewest errors by a shortsop when he finished the season with only seven miscues.

Jim Lonborg allowed only three hits and Johnny Briggs dove in the game's only run with a sacrifice fly in the fourth inning as the Brewers nipped the Yankees.

Seagram's 7 Crown. It's America's whiskey.

At times like these, more Americans drink and enjoy 7 Crown than the leading Scotch and Canadian combined. And they do so for one reason: the taste. A consistent lightness and smoothness that has convinced millions of Americans that they can Say Seagram's and Be Sure.

Thank you, America, for making our whiskey your whiskey.

Prices Fall Sharply In Active Trading

Two hour volume came to around 7.8 million shares, including a mammoth block of 1,036,000 shares of B.F. Goodrich at 27 3-4, off 1-4. The Goodrich block had been expected and was crossed by Salomon Bros. for Northwest Industries. The transaction represented 40 per cent of Northwest's holdings in the firm and was the seventh largest block trade in NYSE history. Goodrich led the active list on the Big Board.

Analysts said the market's inability to sustain an advance was indicative of the waning interest in issues with high price-earnings ratios. Analysts contend that until P-E. multiples "come down to more respectable levels,"

Prices also were broadly lower on the American Stock Exchange. Condec led the list and was off 1-2 to 7 1-4 on 31,500 shares.

"Instead of dwelling tediously on the past, at this year's meeting we shall contemplate the dynamic future."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Ozite Prospect Is Picking Up

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate your opinion of Ozite Corp. stock (OTC) which I purchased at around $15. Do you suggest I hold, sell or average down? — J.Z.

A. Ozite Corp. is one of the leading manufacturers of indoor-outdoor carpeting and as such is slowly benefiting from the boom in homebuilding and accompanying furnishings. Evidence of this is the firm's June 30 quarter results which saw sales ahead 12 per cent to $21.9 million and earnings per share up 15 per cent to 47 cents.

This represents a vast improvement over Ozite's first quarter 1972 loss of 11 cents a share and 1971's 3 cents profit. Six-month 1972 statistics equaled $39.5 million in sales and 36 cents in profits versus $36.2 million and 44 cents, respectively, in 1971.

Aided by new product introduction and the growth in the home furnishings market, full-year estimates are placed in the $1/share area giving Ozite a modest 10x earnings multiple — certainly undervalued on future prospects. Hold/Buy.

Q. I bought Dennison Mfg. around $35 a share and am wondering if this was a wise long-term move. What is the present situation and should I hold or sell? — J.S.

A. Hold. The present and future picture here is encouraging. Big Board-listed Dennison recently wrapped up an impressive second quarter as revenues and earnings scored significant gains. Company recorded a 9 per cent revenue increase to $43.8 million, while earnings were posted at 72 cents a share, up nearly 11 per cent.

This brought first-half revenues to $83.2 million and net income to $1.26 a share. Primarily responsible for this good showing was continued improvement in the firm's retail marketing and attaching systems, copier products and international operations.

Two acquisitions are nearing completion which are expected to greatly complement existing Dennison lines and add close to $4 million in combined sales during the next 12 months. Profits should continue to improve during the balance of 1972 with earnings conservatively projected in the $2.75/share vicinity.

At 12 times this estimate, shares offer recovery potential from present quotes and may be retaine.

2 Convicted In Murder Of Carr

SAN JOSE (UPI) — Two Southern California men were convicted Wednesday on all three counts in the murder of James Carr, the former cellmate of George Jackson and former bodyguard of Huey Newton.

A jury of eight women and four men deliberated 2 1-2 hours and then returned the guilty verdict against Lamar Lloyd Mims, 21, Los Angeles, and Richard Rodriquez, 22, Baldwin Park, the holder of a Silver Star for bravery in the Vietnam War. They were charged with first degree murder, conspiracy to commit murder and firebomb possession.

Carr, 29, was shot down in the driveway of his San Jose home April 6. He was a bodyguard to Newton when he and the Black Panther cofounder were at the state men's colony at San Luis Obispo. He also served time at San Quentin, where he met Jackson, the black prison revolutionary who was one of the "Soledad Brothers" and who was killed in what authorities said was an aborted escape at San Quentin Aug. 21, 1971.

Carr's mother-in-law is also a close friend of Angela Davis.

"A lot of (the evidence) was circumstantial but there was so much of it," one juror, who asked to remain unidentified, explained after the verdict was delivered. He said the jurors felt the prosecution had presented a strong case and the defense had put on a weak case. He added that an expense account ledger was one of the most damaging pieces of evidence.

The ledger aided the prosecution contention that Mims and Rodriquez were hired killers. As part of the 117 exhibits presented, the prosecution showed a ledger with lists of everything the two men spent close to the time of the killing. Still unanswered is who paid for the killing.

Lawyers of both men said they would appeal the verdict.

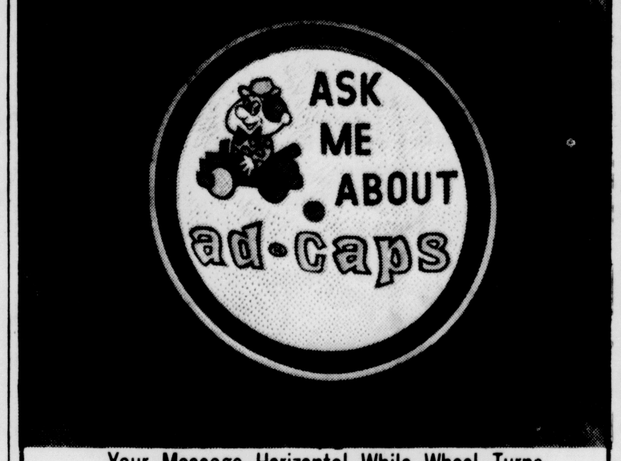

'Frag' Witness On The Stand

FT. ORD, Calif. (UPI)—The final prosecution witness in the "fragging" court martial of Pvt. Billy D. Smith testified Wednesday that a grenade pin found in Smith's pocket came from a grenade that killed two officers in Vietnam.

Smith, 24, of Los Angeles, is charged with murder in the first U.S. court martial of a soldier for a "fragging" incident in the war zone.

Otis Hensley, a warrant officer in the Army's crime lab at Ft. Gordon, Ga., testified that his microscope studies showed tiny "tool markings" on the grenade had been made when it was pulled out of the hole in the "spoon" or handle of the grenade.

Three Propositions Deal With Disabled

Three propositions having to do with benefits for the disabled will be on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Two of them are very similar, although both were put on the ballot by the Legislature. These are Propositions 10 and 12, having to do with tax exemption for blind veterans.

PROPOSITION 10 would increase the property tax exemption for veterans who are blind due to service-connected disabilities from $5,000 to $10,000.

The 1970, voters approved a similar increase in property tax exemption for paraplegic veterans. Proposition 9 would bring blind veterans to "parity" in this respect.

Proposition 12 would also increase the tax exemption for blind veterans to $10,000, but would do more. It also would grant a $10,000 tax exemption to any veteran who lost use of both arms or one arm and one leg through service-connected disabilities. And it would continue the exemption for the surviving spouse after the veteran's death.

Both would amend the same section of the Constitution, so the two measures are in conflict. In this situation, if both pass, that receiving the highest approving vote will become law.

WE THINK IT unfortunate that the Legislature put two such conflicting proposals on the same ballot.

We would tend to favor Proposition 10, which does not include extending the tax exemption to the surviving spouse, and therefore would urge its approval.

PROPOSITION 13 concerns workmen's compensation.

It provides that when an employee covered by workmen's compensation is killed in an industrial accident, but leaves no dependent, his death benefit be paid to the state.

The state would then use this money to pay for extra benefits for other workers who receive workmen's compensation for partial disability but have additional disability not covered by the plan because it is not related to the insured employment. Such persons already receive the additional payment but funds for it must come from the state general fund.

Proposition 13 would change existing practice because it would mean that one employer would have to pay to the state death benefits which the state would then use to pay added compensation to employees of other employers. The Constitution does not now permit this.

The present system seems to be working. Extending an employer's responsibility to someone else's employees, even by this indirect method, does not appear equitable.

We recommend that Proposition 13 be rejected.

Carp As Pets

With the emergence of Japan as a great economic power and the coming of age of China as a member of the world community, interest in things Oriental is in one of its periodic rises.

One very Oriental thing which is currently interesting people in Marin is the keeping of carp in outdoor ponds. These fish, relatives of the goldfish, attain a length of about a foot and are a variety of colors and color mixes. They can be taught to come to be fed and eat from one's hand.

Some people think they are an ideal pet because they don't bark, bite, scratch or make a nuisance of themselves.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

Paying Counties To Keep Criminals On Streets

By EARL G. WATERS

The disparity between the rising crime rate and the diminishing prison populations has been most perplexing.

At first it was explained that there really weren't more crimes being committed, it was just that there was better reporting of crimes by local jurisdictions to the FBI and CII, which made it seem the rate was increasing.

As time went by and this explanation wore thin with the continuing crime rate increase, it was represented the Legislature was responsible. It had passed tougher laws making felonies out of misdemeanors and creating new crimes.

Pressed on this point, penologists altered and claimed the rehabilitation program was working so well that fewer offenders were coming back.

Lately the reasons given are that, unlike the old days when prison sentences were almost automatic for felons, enlightened use of probation has relieved the state of the burden of imprisoning those guilty of relatively minor offenses. Only the real criminals are being sent up. Besides, the statistics are distorted due to the high percentage of felonies related solely to drugs, especially marijuana.

These last statements come closest to the truth. The fact is that a large percentage of felony convictions involve drugs. The further fact is that fewer felons are drawing prison terms.

Delving into this oddity of more crime but fewer prison inmates, State Sen. Bill Richardson, R-Arcadia, has found reason to question the application of probation and its wide use.

Disregarding the drug offenders, he found that in Los Angeles County crimes against persons have more than doubled in the past five years. These are the violent crimes of murder, armed robbery, assault and rape. Crimes against property (principally burglary) increased similarly. Statewide crimes against property have nearly tripled in that period.

Despite this terrible increase, Richardson found that prison commitments from Los Angeles have had no appreciable rise in that period.

Richardson puts his finger on the state's program of grants to local government of from $2,800 to $4,000 for each felon not sent to prison. The program deals in statistics, not persons.

The idea was that offenders could be better rehabilitated by keeping them in their home communities than by imprisonment. It would also save the state the $6,000 per year or more cost per prison inmate. The practice has become one of meting out county jail sentences as a condition of probation in place of prison.

Under this system Los Angeles County collected more than $9 million last year. But the money is required to be spent on probation supervision. None of the funds goes to the sheriff to meet his costs. In addition to increased jail operation costs, Los Angeles County is now building a new wing to the county jail at a cost of $31 million. It is predicted that if the current probation program continues, another new wing will be needed shortly after the completion of the one new building.

Worse than that, as Richardson points out, is the fact that hardened criminals and perpetrators of violent crime, who were formerly locked up in state prison, are now roaming the streets committing new crimes while on probation.

"Here's the fireplace and the cigarette holder. Now what are we going to call that dog?"

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

The war on privilege will never end. Its next great campaign will be against the special privileges of the underprivileged. — H. L. Mencken.

"There is absolutely no reason to get our hopes up. . . Aw, fellas, cut that out!"

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Judge Commended For Enlightenment

If my understanding of crime, justice, and punishment is correct, there are four levels of procedural application: law enforcement, nothing more or less, competent and just defense for the accused, justice tempered with mercy, and last but not least in importance, viable rehabilitation.

It is with respect to this, that I would like to commend Judge Warren E. McGuire for his enlightened application of justice in the case of a 26-year-old ex-convict. In suspending the 18-month sentence, justice was better served by having this man serve his time at the Delancey Street Foundation. In view of the strong law and order syndrome pervading the country, this took a certain amount of intestinal fortitude. I would have liked to commend the deputy district attorney. . . for the same enlightenment. However, in all good conscience I cannot.

According to the article of Sept. 26 on page 29, he stated, ". . . a man would promise to live in Siberia for two years in order to avoid prison." Yet, this same officer of the court recommended prison. If he is right in his presumption, that doesn't say much for our own prison system. It's that kind of 18th century thinking that perpetuates the dehumanizing process in the penal system throughout this country today.

What If Proposed Park Replaces Army?

We certainly enjoyed Pat Angle's column Monday, about turning all of Marin into a national park. As we read her farciful account, however, we realized that the last laugh is on us. That is those of us who actually live on the three forts in Marin that will be in this park. It is our homes that face being leveled. I can just see those at Fort Barry torn down and paved over as a giant parking lot for Winnebaxos — lots more tourist money for San Francisco that way.

Our areas are already joint use by the public. Do other Marinites ever think, in the close and pleasant drive to the beach past Rodeo Lagoon, who is now maintaining those roads, picking up the beer cans, and patrolling the area to keep it nearly crime-free?

What will happen when the Army is thrown out? Will these areas become, like Kirby Cove, closed to the general public because the department then responsible doesn't have the money to develop, much less maintain them? When, as Pat suggests, we are allowed to visit our former homes, on certain weekdays and hours, will we find 101 as impassable as Bridgeway in Sausalito? How much will we be charged to park and fish off the Fort Baker dock?

I just hope that there are a few I-J readers who, while applauding the grand concept of this vast park, give a tiny thought to those Marinites most directly affected who will lose everything.

Hanoi's Prisoner Propaganda Transparent

I hope by this time Hanoi's charade with the 3 freed POWs is apparent to everyone. The transparency of their game wore thinner with each day of stalling before they allowed the men and their families to leave Hanoi.

Hanoi says they detained the POWs because of the U.S. insistance the men be handed over to them. I can say that because my husband is still in a camp in North Vietnam, I would hope the military services can debrief these men as quickly as possible. They undoubtedly have information about fellow POWs and the military is the only one qualified to collect, evaluate and disseminate this information.

The claim that U.S. inerference with this release could jeopardize further releases is intended for the ears of those people who don't know better than to believe it. Hanoi will or won't release POWs as it suits their propaganda purposes, just as they have done in the past — the last time three years ago.

I hope the American people can see through Hanoi's game into the cells and cages of the other Americans in Laos, South Vietnam and North Vietnam where no outsiders have been allowed.

San Anselman Finds Times Frightening

Doesn't it kinda frighten you some times to read of the violence and disrespect for law and order and the rights of others; and the lack of control by law enforcement agencies, who receive so little support from the courts, who seem to be more concerned for the rights of the criminal than those of the many law abiding citizens, who it seems should have some rights, too?

I'll admit that it does frighten me. How the high courts, headed by men (most of whom have never even been judges) can twist the Constitution to make it fit the situation, when it seems so obvious the intention of those great Americans — Franklin, Hamilton, Jefferson, Washington, et al — all true Americans, who gave so much to see this nation flourish.

They must be turning in their graves. It is illegal to have prayer in schools now, and this nation was born of God, the Great Architect of the Universe.

How long will it be before we awaken to the fact that without God nothing will long endure? And they call it a "democracy" now. This is government by the people, and from the looks of things, I guess they're right. But, it is supposed to be a republic — government by representation.

I hope we don't awaken too late.

TODAY'S WORLD

"I wouldn't be surprised if you two are planning on slipping away before the reception."

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Politicians always have solutions for problems we wouldn't have if there were no politicians.

The campaign trail is paved with brickbats.

No candidate can be as good as he claims or as bad as his opponent says he is.

If a citizen were to believe all the campaign oratory he's subjected to, he'd end up voting against everybody.

What's In Store For Connally? Surely Not Secretary Of State!

WASHINGTON — What will be John Connally's reward for rounding up dissident Democrats for Nixon? That this is merely an exercise for the public good, with no relation to the centers of Washington power, strains credibility against the track record of the hard-driving former secretary of the treasury.

He may, the rumors persist, be secretary of defense. Or, farthest out, he could become in the second term secretary of state. He was asked at one point about a rumor that he would head the U.S. delegation in the second round of the nuclear disarmament talks.

THE REPORT about state defies belief. In his tour in the treasury, Connally played the rough, tough Texan role and thereby offended many of America's trading partners. It was the Texas bull in the financial crockery shop, where the dollar in large surplus in the reserves of major trading nations is one of the fragile objects.

In taking charge in August, 1971, of the President's drastic shakeup of America's monetary system, Connally seemed to many foreign bankers and money men to be following a take-it-or-leave-it line. In his bold way he was knocking heads together with a proposed 10 per cent import surtax, a devaluation of the dollar, and a demand that measures be taken to correct unfavorable American trade balances.

One consequence was widespread indignation, particularly in Canada and Japan, the United States' principal trading partners. Granted, the huge trade imbalance called for radical correctives. Yet, here was a sudden shot fired without warning at the troubled and uncertain complex of money and trade.

Thus far the effect on the lopsided trade balance has been small. Surplus dollars continue to pile up in foreign treasuries. Japan alone has $14 billion that are more or less frozen under present restraints.

THE-GO-IT-ALONE, take-it-or-leave-it tack of Secretary Connally has had a further consequence in the effort to force the managing director of the International Monetary Fund, Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, to step out at the end of his present term. This is an office at the command of the 20 directors of the fund, an important agency groping for a solution of the money tangle that happens to be located in Washington. It should not be subject to the wishes of a single member of IMF, however powerful that member may be. And this was the source of resentment widely expressed in private during the fund's annual session here last week.

The effort to dislodge Schweitzer is traceable to a confrontation with Connally. The two, the highly knowledgeable international civil servant and the bold Texan, were bound to be at odds. Schweitzer once remarked that just for pure bravura performance, he would be happy to pay for a close-up seat to watch Connally in action.

While this may not loom large in America's international relationships, it is highly significant as a symbol of a nationalistic go-it-alone trend in policy. One of the wisest observers of the United States' role in the world for more than 50 years, Hamilton Fish Armstrong, the retiring editor of the distinguished journal, Foreign Affairs, makes a cogent, point. In an article in the 50th anniversary number he says the United States today is not isolationist but isolated.

HE CALLS the war in Vietnam the most calamitous in our history, rushed from small beginnings to an appalling multitude of horrors. The methods we have used in fighting the war have scandalized and disgusted public opinion in almost all foreign countries. "Not since we withdrew into comfortable isolation in 1920," Armstrong concludes, "has the prestige of the United States stood so low." One reason is the unilateral effort, without prior consultation, to turn money and trade around.

Connally's scholarly successor at Treasury, George P. Shultz, presented the fund with a series of proposals to make the dollar more flexible in the hope of paring down the trade imbalance. For the long-overdue proposals, the world's money men were duly grateful.

National Mood Of Apathy Makes Nixon Appear Runaway

What is the American mood, and what has created it?

It is mainly a mood of disinterest. Or, to put it grandiosely, a mood of counter-revolution, of clinging to what we have, of fear of more disruptive change.

In the late 1960's, the United States had a very turbulent time. Suddenly, the period of counter-cultural protest slowed almost to a halt. For the moment, a feeling much closer to apathy prevails.

This is what nearly always happens after a violent emotional experience. It happened to Americans after the tremendous output of energy in World Wars I and II. The United States has had its touch of "revolution." The trauma has had its effect. Now we are resting.

SENATOR McGOVERN was able to mobilize the energies of the minority counter-cultural movement and capture the Democratic nomination. He still has his ardent supporters, those in particular who are appalled by the moral outrages of the Vietnam War and challenged by the great amount of domestic unfinished business. The idealism, almost the utopianism, of this minority of Americans was well expressed in the terms by which the New York Times endorsed Senator McGovern's candidacy the other day.

Had Senator McGovern managed a better alliance with the regular elements of his party, had he avoided the pitfalls in his vice-presidential selection, had he presented his reform program more consistently and convincingly, had his campaign shown administrative skill and strength, he might have become a very formidable candidate, despite the prevailing reactionary mood. Perhaps, in the weeks that remain, he will improve his position measureably.

It will be an uphill job. The "haves" in the United States are very strong: the unblack, un-young, un-poor. And many of those who recognize the need for fundamental change — and they are not few — prefer evolutionary rather than revolutionary change. They tend fragmentally toward what President Nixon called "change that works." They are not persuaded of the soundness of the McGovern recipes for change.

THIS DOMINANT mood of apathy, of moral disinterest, may not last long. It could be only a temporary breathing-spell. The basic problems are still there. The specific challenges are still there, including particularly the deep as well as the surface moral outrages. The war goes on, and the bombing. The fantastic Watergate episode is unexplained. The channeling of Republican money via Texas to Mexico City and back is unclarified. The crowding of funds into GOP coffers just before the legal deadline remains unsatisfactorily explained. The apparent tip-offs on wheat sales are not cleared up. So it goes.

With the immense sums now pouring into the Republican campaign chests, many naturally ask what favors will be expected in the future. The ITT case is remembered. The oil industry is a heavy contributor, and its long-standing tax benefits supported by both parties are recalled. Vice President Agnew's startling change of style, his explicit repudiation of his past rhetoric and role, puzzles many.

These and many other elements remain latent in the national consciousness, even if they have slight apparent effect on electoral prospects today.

IT COULD BE that during the present lull, a very real head of steam could build up. The nation knows it has unsolved problems. It knows its expenditures for the military, and the alliance between the Defense Department and industry are inordinate and just as dangerous today as President Eisenhower said they would be. It knows the welfare system must be drastically overhauled. It knows that tax reform is badly overdue. It knows that new goals and priorities for a higher quality of life in the United States need to be defined and worked for.

The next President of the United States cannot coast along on a wave of national self-satisfaction. To the contrary, he could and should be a great reformer. He will have an historic challenge and opportunity to help the United States save itself.

On Wall Street, It's Now The Kissinger Mood Market

WASHINGTON — As everyone knows, Henry Kissinger has an overwhelming effect on America's foreign policy. But what wasn't recognized until recently is that he also seems to be responsible for the health of the stock market.

A broker friend on Wall Street named Jeckel told me, "It's now a Kissinger market. The prices of stocks go up and down depending on how Wall Street reads Kissinger."

"How is that?"

"REMEMBER LAST week the market was down. Then Kissinger flew off to Paris to meet with the North Vietnamese. The market went up. He was supposed to stay for 24 hours. When he extended the stay, the market went up again. When he came back, he was smiling at the airport; the market went up.

"Then he was photographed a day later walking out of the White House frowning. Immediately the market went down."

"You mean the brokers are now buying and selling depending on Kissinger's mood?"

ONE OF JECKEL'S partners came over to the desk. He was carrying a newspaper. "What do you make of this?" Jeckel looked at a photograph on the front page. It was a picture of Henry with a beautiful blonde attending a concert.

"He looks pretty happy," Jeckel said. "I think we ought to advise our clients to buy."

"But wait a minute," the partner said. "Is he happy because he's with the blonde, or is he happy because he's got a peace deal cooking with Hanoi?"

Jeckel picked up the magnifying glass and studied the photograph. "It's the same grin he used when he got off the plane from Paris. I think it's a peace grin."

THE PARTNER turned to me. "You know Kissinger. Does he look like he got something out of his Paris trip, or does he look like he's just looking forward to a nice evening?"

I borrowed the magnifying glass. "It's hard to say. I've seen Kissinger grinning like that when he came back from Paris empty-handed. Sometimes he hates to show his feelings.

"At the same time he may have made some progress with the North Vietnamese and none with the blonde."

Jeckel said, "I think we should put in an order for IBM, Eastman Kodak and American Airlines, just in case."

The partner said, "It's pretty risky on the basis of a newspaper photograph. If we could see him on TV we could get a better idea of his mood."

The two brokers grabbed the paper. "Oh, my God, Henry's frowning," Jeckel said.

"But Nixon is grinning," the partner said. "How do you read that?"

I studied the picture. "The way I read it, Kissinger didn't get a deal in Paris and he had no luck with the blonde, either. Nixon probably thinks the second part of that is very funny."

Critics Of Death Ban Draw Blast

BERKELEY (UPI) —Chief Justice Donald R. Wright of the California Supreme Court today criticized commentators and political figures" who denounced the court for its decision banning the death penalty.

Wright did not mention names, but a frequent critic has been Gov. Ronald Reagan, who appointed Wright to his job.

Writing in the California Law Review, Wright noted that critics say the court usurped the legislative function, and he said the criticism is incorrect and misleading.

"Our duty was to resolve the constitutional question, regard less of its difficulty or magnitude," he said. "That was the very core of our judicial responsibility. We could not, in good conscience, avoid the problem by deferring to any other court or any other branch of government."

People might disagree with the court, Wright said, but they should not challenge "our duty to make the determinations on the constitutional problem with which we were confronted."

Wright said critics often ask why State Supreme Court justices, appointed for long terms, should be permitted to outlaw the acts of elected officials.

"This approach embraces a simple and unsophisticated concept of democracy wherein the government's only function is to effectuate the majority will. Personally, I view democracy as being much more complicated."

The chief justice said the Constitution protects minority rights, sometimes against the "tyranny" of the majority.

"When forces within our system would abridge these rights, the courst must intervene and protect those who have proved unable to protect themselves."

And Wright said a court must act promptly, whenever a litigant brings it a constitutional challenge.

"A court cannot wait until the public pressure which instigated passage of a particular law has subsided, or until enough energy has been generated for repeal of a particular piece of legislation."

Novato Council Not Meeting

The Novato City Council will not meet tonight, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal, to discuss the recent state Supreme Court decision on the environmental impact of developments.

The council, meeting Tuesday night, had scheduled such a session earlier in the meeting, but then later called it off. The group's next meeting will be an adjourned session at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Roman Furnaces Unearthed In Dig

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — At least 12 Roman furnaces have been unearthed in a dig off Manchester's Deansgate.

"These undoubtedly are the earliest traces of industrial Manchester," said Professor Barri Jones, 36, professor of archeology at Manchester University.

Bone Often Used Instead Of Silicone

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Many plastic surgeons now prefer to use a person's own bone —taken from hip to ribs — rather than silicone in reconstructing parts of the body, it was reported yesterday.

The trouble with silicone is that it "begins wearing through" to the outside of the body as soon as it is implanted, according to Dr. David G. Dibble, Dr. Donald R. Laub and Dr. Richard P. Jobe, who participated in a panel discussion at the American College of Surgeons meeting.

Laub said the use of silicone "has become over-extended." He said that while the inert substance is still used by many doctors and is still good medical technique, "we are now finding limitations."

The substance does not stick to the body tissue where it is implanted and gradually wears —"mechanically eroding its way through body tissue," according to Dibbell.

Dr. Jobe said the choice of silicone or bone for plastic surgery depends mainly on the familiarity of the surgeon with the two techniques. He noted that even there is a difficulty with using bone, too.

Underinflated Tires 'Can Cost Millions'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Car owners are wasting millions of dollars a year by not keeping car tires properly inflated, a government official said Wednesday.

Commerce Undersecretary James T. Lynn said a survey showed that "over-and-under inflation" of tires increased the probability of blowouts and sharply reduced tire mileage.

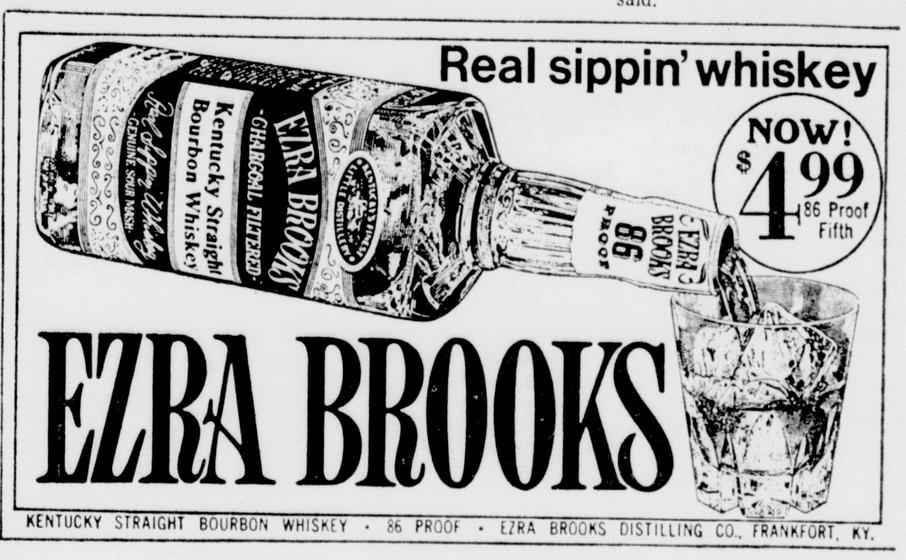

"Americans will spend an estimated $4.9 billion this year to buy some 148 million new replacement tires," Lynn said. He said there was a 5 per cent loss in tire tread due to improper inflation, meaning the loss to the consumer "amounts to $250 million."

Lynn predicted the loss could be cut if the government acted on a report by the National Business Council For Consumer Affairs.

The new report recommends that the government coordinate a program to "assure accurate readings" on air gauges in gasoline stations.

Lynn said the Commerce Department already had asked the National Conference on Weights and Measures to design "appropriate programs" based on the council reports.

The industry, including the Tire Industry Safety Council, the American Automobile Association and the American Petroleum Institute, has pledged to support a campaign to educate drivers on the value of properly inflated tires, Lynn said.

Reed Enrollment Is Down By 13

Enrollment at Reed School District's seven schools is only 13 less than last year's total of 1,883, Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello told trustees Tuesday night.

Because the district had worked on a predicted enrollment of 1,770 requests for more teacher aides, equipment and furniture will be made at future meetings, said Giovannello.

Enrollment in the Reed district dropped by 82 students last year, and by 62 the previous year, he explained, so it had been expected that the decrease would continue to accelerate.

He said the official enrollment count expected tomorrow may bring the total up to last year's.

The Reed School District Board also:

INVENTORY: — Heard a report by Business Mgr. Charles Conrad that an inventory and appraisal survey of district equipment and furniture had shown it to be under-insured.

VISIT — Asked the superintendent to arrange trustee visits to all school plants on Oct. 28 if it was convenient to the entire board.

BALLOT — Cast its ballot for Sally Rackow as representative to the delegate assembly of the California School Boards Association.

AIDE — Hired Joan Nagle as a three-hour teacher aide at Granada School at $2.50 an hour.

MEETING — Set its next meeting for Oct. 17 at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School, Tiburon.

Burglary Case Sentence Given

Robert Elton Yates, 18, of San Rafael, has been ordered to serve six months in jail for being an accessory to a burglary.

Judge David Menary Jr., who heard Yates's trial in August, placed the youth on probation for three years, ordered him to pay $10 restitution and told him to continue classes at College of Marin.

Yates was arrested after an electric drill and power saw stolen March 2 from the home of Cary W. Martin of 21 Mount Lassen Drive, Marinwood, were pawned at San Rafael Loan Co.

Bishop Who Aided In Strike Is Lauded

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI)—A Roman Catholic bishop who helped mediate settlement of a grape pickers strike has been lauded by Pope Paul VI for defending the rights of farm workers in California's San Joaquin Valley.

Bishop Hugh A. Donohoe of Fresno received the letter Tuesday commemorating his Oct. 7 silver jubilee as a bishop.

'Jogging Day' To Promote Interest In Open Space

A "Jog the Mountain Day" is being sponsored by the Larkspur Town Meeting on Saturday to promote public interest in preserving open space through the proposed Marin County regional park district.

All joggers are invited to take part, according to chairman Charles Brousse, and leaders will be members of the cross-country running teams from Redwood and Tamalpais high schools.

Holsten Changes Plea To Guilty

Vincent J. Holsten, 21, no known address, has changed his plea to guilty of burglary on condition a probation officer determines whether he goes to prison.

Holsten admitted the felony after Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court agreed to sentence him to a year in jail unless the probation department recommends prison.

Holsten and Richard James Giakovmis, 19, of Fairfax, were arrested June 28 after San Anselmo police received a report they were removing the seats from a car belonging to Virginia Gillford of 437 Scenic Avenue.

Sunday Last Day For Registering

Sunday is the last day for registering to vote in the general election on Nov. 7.

Marin residents may register at all county fire departments and city halls. However, many of these will not be open on Sunday, so persons should attempt to register before then.

State To Appeal Ruling On News

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The state of California plans to appeal a federal court ruling requiring that San Quentin Prison inmates be allowed to talk to newsmen.

Deputy Attorney General George R. Nock said today that a motion for a rehearing will be filed with U.S. District Judge Spencer Williams, who made the ruling last Friday.

Williams' decision was made in a case filed by inmate Booker T. Hillery Jr., who was denied permission to hold an interview with Earth magazine.

WORD-A-DAY

'No' Vote Urged On Tennis Club Rezoning

The Tiburon Planning Commission has recommended the city council deny a request to rezone 5.5 acres of land on which the Belvedere Tennis Club wants to build two new courts.

The club asked the city to rezone from single-family residential to park use.

Such a change would mean the club would only need the approval of the design review board for its expansion. If the land remains in an R-1 zone, however, the tennis club must seek a use permit from the city council.

Several residents of Palmer Avenue, saying they are disturbed by noise from the neighboring club facilities at 700 Tiburon Boulevard, protested the rezoning request at the commission meeting Monday night.

Following a discussion of the subject, the commission urged the council to deny the request and maintain tighter planning control over the parcel.

The request will come before the city council and, even if it is denied, the club can seek a use permit in the R-1 zone for its new courts.

Prisoners Will Vote For President

JERSEY CITY, N.J.(UPI)—In September, state Deputy Attorney General G. Robert Wills ruled that prisoners on parole or probation and those not sentenced on indictable offenses could register to vote for the president and vice president.

Tuesday, 61 prisoners lined up in the gymnasium of the Hudson County Jail to register. All but one succeeded. The one was rejected as a voter because he was a British subject.

Bench Warrant Issued In Theft

Marin Superior Court Judge Samuel W. Gardiner has ordered a bench warrant without bail for the arrest of Raymond Herbert Barnes of Oakland, who failed to appear for a pretrial conference Tuesday.

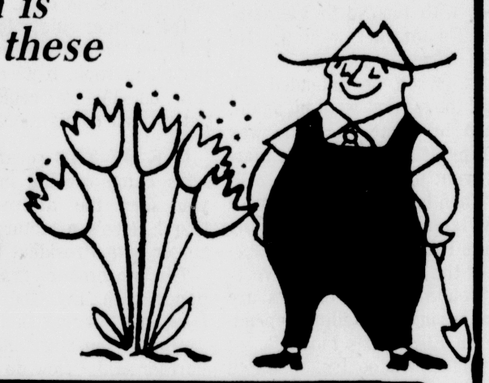

Barnes, 21, was arrested last December, two months after he allegedly took $69 from Christ the Victor Lutheran Church.

Gallery Employee Reports Purse Theft

An employee of a San Rafael art gallery reported to police that her purse containing $449 worth of valuables was stolen Tuesday while she was on her lunch break.

Rebecca Dodge Dykstra of Sleepy Hollow said someone took her purse from a storage cabinet in the gallery at Dominic's Restaurant, 507 Francisco Boulevard. She said the purse contained $84 in cash, a $300 check and numerous credit cards.
